BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

GUARD YOUR THOUGHTS:— Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things.—Philippians 4: 8.

FOOTBALL AND SOLOMON

From our position way off in a distant corner of the bleachers it seems to us that in the game being played down on the field by the Southern Pacific and the Union Pacific teams with the Central Pacific as the football, there is an end that is possible without the retention of the ball by either. It may be that if we were nearer the side lines we would see or know that this end is not feasible. Nevertheless we offer it for the coaches to use or reject as they see fit.

While both the Union and the Southern ask for the Central, the chief end of each is different. The Union wants the Central in order to secure an entrance to the valley by way of the Natron pass and an extension of lines through Central Oregon. The Southern's chief argument for the retention of the Central is that it may continue to enjoy through line business from San Francisco to Portland. The Union has never expressed any interest in the California lines of the Central. The Southern, it seems to us, has taken an interest in the Natron line of the Central only in order to secure favorable public opinion for its retention of the whole system.

Our suggestion is simple. Let the Union have the Natron line into the valley and possibly down to Klamath Falls; let the Southern retain that part of the Central that forms an integral part of its main line, that is, from Tehama, Cal., to the Oregon state line. The rest of the Central might probably go to the Southern, also.

We appreciate the fact that the settlement will be made by the commerce commission within the limitations laid down by the transportation act of 1920 and it may be that no such division of the Central is permissible. Unless, however, the law clearly forbids, this would seem to be a Solomonese way of dividing the baby to which neither mother could object.

For some time the forum meetings of the Commercial club have been of a perfunctory nature. There have been no questions of especial importance to be discussed and it has been something of a task to discover anything to talk about. Under the circumstances we venture to suggest a program that will fill a number of meetings. This is a discussion or debate on the nine measures to be voted on at the coming general election. Three of the measures are of such nature that general discussion is probably not worth while, but the other six can easily take the time of six meetings.

LIFE IS STRANGE

When a man determines to abjure punk habits which have made him poor, it seems that all the fates protest, and for his downfall do their best. My pastor often called me down for smoking pipes around the town. "O foul example for the young," he grimly said, "by you is sprung; the children see you burning grass, and imitate your curves, alas!" My doctor said, "You've smoked so long that all your works are going wrong." And so I cried, "I'll smoke no more, though smokeless days may be a bore." Before my vow had aged a day, a neighbor sought my door to say, "Your songs encourage and uplift, and so I've brought a little gift; a pipe of meerschaum, fair to see, and when you smoke it think of me." When he departed from my gate, there came another smiling skate, who said, "O Bard, your deathless rhymes have saved my life a thousand times! When I had chilblains and repeat, I rubbed your verses on my feet; and when my hair was falling out, and when I had the duplex gout, I took a madrigal of yours, and found it beat the drugstore cures! You are a sun among the stars, and so I've brought you some cigars, the kind that kings and princes use—they do not smell like burning shoes." You ask me if I kept my vow; don't bother me—I'm busy now.

Industrial court.

Tonight's session will be featured by the address of Lord Shaw of Dunfermline, and M. Henry Aubepin, the election of the general council, and the president's reception.

Last night Chief Justice Taft, the Hon. John W. Davis, former ambassador to Great Britain, and the Hon. George W. Wickersham delivered addresses before the California branch of the English Speaking Union, of which Taft was formerly president, and of which Davis is now honorary president.

Committee reports will be presented, discussed and acted on Friday.

Special attention was paid by the committee on professional ethics to the alleged abuses of "patent attorneys," who are advertising extensively.

Most of these "attorneys," the committee reported, are not attorneys-at-law, but are laymen who have standing merely as agents of inventors, and who are registered as "attorneys-in-fact" with the patent office. The committee declared that most of those who get into the hands of such attorneys believe they are obtaining legal advice when such is not the case.

The committee recommended that the commissioner of patents adopt a rule prohibiting the solicitation of business by such "registered patent attorneys," at least insofar as they describe themselves as "attorneys." The same recommendation was made in regard to laymen who advertise as "income tax attorneys."

The committee on International law made the important recommendation that the United States "find a way to make use of the international court of arbitration at The Hague, and participate in its labors, which the government of the United States can do without becoming a party to the league of nations as such."

You Always Know

There is no guesswork with the Estate Electric Range

No uncertainties. No mistakes. No disappointments.

In the first place, you know as a matter of scientific fact, just how much heat and how much time in the oven each kind of food should get. You are given a Copyrighted Cooking Chart which tells you this.

And you always know the heat of your oven, for the Estate Electric Range is equipped with a genuine mercury thermometer. This is not simply a "heat indicator," but an instrument of precision, graduated from 100 to 650 Fahrenheit.

Area and Coast Line of Brazil.

The total area of Brazil is estimated at 8,301,350 square miles. It has 4,000 miles of coast line, with many harbors, and the Amazon river system, which enables ocean going steamers to travel inland for 3,000 miles.

Carelessness Costs Large Sum.

A lighting expert says that about $200,000,000 worth of light is wasted every year through failure to keep globes, reflectors, lamps and other light sources free from dust and dirt. Frequent cleaning of this equipment is a necessary measure of economy.

Musical Note.

A very deaf old lady, walking along the street, saw an Italian turning a peanut roaster. She stood looking at it awhile, shook her head and said: "No, I shan't give you any money for such music as that. I can't hear any of the tunes, and besides it smells as if there were something burning inside!"
