Laud American Opera, Climax to Convention

(U. P. Leased Wire to The Bend Bulletin)

PORTLAND, June 10.—The National Federation of Music Clubs today turned to the matters of nomination and other business, following the climax of the biennial convention last night with the world's premiere of the opera "The Echo."

It was a fantastic and colorful production and won the plaudits of more than 5,500 persons jammed into the municipal auditorium. Frank Patterson, New York music critic who wrote both words and music, built his piece in allegory on the man of the world, beset with temptations, who finally overcame them at the pleadings of his lover.

Critics here acclaimed the production, the first recognized American opera in years, as of great merit. Several widely known stars—Marie Rappold, Marjorie Dodge, Forrest Lamont and Lawrence Tibbett—appeared in the major roles.

Scopes Now Returning For His Trial

Theory Is Not Contrary to Teachings of Bible, Attorney Maintains

(U. P. Leased Wire to The Bend Bulletin)
NEW YORK, June 10.—Former United States Senator Charles W. Thomas of Colorado today was added to the list of counsel for John T. Scopes, Dayton, Tenn., school teacher, who is to be tried next month for teaching evolution.

With the addition of Thomas, Scopes' counsel was completed. John R. Neal will be chief counsel. The others are Clarence Darrow, Chicago; former Secretary of State Bainbridge Colby, Dudley Field Malone, Walter Nellis and Samuel Rosensohn of New York.

NEW YORK, June 10.—After what probably have been the five busiest days of his life, John Thomas Scopes, the country school teacher who has monopolized the front pages of the nation's newspapers, plans to leave tonight for Dayton, Tenn., hotbed of the evolution controversy in which he is the principal figure.

Scopes' five days in the metropolis have been crammed full of conferences and during his brief stay here the now famous teacher has talked with more noted men than he would have seen in 100 years in his home town.

With the enlistment of the services of Clarence Darrow, Dudley

Field Malone, Bainbridge Colby and others, representing some of the nation's finest legal talent, plans for Scopes' defense are very definite. Today will be spent in brief conferences with his supporters, after which, with Dr. John E. Neal, his senior counsel, Scopes will start back to Dayton.

Issues Outlined

In outlining the case, Darrow said there were two main issues involved. "The first is whether evolution is contrary to the teaching of God as contained in the Bible," he said. "Mr. Bryan believes it is. I do not. I find nothing in evolution contrary to the Bible and I have been an evolutionist for 50 years."

"The second issue, which is even more important but which will come afterwards is whether a state has a right to prescribe education in science."

Being one of constitutional law, this second question would more likely be fought out in a higher court than that of Dayton in which Scopes is to be tried, Darrow said.

BREAD BASKET NOT AMERICA

Short Crop Just Enough For Home Needs

Insect Pests Cause of Heavy Damage in Midwest Farm Belt

(U. P. Leased Wire to The Bend Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The United States will not be the bread basket of the world this year.

With the smallest production of wheat since 1917 in prospect, economic experts of the department of agriculture today said the 641,000,000 bushels expected on the basis of June 1 condition would just meet the needs of domestic consumption.

Condition of wheat in Europe, India, Canada and Northern Africa, the other principal bread producers of the world, is good—much better than the United States, and the world need not fear a famine, experts said.

The indicated decrease of approximately 25 per cent in United States production may cause increases of prices in many wheat products to the consumer and boost grain prices generally.

The terrific heat wave of late May and early June was only the "last straw" in a series of circumstances unfavorable to the crop.

After an adverse winter, the weather early in May was too cold for proper development. Then the plants were too weak to resist the dryness and excessive heat.

Insect pests have caused heavy damage. The Hessian fly in parts of Illinois, Missouri, Nebraska and Kansas, and chinch bugs in Missouri were the worst offenders.

Kansas, the leading winter wheat state, had to contend with the new "take all" disease.

The spring wheat crop is in fair condition and with an increased acreage planted, promises to produce about 250,000,000 bushels, just a little more than the 19 year average, although lower than last year.
