maintained, and when Jesus asked: "Will ye also go away?" Then is when Peter answered: "Lord, to whom shall we go? Thou hast the words of eternal life." John 6, 8. This is our text for sermon at 11 a. m. tomorrow. Come, let us see how many of us can give the same answer. We may be slack in our attendance during summer; but really, can we get along without Jesus? We must go somewhere and to someone. Who else would you depend on for time and eternity?

You are most cordially invited to come to the Lutheran church and consider this question, at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning.

R. BOGSTAD, Pastor.

An impressive monument, both to sound insurance principles and to advanced architectural and engineering practice, is the new building of The Equitable Life Assurance Society, at 395 Seventh Avenue, New York City.

What makes this building possible?

This new building has comfortable office room for more than 6,000 men and women.

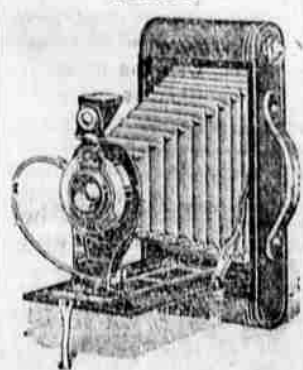

Without 27 electric motors that run its numerous elevators, 72 more that run its heating and ventilating equipment, and 12 others for water supply and pneumatic tube system, this vast structure would be a lifeless pile of masonry and steel.

Man is so constituted that he cannot be alone, cannot live without a guide, a master. The human soul wants, demands someone to whom it can go.

There are many pathetic situations revealed in the life of Jesus; but the most pathetic incident is that when the crowds could not understand the teachings yet forth in the sixth chapter of St. John and began to go away by twos and fours till only the 12 remained.
