

CLAIM LEAGUE NOW FOR BEER

Biggest Brewers Await- ing Developments

Action Possible, However, In Seeking Law Change, at New York Meeting

(U. P. Leased Wire to The Bend Bulletin) NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Although they claim to have definite assurance from Anti-Saloon league officials that a compromise plan toward modification of the prohibition law will be considered, the largest brewers in the United States will not at this time work toward that end, the United Press was told today.

"Informal conversations between Wayne B. Wheeler and other attorneys have offered the basis for interesting rumors, but they are quite unimportant," is the way in which the United States Brewers' association sums up the situation.

Taking the stand that Wheeler, in his conference with attorneys for several big brewing interests, represented only himself, the brewers' statement added:

"When, yielding to the pressure of public sentiment, the executive board of the Anti-Saloon league is willing to have the Volstead act modified, it will be time to take Mr. Wheeler and his associates seriously."

It was admitted, however, that when the board of trustees of the brewers' association meets here Thursday, a dissatisfied group will endeavor to press negotiations toward modifications. The Anheuser-Busch company of St. Louis is said to be one of the leaders of this faction.

The United Press was informed that George Muehlebach of Kansas City was one of the brewers in the Anheuser-Busch faction. Milwaukee and Chicago brewers are understood to oppose them. A few brewers, such as Colonel Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees, are said to be still "on the fence."

The brewers are represented as unanimous in deciding to cooperate with the government in keeping within restrictions as to the alcoholic content of beer. The association's statement said in this respect:

"As long as the public is satisfied with a two and three-quarters per cent beverage, it would be foolish to waste money on a stronger and more expensive drink."

Pass Employment Peak Through the Northwest

PORTLAND, Sept. 22.—Employment in the Pacific northwest last week showed first signs of the usual seasonal decrease of this time of year, according to the Four L employment service letter issued here today. Logging and lumbering continue very active, but general construction work and highway building have begun to taper off, releasing a few men daily, the letter stated.

The main apple harvest, which will start next week east of the Cascades, will be cared for largely by auto tourists and their families who are already on the ground waiting for the picking to start, the Four L report said. Railroads are still working large crews and farmers are hiring a few men. Summer pine camps will soon close the season's logging, but preparations for winter logging are being made at many operations. Pine mills will operate until forced to close by cold weather.
