The mercy of God—Who is a God like unto Thee, that pardoneth iniquity because He delighteth in mercy. Micah 7:18.

WORK AND RECLAMATION

Any feeling held hereabouts that Secretary Work and Commissioner Mead slighted this valley when they refused to include it in their recent itinerary through Oregon must now be tempered by the news of how they treated the Baker, the Vale and the Owyhee projects which, at the present time, rank higher than the Deschutes in the government plans for development.

If this policy is the one that remains in force, there would seem to be an end to the politico-irritation situation in Oregon and a chance that projects purely meritorious may be undertaken. Now that Secretary Work has spoken it may be asserted that politics has had a good deal to do with project selection.

Politics kept the Baker project alive as a federal possibility; the Idaho inside track in reclamation affairs put the Owyhee over, and the powerful influence of a California bank brought about the purchase of the Warm Springs surplus water and the adoption of the Vale project—merely another name for a part of the Warm Springs. Secretary Work and Commissioner Mead now insist on a new approach to the business of reclamation and a project must be able to meet the requirements of their yard stick before it can hope for construction.

In the full confidence that the Deschutes can measure up in every way, its backers should now proceed vigorously toward the promotion of its interests in Washington and elsewhere.

HEAT

When pedestrians are frying on the surface of the street, and the world seems wilting, dying, in the everlasting heat, then, oh fellow men, if ever, we should make a strong endeavor to be jocular and clever, springing maxims blithe and sweet. When the day is cool and breezy, and we're full of pep and vim, it is too absurdly easy to line up with Sunny Jim; little credit are we gaining by the absence of complaining, by our striving and our straining to put up a cheerful hymn. It is when the heat is sizzling and the sun is on carouse, and the briny sweat is drizzling from our whiskers and our brows, that we show what stuff we're made of, crying, "Heat we're not afraid of," while we loiter in the shade of banyan trees with goats and cows. High and noble is the fellow who can deal in harmless fun, when the world is parched and yellow with the baking by the sun, who can josh along and twitter when his friends are growing bitter, when the croaker and the quitter call for poison, axe and gun. He is panting, he is gasping, he is freckled, burned and tanned, and his voice is hoarse and rasping, for his throat is full of sand; but he jokes along and joshes while the perspiration washes and the heat comes down and squashes all the comfort in the land.

Former Terrebonne Man Is Buried In Prineville

PRINEVILLE, July 11.—Funeral services for the late George Whiteis, 62, who for the past several years had made his home on a ranch at Terrebonne, were held Friday afternoon from the local Methodist church, with Rev. James Kaye in charge. Burial was in the local cemetery. Death occurred in Portland, 164 Dakota street, early Wednesday morning. Whiteis had fallen across the gas range in his home. As he had been a sufferer from heart disease for many years, it was concluded that death was due to this ailment and gas inhalation. Whiteis leaves his widow and two daughters, Miss Helen Whiteis, and Mrs. Beryl Baker of Spokane, and two sons, Paul L. Whiteis and Roy V. Whiteis. Mr. and Mrs. Whiteis and children moved to Portland in May, at the close of the local schools. Several years ago Mrs. Whiteis was principal of the Terrebonne schools, and is well known in that section.

Wall and Idaho

Would you like to know more about the growth and development of the Lutheran church for the last 100 years? Then come to the church Sunday at 11 a. m., for the centennial commemoration service of the arrival of the first Norwegian immigrants in America. They brought the church with them and planted it in American soil. It is now quite an institution with schools, colleges, institutions of mercy, missions at home and in foreign lands. In America

Floodlighting

--for evening recreation

"Give us more playtime" is the appeal of the man and woman who work all day, six days a week. Floodlighting stretches daylight playtime into the evening hours, yet keeps folks out in the fresh air, where their recreation does them the most physical good. This is a sound way to promote Sabbath observance, too—giving people more weekday hours for sports and relaxation.

Bend Water, Light & Power Co.

There are 10,255 Lutheran pastors, 616. The estimated Lutheran population in America is 14,700,000, and about members over 14 years. The total valuation of $225,140,577, and expenditures each year of $42,743.
