THE OPTIMIST ON ROADS

In a recent issue of The Dalles Optimist we find interesting comment on auto tourist camps and The Dalles-California highway. The Optimist believes, as we all do, that as soon as that highway is finished there will be a tremendous increase in the number of cars using it. At present, because of its incomplete state, only a few come over it. When the time comes there will be need of greatly increased camp facilities.
The Optimist points out. Presumably these will develop as they have developed along the Pacific highway and elsewhere. At any rate they will not be created by the cities along the way.

Right on the matter of camps the Optimist is as wrong as it can be in respect to the completion of the highway. The Optimist says:

"Tourist travel from the east has steadily increased, but when the road through to Klamath Falls is as good as the road from The Dalles to Bend, it is going to double. The Dalles and Bend will be stopping points for this heavy travel, and will have a problem in taking care of it. What would either of these communities do at present if a thousand cars desired to stop over night.
"Bend and The Dalles should get together on this road problem, and do all in their power to secure its early completion. Bend has been interested in the completion of the McKenzie pass route, a road of great importance to Central Oregon and the whole state, but they have been overlooking a bet in not bending every effort to the finishing of the southern route."

Yes, Bend has been interested in the completion of the McKenzie highway but it has been even more interested in The Dalles-California and special efforts have been put forth to secure its completion. No bet have been overlooked. It is the Optimist that has overlooked the bet in not making sure of its facts before talking about this road.

The Girl Who Hated Love

Cynthia married Tom Walker with just one idea in view—wealth, social position, prestige—and the silks, furs, servants, motor-cars, gaieties that wealth invariably brings.
Love, for its own sake, she laughed at. Children she hated. Admittedly selfish, she wanted only to drain her cup of happiness. Said she: "Life can never hold any sorrows for me."

Cynthia still has her sumptuous home, her life of luxury and everything that goes with it. Yet she is a miserable creature—a pitiful, lonely creature. Read her story, "Empty Lives" in August True Story and learn why.

Rippling Rhymes

WITH A SMILE

Some of the tasks we have to do are of a kind to make us blue; if we're cheap sports we show we're sore when up against some painful chore, but if we're thoroughbreds we show no symptoms of internal woe. Collectors come to me with bills for groceries and hats and pills; it is a painful thing to think that I must dig the hard earned chink. It is a ghastly thing to pay the sad old bills of yesterday, to pay out silver coins and brass that I would like to blow for gas. My tired old heart feels sick and sore when come collectors to my door, and for a moment brief, perchance, there is some hauteur in my glance. But bitter thoughts I promptly spurn, and to my eager callers turn, and cry, "Fair maids and merry men, come in and get the useful yen! How pleasant 'tis to pay one's bills! It always gives me joyous thrills." I take the bills with bows and becks, and write my pink and purple checks, and pay the bill of every toff, and wear the smile that won't come off. The glad collectors go their ways, and everywhere they give me praise. "If all the people," they observe, "would emulate his graceful curve, and hand out wads of hard earned mon as though they thought the process fun, without a rumble of distress, our lives would be a grand success." But scores of men look bleak and gray when they are called upon to pay; they gnash their teeth and wag their ears and shed some plain and fancy tears, and thereby gain unpleasant fame as being pikers in the game.

Miss Ella Sykes, noted English traveler and writer, was the first European woman to cross Katta Dawan, or Great Pass, leading to Lhasa, the "roof of the world."

American headdresses nowadays are receiving an elaborate "finishing" education. Ten of them recently sailed for Europe on a tour which will cost their parents $5,000 a head.

WE SURE SOLD A LOT OF OUR DEPENDABLE USED CARS

—the last month. Lots of people happy, and we still have a choice lot that will make others happy. If you don't own a car and are gloomy, come in, let us make you feel like a million-aire (they all drive used cars).

We have some 1923 and 1924 Fords at startling prices. Chevrolets cheaper than shoe leather and others at prices we are sure will meet the size of your roll.

SPECIAL TODAY

1924 Ford Touring '24 Chevrolet Touring Looks like new, good rubber, top, upholstery; a real buy, in fact more transportation than a new one for the money we ask.
With glass enclosures, run 3200 miles, looks and runs like a new car. Believe me, it is a sacrifice at our prices.

1922 Buick-6 Touring Rebuilt, 'Nuff sed, except that our price is altogether too low.

MOVIES

NORTH AND WEST MEET IN HARRY CAREY FILM

It is sheer inadequacy to describe "Silent Sanderson," Hunt Stromberg's latest Harry Carey starring vehicle, now playing at the Grand theater, as a "western." Only half of it is "western"—the other 50 per cent is "northern." This is only one of the details which contributes novelty to the production.

Usually a so called "outdoor" picture implies that much shooting and a little drama will take place in western desert land or against the snows of Alaska. Stromberg, as usual, varies the ordinary by evolving much powerful drama and very little shooting against both backgrounds in one vehicle.

The production does not run short of thrills, however. There is for example a wolf fight that is guaranteed to produce more spine tingles and suspense per foot of film than all the odd Blaney melodramas put together. But the physical action grows out of tense dramatic situations and is psychologically motivated. It is not thrown in just because a producer suddenly decided to make another "western." Stromberg never suddenly decides to make a "western." He plans his Carey productions months ahead. That's why they are miles ahead of all other outdoor pictures.

Electrocute Moonshiner For Murder of Aged Man

(U. P. Leased Wire to The Bend Bulletin)
RICHMOND, Va., July 10.—Rodney Hoke, primitive mountaineer, who claimed he had never had a chance in life, was electrocuted in the Virginia penitentiary today for murder. He was convicted of slaying an unidentified old man, whom he found prowling around his moonshine still in the mountains.

Hoke was suspected of having killed another man in the mountains a few years ago. He claimed to be only 19, but records indicated he was 27 years old.

Golf Club Course Mowed, Better Play Is Possible

Wild grass and other vegetation which has hindered play in the last few weeks on the Bend Golf club course, was being mowed today and the course put in shape for enjoyable play. Numbers of balls have been lost due to the length of the grass.

Chicken Theft Is Proved In Case In Justice Court

George J. Duffield was found guilty of stealing chickens, in a justice court trial this afternoon. He was to be sentenced at 5 o'clock this afternoon by Justice E. D. Gilson. The chickens were the property of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Ogden.

Floodlighting

--for evening recreation

"Give us more playtime" is the appeal of the man and woman who work all day, six days a week. Floodlighting stretches daylight playtime into the evening hours, yet keeps folks out in the fresh air, where their recreation does them the most physical good. This is a sound way to promote Sabbath observance, too—giving people more weekday hours for sports and relaxation.

Bend Water, Light & Power Co.
