PRICE ATTACK
MADE IN VAINProfessional Maneuvers
Are Resisted

(Wall Street Journal Financial Review)
NEW YORK, May 14.—Again today professionals operating on the short side found themselves suddenly opposed by the fundamental strength of the economic situation. No energy was spared in the attempt to force prices down, especially among the more vulnerable industrial shares, but the strength of the bears was frustrated by the refusal of the holders of representative stocks to part with any sizeable holdings of their lines.

If any disposition existed to liquidate, it certainly could have been crystallized into action by the appearance of weakness which was injected into the general list when the professional maneuvers were aggressive. But the failure of frightened offerings to appear demonstrated that stocks were in the hands of strong interests who were satisfied that conditions were strong. Once more call money advanced to 4 per cent, but this development resulted from withdrawals in connection with government operations and in no way changed the outlook for continued ease in credit conditions throughout the summer months.

Good sized gains were registered in Anaconda, American Smelting, Kennecott and other representative issues, and the whole copper group felt the influence of impressive buying which was attributed to the Guggenheims and other leading interests. The market closed lower. Closing prices included:

WOOL HIGHER ABROAD
(U. P. Leased Wire to The Bend Bulletin)

BOSTON, May 14.—The advance of five per cent in wool prices abroad brought about a steadier tone in the local market, although sales were small.

Some low priced stock moved to New England mills, where it is reported that operations are increasing. Ohio fleeces are held at 49 cents in the grease and domestic territory wools are quiet, with prices holding around $1.25 to $1.28 for fine strictly combing wools.

Foreign wools in the local market are up 10 cents a pound from the low levels recently made. Medium and coarse crossbreds are showing a little improvement.
