Scout, Ranger Camping Ends for 1925 Season

Boy scout and boy ranger encampments are ended for the year, but with the completion of the summer's program there is every likelihood that Scout lake, used this year for the first time by the boys, will continue as camping headquarters for several years to come, says W. Bernard Morse, scout executive. This will involve construction of buildings of a fairly permanent nature, and improvement of roads so that any car will be able to make the trip to the lake next year.

Camping lasted for four weeks, with 27 scouts attending the first, 15 the second, and 25 the third. The fourth week was for the rangers, and 25 of these younger boys attended, with three scouts as leaders. Mrs. Louis Bennett was camp mother to the rangers, and her daughter, Roberta, spent the week at Scout lake with her.

Mr. and Mrs. Morse were at the lake throughout the scout and ranger encampment.

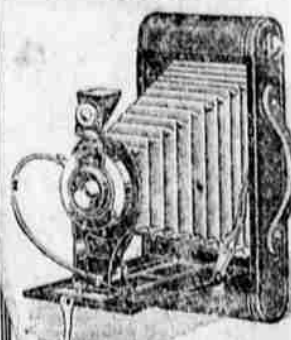

The total number of scouts to attend the encampment was 67.

Flowering Plants Stolen By Thieves on Franklin

Kate Rockwell, 217, Franklin, raises flowers largely for the pleasure she derives in giving them away, and consequently she felt rather put out this morning on learning that someone had gone to the trouble of stealing plants from her yard.

"If he'll bring back the plants I'll give him some flowers, or I'll even pay him if he is in need," she volunteered. "But I think it's petty larceny, at that."

NAZIMOVA in "My Son"

The salt tang o' the sea is in it—the great men of the sailing boats—the simple people of the fishing coast—their adventures—their gallant fights against the hazards of the sea—and more, too, when you see this mother's sacrifice for a son you will say you have never seen a picture before that has stirred your emotions so.

NEW PLAN USED IN REFORESTING

Naturally Grown Trees Transplanted

Paper Company, In Coastal Region, Finds the Use of Nurseries Unnecessary

(U. P. Leased Wire to The Bend Bulletin)

ASTORIA, Aug. 14.—The entire theory of reforestation, at least in the coastal region, may have to be revised as result of success of the planting done last February by the Crown Willamette Paper company, according to the opinion of those who have studied the project and its results.

The revision, however, will enormously simplify the work of replanting cut over lands and will eliminate a large portion of the cost.

The Crown Willamette company last February planted 79,000 young trees in the Young's river district. Contrary to all rules of reforestation, these young trees were taken directly from the forests where they had grown naturally, and were transplanted into the denuded district. Previous experiments in this practice have proved unsuccessful and the rule has been that successful reforestation must use stock reared in conifer nurseries, where the growth of fibrous roots is encouraged artificially in order to assist the young trees in securing sufficient moisture during the critical first summer after transplanting into the forests.

The transplanting of naturally grown trees by the Crown Willamette company has proved entirely successful, however, according to Ray Tippey, logging superintendent for the company, who estimates that 99 per cent of the 79,000 trees planted have survived the long dry period of the summer and should continue to grow.

The success of the reforestation is ascribed to two factors:

The cool damp climatic conditions prevailing in the coastal mountains; and the secret solution in which the young trees were dipped before being planted. The damp climate is believed to furnish sufficient moisture for the survival of the young trees throughout their first summer even where they are not equipped with artificially bred fibrous roots. The solution used on the trees was developed by an employee of the company. It is said to have increased the hardness of the trees and to have promoted their growth in previous experiments.

A Faster Washer Is a Clean Washer. Watch This One Do Your Work.

The Zenith Saves Clothes

The Zenith will wash an ordinary tubful of clothes in from four to five minutes, or the greasiest dirt-caked overalls in eight to ten minutes. Why do you want a washer that will wash in four minutes? Because a fast washer means a clean washer. Because you save the clothes by saving three-fourths the wear in the tub. The quicker the clothes come out of the washer, the less they will be worn by rubbing against each other and the metal parts of the machine, and the less they will deteriorate from the prolonged effects of soapy water. You can prove that this is an actual saving by comparing the amount of lint in the water which is drained off from the Zenith and from any other washer. The Zenith washes the daintiest laces gently and safely.
