Making Haste to Be Rich—He that by usury and unjust gain increaseth his substance, he shall gather it for him that will pity the poor. Proverbs 28:8.

A NEW DANCE HALL LAW

Not satisfied with the present dance hall law and the interpretation placed on it by the courts the Anti-Saloon league of Oregon plans to initiate a new road house and dance hall law to be placed on the ballot at the next general election.

An announcement from the league asserts that the step is necessary because of a court ruling that the present law does not cover road houses that permit dancing. We venture the opinion that unless the measure is one that strikes the public as unfair it will pass by a good majority.

There can be no doubt but that the present day country dance hall is a serious menace to the morals of the youth of the community. This is in most cases the fact wholly without reference to the good faith or the good intentions of the persons who operate the halls.

COMMUNICATIONS

ON EVOLUTION

To the Editor: A practically unknown school teacher has started a nation wide discussion in regard to the teaching of evolution in public schools.

And engaged in that discussion we find opposing the theory of evolution that great layman of the old school, W. J. Bryan.

And among those who believe that evolution should be taught in public schools we find that great thinker of the new school, the famous criminal lawyer, Clarence Darrow.

I aligne the evolution in its fullest sense is only the history of substance, as revealed by scientific research, and should be taught in public schools.

There should be no closed season when it comes to hunting for the truth, nor should the public schools of this country confine their energies to teaching the dead languages of a dead past.

I have been told by many: "I do not believe that man descended from a monkey, therefore, I do not believe in evolution."

It has been my privilege to read the works of Darwin, Haeckel and other great thinkers and I find that no such contention is made.

What they do claim is that man is a descendant of a now long extinct species of the anthropoid ape and that a blood relation exists between man and the present living species of anthropoid apes.

And they offer in evidence of this relationship the fact that man and the gorilla, orang, chimpanzee and gibbon have the same 200 bones, the same 300 muscles, the same four chambered heart, and the same reproductive organs.

They offer as additional proof the fact that while the blood of any other mammal cannot be transfused into man without causing a war of blood cells, that the blood of the anthropoid ape and man harmonize and establish a relationship.

They show that the blood of a dog and a fox might be mixed and no harmful results noted, as they both belong to the same family; but call attention to the fact that if the blood of a rabbit is injected into a dog a BAD DREAMS In dreams we're often falling from cliffs a furlong high, or through dark dungeons crawling, to find a place to die; in dreamland we are viewing fierce paths that we must tread, with monsters dire pursuing, and vultures overhead.

kinds of blood cells. Dr. Friedenthal showed by experiments that the human blood acted as poison on monkeys and other mammals, but produced no harmful results when transfused into the anthropoid apes.

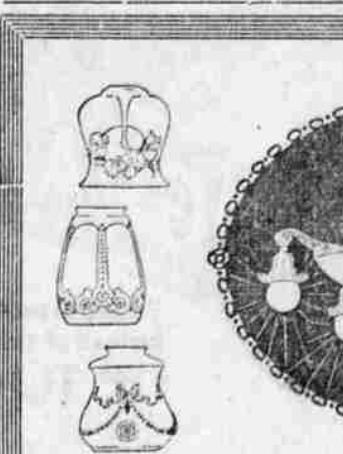

I believe in evolution. I do not believe that the human race began in the garden of Eden 6,000 years ago. History teaches that, 7,000 years ago—5,900 years B. C.—1,000 years before Adam, Egypt had a civilization that in some ways we have not yet approached.

It's a long call from the savage, with his crude message scrawled on stick and stone, to the civilized man reading the news of the world behind his morning paper.

It's a long call from the beating tom toms of the savage to the wonderful musical instruments of the modern home. It's a long call, from the smoke signals of the savage to the message hurried through space by the wireless telegraph operator of today.

And through all the changes that carry man back to those ancestors who lived in tree tops, cliffs and caves and whose foreheads were only as high as their teeth were long, and to their more remote ancestors the now extinct species of man like apes, and beyond them to the most primitive types of life, can be seen the gradual change of evolution.

The famous Brooklyn handicap, the inaugural feature of the Queens County Jockey club at Aqueduct, was first run in 1887 and has been held every year since, except in 1911 and 1912, when there was no racing.

Will Award Contract On Highway In Klamath

Contract for grading 14 miles of The Dalles-California highway, from the Deschutes county line to Crescent, will be awarded June 25, according to an announcement in Klamath Falls credited to officials of the state highway department.

Bids were opened Friday covering the grading and surfacing of 14 miles of the highway south from Crescent, so that there are left only nine miles of the highway between the California line and the Deschutes-county line for which provision has not been made.

It is believed, the Herald states, that this work in Klamath county and work now under way in Deschutes county, will be big factors in determining the action of the California highway department in doing further work on the California end of the line.

McMANMON CASE DISMISSED Charges of liquor possession recently filed against John McManmon were dropped today by city officials, it developing that there was not sufficient evidence against him. McManmon was arrested in a raid on a house on Hill street.

W. D. Names was to be tried this afternoon on a charge of reckless driving, in Recorder Louis Bennett's court.

Distiller Sees No End To Scotch For America

(U. P. Lead Wire to The Bend Bulletin) VICTORIA, B. C., June 16.—Scotch whiskey will continue to flow into the United States despite rigid prohibition enforcement, John McNish, director of one of the largest distilleries in Scotland, declared here today.

"Up to six weeks ago more Scotch whiskey had been shipped to the United States than before prohibition came into effect," he said.

"The cost of maintaining the dry navy has been so enormous that the United States cannot maintain it long. As soon as the fleet disappears rum row will spring up again."
