The Lord sustains—They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run and not be weary; and they shall walk and not faint. Isaiah 40:31.

THE MCKENZIE (Astoria Budget)

The McKenzie pass highway is just now being finished. It is a wonderful road today. Next year it will be deservedly ranked with the finest features of Oregon's astonishing highway system.

From Eugene the highway strikes quickly from the Willamette river into the valley of the McKenzie. For many miles it follows that crystal, racing river.

First there are wide farms, then narrow farms, then ranches, and later yet only the homes of mountaineers who have learned that the entertainment of hunters and fishermen and vacationists pays better than any crops which they can grow.

There is no gainsaying the fact that the McKenzie highway from Eugene for a considerable distance leaves much to be desired. It is

THE FORMULA

A rich man died the other day; he had some seven million bones; and just before he passed away, he said, in low but throbbing tones, "Success in life may be achieved by lads who're not afraid to sweat, who pay all bills when they're received, and never, never go in debt. Be cranks, young men, on paying bills—this is my message to you all"; and then, refusing further pills, he turned his wan face to the wall. He started business poorly fixed, he had some hundreds, it is said; he never got his mottoes mixed, he paid his bills and went ahead. "I'll pay up always as I go, and go no further than I pay"; these were the words he used to throw around about him every day. And soon he had a fine renown that circulated everywhere; he always paid the money down when any bill was just and fair. A reputation of this kind is better than a pedigree, and he who bears it soon will find that all the world's his Christmas tree. So in a few brief busy years this man accomplished splendid things, was famous in three hemispheres, from Birmingham to Holly Springs. Revered, respected and admired, at last he felt his work was done; he gave his message and expired—a message good for every one. "Young men, be cranks on paying bills!" It isn't in poetic vein; it won't impart ecstatic thrills, but it is strictly safe and sane.

rather rough and is under construction in places. Eugene is justifiably proud of the McKenzie highway, but Eugene owes it to its touring visitors to tell the truth about the westerly end of the highway.

The United States forest reserve at last is entered and through it, over the mountains, and down to the city of Bend the road is a superlative example of fine mountain road construction.

Leaving the upper McKenzie valley, the road climbs by loops and tangents toward the summit. Gazing back and down, the motorist is astonished by the steepness of the way by which he has come so easily.

Then out onto peerless mountain meadows, lay in the shadow of the Three Sisters.

The passage of the lava beds comes next, and here the road is trenched through frazzled stone, a boulevard through one of nature's terrors.

The lava land passed, and the motorist coasts down the gentler eastern slope of the Cascades, through the open colonades of the pine forests, down and down like the wind, the picturesque town of Sisters and on to bustling Bend.

The cook for the Cascadians, the Yakima mountain climbing organization now camped near the Sisters, left his camp fire unattended and drew a $25 fine. You would suppose that anybody connected with that club would know his woods' stuff better than that.

Bend is to try oil on some of its macadamized streets. The use of oil spreads, although in the present case it is but a return to what was done here in 1915.

Wasco County Pioneer Dies at Dufur, Aged 91

(U. P. Leased Wire to The Bend Bulletin) THE DALLIES, Ore., Aug. 10.—Mrs. William Heisler, known for more than a half century as "Grandma" Heisler, died at her home at Dufur Saturday on her 91st birthday. At the bedside were four generations of her family, representative of nine children, 18 grandchildren, 29 great grandchildren and seven great-great grandchildren. Widow of a Mexican war veteran, "Grandma" Heisler came to Oregon in 1852 and was among the first 13 settlers in the Ochoco country, then a part of Wasco county. She was born Martha McCConnell in Missouri in 1834.

Building Bought to House Auto Repair, Machine Shop

Purchase of the Paddock building on Bond between Minnesota and Franklin is announced by P. N. Armstrong and A. E. Ault, who will occupy it the first of the month. They will conduct an automobile repair garage and general machine shop in their new location.

Ault has been in business for several years in Bend as an expert machinist, having been located for the past year in the Associated building, while Armstrong has operated an auto repair shop in the rear of the Paddock building for a number of months.

The man who has his faults isn't half so bad if he keeps them to himself.

FLIERS REVEAL DARING AT FEZ

Americans to be Given Ample Opportunity

French Birdmen Set High Mark for Lafayette Escadrille to Shoot at

(U. P. Leased Wire to The Bend Bulletin) FEZ, Morocco, Aug. 10.—American aviators forming the new Lafayette escadrille, to fight for the second time beneath the tri-color of France will soon have an opportunity to whet their thirst for adventure.

The vanguard of the group, which arrived at Casablanca, will find as their French comrades already are finding, ample chance for deeds of daring.

Birdmen in the past few days have been playing an adventurous and successful roles in the fighting to the north of here, bombing the Rifians and hampering their sharp opposition. Today came fresh tales of their daring, following Saturday's spectacular story of how they had paved the way with their bombs for the capture of a marauders' stronghold in the almost impregnable Amergoon mountains.

In no less than 13 cases, the French aviators pushed their planes up to infested posts and came back unscathed.

Heavy fighting marked the advance of two groups of French forces proceeding to the relief and revitalizing of El Kelaa Des Sless and a neighboring town. Kelaa is held by the French following brilliant battling last week.

Two new tribal groups have been reported to have joined the Rifians. When tidings of this new strengthening of the Rifians came, airplanes were sent forth and helped vastly in reaching occupied posts. Rifians are reporting massing 46 miles north of here, planting sharpshooters in high peaks that dominate the Ouergha.

PROMISES THRILLS IN DIVORCE TRIAL

Wife of Congressman Re-opening Hearing Tuesday

ALPENA, Mich., Aug. 10.—Mrs. Edna James Scott today promised "thrills galore" when her side of the divorce case against Congressman Frank D. Scott is told in court. The case is to be resumed here tomorrow.

In an interview with the United Press, Mrs. Scott described petty economics she said she was forced to exercise in order that her husband might become a member of the house of representatives.

"And now he has hit the band that fed him," she said in scornful wrath.

"When we tell the rest of our story Washington will get thrills galore. My side of the story will not only vindicate myself, it will ruin him."

Scott filed suit for divorce against his wife on charges that she had entertained army officers in an expensive suite at a Washington hotel. Mrs. Scott has filed a cross bill contesting the case and has scores of depositions, she said, to indict her husband's character.

TRACK STAR HONORED

EVANSTON, Ill., Aug. 10.—The body of Frank Loveland, northwestern track star, drowned Saturday at Camp Rockne, Winters, Wis., passed here while former university associates held a short service, and continued its journey to the runner's home at Santa Fe, N. M. It will arrive there late today.

TAKES LYSOL BY MISTAKE

ASTORIA, Aug. 10.—After taking more than two ounces of lysol by mistake, Mrs. Florence Dylbeck, 29, of Knappa, Oregon, was in the hospital here today in a serious condition.

REMOVE MERCHANT SHIPS

(U. P. Leased Wire to The Bend Bulletin) WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Nearly 50 United States shipping board vessels have been removed recently from active service because of insufficient operating funds, due to the decreased appropriations, according to reports submitted to the board meeting today.

STECK AGAIN IN LEAD

(U. P. Leased Wire to The Bend Bulletin) WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Daniel F. Steck, democratic contestant for the senate seat of South W. Brookhart, republican, again jumped into the lead in the committee recount today.

A mother and daughter who were married on the same day in Kansas City three years ago were recently divorced on the same day in Los Angeles.

Don't You Wish You Knew?
