

TYPHOID STORY IS SIGNIFICANT

Shows Shepherd's Guilty Conscience, Claim

Witnesses Say Disease Was Named Before Physicians Had Been Called

(U. P. Leased Wire to The Bend Bulletin)

CRIMINAL COURT, Chicago, June 17.—From the testimony of three witnesses, the state today attempted to prove that William D. Shepherd had "guilty conscience" of Billy McClintock's fatal illness. Shepherd is on trial accused of murdering young McClintock by feeding him typhoid germs.

Each of the witnesses testified that Shepherd made statements to the effect that Billy knew he had typhoid fever even before his physicians diagnosed the case as such.

"It is one of the strongest links in our circumstantial case against Shepherd," State's Attorney Robert J. Crowe declared.

"This man had a guilty conscience. He had given Billy typhoid germs and then gave him castor oil so the germs would do their work. The fact that Shepherd quoted Billy as saying that he had typhoid fever even before doctors were called in shows Shepherd is guilty."

Elbert Allen, a court reporter identified notes which he took when Shepherd was first questioned by Crowe in regard to the case. The notes showed that Shepherd said:

"Billy came home on Sunday afternoon, complaining he was ill. He said he thought he had typhoid fever."

Two witnesses had preceded Allen on the witness stand with testimony of a similar nature.

Crowe was driving the final spikes in his case today, hoping to complete his evidence this afternoon with the testimony of "Dr." C. C. Fauman, who confessed giving Shepherd typhoid germs for the purpose of killing young McClintock.

Allen's notes disclosed that Shepherd denied that he prevented Isabelle Pope, Billy's fiancée, from visiting Billy in his sick room.

"I never barred her from Billy's room," Shepherd told the state's attorney when he was being questioned. "I talked to her about it once," Shepherd continued, "because the nurse disliked having Isabelle in the sick room. It seems the nurse caught Isabelle reading her medical chart once and didn't like it and wanted Isabelle kept away. But I never said anything unpleasant to the girl about it."

According to Isabelle's testimony Shepherd kept her from Billy's room and refused to let her marry him.

Shepherd was asked by the state's attorney whether he kept any poison in the house.

"Only rat poison," Shepherd replied.

After finishing with Allen's notes of Shepherd's examination by the state's attorney, court recessed until 2 p. m.

Fauman was waiting in the witness room in custody of two officers, ready to take the stand some time this afternoon.

A bitter argument between State's Attorney Crowe and attorneys for Shepherd this afternoon disrupted Crowe's plans to "clinich" his case against Shepherd.

The argument arose over the right of Crowe to have "Dr." C. C. Fauman, the confessed accomplice in the $1,000,000 germ murder, called as the court's witness.

Crowe was just about to close his case against Shepherd when he sprung a surprise. He called for Fauman but announced he did not wish to call him as a state's witness because he could not vouch for him.

He asked Judge Thomas J. Lynch to call Fauman as a court's witness and allow the state to cross examine.

W. W. O'Brien of the defense was on his feet in a flash, entering vigorous objections to this action. He argued that such a course would allow the prosecution greater leeway in examining Fauman.

Judge Lynch indicated he would rule with Crowe on the matter but allowed the argument to proceed.

The unexpected argument threw the court into an uproar.

Crowe had announced Fauman as his next witness and officers were leading Fauman to the stand. Crowds were hushed and ready for Fauman's identification of Shepherd as the man to whom he gave typhoid germs.

Court adjourned at 4:40 p. m. with the argument still undecided. Fauman probably will be called to testify tomorrow.

ROUND TRIP MADE OVER PASS ROUTE

Little Snow Encountered, and Chains Not Needed

Two local boys, Willard Houston and S. M. Lassiter, employed at the Henkle service station, have earned the honor of being the first to make the round trip from Bend to Eugene across the McKenzie this year. The trip across the lava fields to Eugene was made in four and one-half hours, and the return was made in five hours.

The two boys, in a Dodge touring car equipped with balloon tires, left Bend at 7 o'clock yesterday morning. They were back in Bend at 6 o'clock last night. No chains were used, and they report that they had no difficulty in getting over the summit or coming back.

Hardly any snow was encountered on the trip. Houston and Lassiter report. Only one bad mud hole was noticed in the road, and it is possible to go around this place. Rather than go around it, the boys drove through.

Several cars were met in the summit country by the local youths. These cars had also been driven over the pass.

It is the opinion of the boys that any car can be driven now over the summit to Eugene without much difficulty.

MOVIES

HORSE HAS LEADING ROLE IN ZANE GREY PHOTOPLAY

To Greylock, II, prize mount at the Paramount studio, goes the honor of having carried more prominent people on his back than any other animal of the equine world. The horse has taken part in 50 motion pictures and has been ridden by almost every important star and featured player in the industry.

In Zane Grey's "Code of the West," which William K. Howard directed for Paramount, the animal was used throughout the production and was shipped in a special car to the Tonto basin, Arizona, where a large part of the picture was filmed. The film is coming to the Capitol theater.

In one scene, Greylock, II, raced with a motor car and let it be recorded to his credit that he won the race. For another sequence, the horse was with Owen Moore and Constance Bennett, the two leading players in the photoplay, when they were hemmed in by a forest fire. They escaped by riding through the flames and leaping from a steep cliff into a river.

No player in the entire production worked harder, enjoyed his work more or was treated with greater kindness than Greylock, II.

SWEEPSTAKES

OF THE LOS ANGELES-YOSEMITE ECONOMY RUN
WON with ZEROLENE

The Los Angeles-Yosemite Economy Run of May 22-23—the ranking stock car event of its kind in the United States, gave motordom new official mileage records to vie for—and another impressive victory for Zerolene!

The Rollin, lubricated with Zerolene, carried off the sweepstakes—winning the award for the highest efficiency and gasoline economy established in the run. Piloted by Joe Bozzani, the Rollin's gasoline economy record for the 360 mile run from Los Angeles into the Sierras to Camp Curry was 27.43 miles per gallon of gasoline.

When Zerolene brings in the Sweepstakes Winner of the most competitive motoring event of the year—when it is the choice of more motorists in the Pacific Coast states than any other oil made—won't it pay you to use Zerolene—a better oil even if it does cost less?

and note, STANDARD OIL COMPANY (California)

The Rollin and all other cars in the run used Red Crown gasoline exclusively—the best buy in town—by MILES!

Why pay tribute to a superstition?

WHY CAN'T YOU ENJOY THE ADVANTAGES OF BALLOON TIRES?

It can't be the price because you can buy Goodyear Balloon Tires for about the same price you pay for your present tires and we'll take your old tires as part payment.
