CAMP GROUND CHARGES

The city council recently issued the last warrant due on account of the purchase of the tourist camp ground. The property is well situated, ideal for its purpose and with the completion of the state highways through central Oregon will have more and more demand made upon it.

The first camp grounds were an expression of hospitality toward new people in a new mode of travel. Here came a stranger. Nothing unusual for strangers come to every town every day. Yes, but this one was different. He came in an automobile and he camped along the way.

Nowadays signs of a reaction begin to appear. The question is being asked why should a city tax itself to provide free or partly free accommodations for these travelers? In many places it is being asserted that the camp grounds, or should be, purely a private enterprise to be carried on as is the local hotel or a garage.

The Bend camp ground is not free. A small charge is made. Is it enough to bring the city into line with the new idea and to help with the gasoline tramp? We think the charge should be increased. What do you think?

We sincerely hope that the Albany and the Eugene boosters continue their controversy as to whether the McKenzie or the Santiam is the easiest road to open in the spring. Each will want to prove his claim and the result will be that we shall get one road or the other opened much earlier than otherwise would be the case.

Have you tried the new market road to Alfalfa? Might run out there for a change and get an idea of what the market road law is doing for road development.

Income tax figures suggest that Deschutes county is still doing its bit on the war bill.

OLD SHOES

In the daytime I am shod in a most attractive style, and the footgear sharps applaud, as I walk in single file; I would think it a disgrace, and my self respect I'd lose, were I seen about the place with a shabby pair of shoes. I remark, "Appearance First." I obey the style's behest, and the bootblack does his worst, and the cobbler does his best. And my shoes are good to see as I pace the trodden pave; one must follow style's decree, or as well be in the grave. But when fall the evening dews, and I to my home retreat, what a solace are old shoes to my weary, martyred feet! I have filled myself with tripe, I have parted bread and cheese, lit a bonfire in my pipe, and I sit and dream at ease. Life would have a finer curve, it would wear a kindly smile, if we only had the nerve to defy the calls of style. If we only had the sand to put on old number twelve, and with mien serene and bland, bid the critics chase themselves! We would dodge the ache and pang that our throbbing tootsies know, if we didn't care a hang for the fits the stylists throw. Often in the night I say, "I shall be a slave no more; I will wear old shoes by day, let the critics wail and roar!" But when morning comes I wilt, and put on my shining shoes, with their nickel-plate and gilt, and their grief to aching thews. Who has courage to be seen in his ancient shoes and tile, in his rusty gabardine, that is badly out of style?

"PAUL BUNYAN" NOW AT COUNTY LIBRARY

James Stevens, Author, is Former Patron

"Paul Bunyan," by Bend's own writer, James Stevens, has been received at the Deschutes county library. It was announced today by Miss Helen Johns, librarian.

The Oregonian calls this a book of famous American myths. Paul Bunyan was the giant of the tall trees and the legendary god to the old-school lumberjack. Stevens recounts the history of the Paul Bunyan legend and gives a few of the stories which he considers best. The book is published by Knopf, and is beautifully illustrated with wood cuts.

Stevens worked in the local lumber mills until a little over a year ago. During his residence here he borrowed books from the county library.

The library also owns Esther Shepherd's Paul Bunyan, published in Seattle. Another compilation of these stories was issued several years ago by Ida Turney, an instructor in the University of Oregon. The stories for that volume were gathered by the students in Miss Turney's English classes, many of whom had worked in lumber camps during vacations.

It is said that Paul Bunyan has also been adopted by the engineering camps, and there are in existence remarkable stories of how Paul Bunyan and his blue ox dug the Deschutes river, and why Paul made a failure of farming in the Summer lake region.

Fifteen Years Ago

(From the Columns of The Bend Bulletin of the Issue of June 15, 1910)

Bend is to be the end of the rails for the Oregon Trunk system. Such is the result of action taken last week by the company officials last week. The construction work south of Bend has been abandoned and part of the contract let to H. C. Henry has been cancelled. The stop was brought about by the unsettled financial condition in the east.

On Sunday the postoffice moved from its old quarters on Wall street, into the new building just erected for its use on Oregon avenue west of Wall.

During the visit here Sunday of Bishop Robert E. Paddock of the Episcopal diocese of Eastern Oregon.

The first regatta of the Mississippi Valley Amateur Rowing association was held at Peoria in 1878.

CITY EASE—Beyond the Car Lines

EVEN in the country you can have city cooking convenience. A good oil cookstove's intense flame, fast as gas, is heat concentrated! That means a cool kitchen—and no fires to tend. Noiseless, simple, safe!

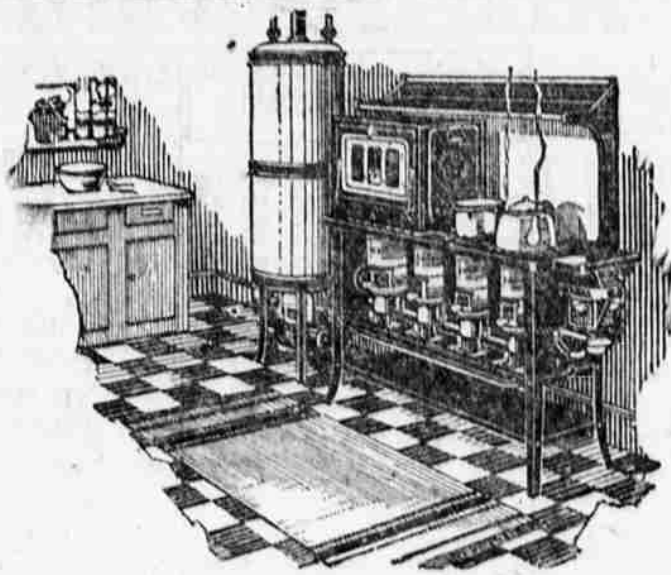

The kerosene to use should be the highest grade only—Pearl Oil—especially refined and re-refined for use in oil cookstoves and heaters; Pearl Oil burns clean—no smoke—no odor—the air stays sweet and pure. Pearl Oil won't corrode the metal parts of your oil cookstove.

"Kerosene" or "coal oil" may mean any kind of kerosene; insist on Pearl Oil—by name!

A Perfection Range with its gas-like speed and convenience will make your cooking hours more pleasant and give you more freedom for other things. Your dealer will be glad to demonstrate.

The town of Redmond, by a vote of 75 to 1, has decided to incorporate.

The city council at last night's meeting passed an ordinance for an increase in the license fee of establishments selling near beer, from $200 to $500 a year.

A team of Redmond and Sisters ball players defeated the Bend team 16 to 4 Sunday. Thirteen runs were made by the visitors in the third inning.

The school board at its last meeting discussed plans for financing a second school building, the Central building being overcrowded last term. Eight teachers were elected, including Frank J. Browne, who will succeed Miss Ruth L. Reid as high school principal.
