

Bend Trapshooters Retain State Lead With Perfect Score Sunday

THREE GUNNERS BREAK STRINGS

Manning, Smith, Shelby Shatter 25 Each

Bend trapshooters retained their lead over all other clubs in the state entered in the Oregonian telegraphic tournament by tying in a perfect score, 75, in yesterday's shoot, defeating Coquille 75-74, Hillsboro 75-73 and Hood River 75-73. The Bend trap club shot against Coquille and Hillsboro in the regular tournament schedule and shot off with Hood River.

Three Perfect Strings
The three members of the local club who broke their strings of birdrocks were Dr. W. G. Manning, W. A. Shelby and V. A. Spilth. Dr. Manning, one of the premier shots of last season, turned in his first perfect score of the 1927 season Sunday. Smith and Shelby have been shooting consistently this season. In the five shoots held so far this year, Smith has turned in four perfect strings. Shelby, recognized as one of the leading marksmen in the state, has been credited with 25 birds three times this season.

L. R. Pickard broke 24 out of his 25 pigeons in the Sunday morning shoot and S. E. Roberts, Dr. J. C. Vandever and A. Bowles shattered 23 out of their strings. S. T. Fox, recognized as one of the best shots on the Bend squad and equal to any of Oregon's clay target marksmen, was not up to his usual form yesterday, although he shattered all but three of his string. G. S. Blakley likewise broke 22, George Stokoe, J. O. Gillilan and J. C. Redifer cracked 21 each out of 25, and V. Plath, Eliopkins and H. L. Welch hit four-fifths of their birds.

Four Clubs at 75
Four clubs entered in the tournament made perfect scores—Bend, Pendleton, Salem and Heppner. The win for Salem Sunday places this team in second place in the tournament standings, closely crowding the Bend marksmen. Portland, Coquille, Echo, Eugene and Medford turned in scores of 74 and Klamath Falls, Huntington, Baker and Hood River are credited with scores of 73. The Dallas team was low in the state scores Sunday, 68.

Portland, Pendleton Next
The Bend gunners next Sunday face another hard test, when they will line up, telegraphically, against Portland and Pendleton. Portland in recent weeks has been hitting its stride, and the 75 score turned in yesterday by the Umatilla county gunners attests the progress of the roundup squad.

The tournament is to end on April 24, with Bend shooting against Huntington. The winners will go to Portland for the final competition, with a big trophy at stake.

AUTOISTS FLOCK TO OPEN ROADS AGAIN

Warm Sunday Calls Out Many Motorists

Central Oregon was on wheels Sunday, hundreds of automobiles traveling the midstate roads. With Bend their starting point, scores of machines Sunday afternoon headed north and south.

One of the favorite drives was the Crooked river bridge, visited by several thousand people during the day, according to an estimate. The early afternoon saw several dozen machines lined along the parapet and approaches to the big steel span.

Many of the machines which used the Central Oregon roads Sunday were driven to the snow lines. It was possible to reach snow lines south in the Crescent country, west of Sisters and up the Ochoco drive from Prineville.

The spring-like weather — or the drop in gasoline prices — resulted in many machines being taken out of "cold storage" over the week-end, a fact attested by the great number of temporary licenses seen on the highways.

Here Are Some Seals

By WM. C. ETHEREDGE, SEA Service Writer

The San Francisco Seals of the Pacific Coast league figure to be pennant contenders this year, as usual, with perhaps even brighter chances than they enjoyed last year.

Their chances, however, involve so many "ifs" and "buts" that in advance of the season's opening it is not possible to make any accurate prediction as to just what will happen.

Chief among the problems that must be met by the club is that of the infield, and everyone knows that to be a big hump to get over. If the infield is weak there is much base running and, consequently, much scoring by other teams.

Ike Davis presents the difficulty. Star shortstop with the White Sox in 1925, and out of play last year because of injury, he has been given an optional release to the Seals for one year, but has been holding out. If he reports it probably will mean stop place with Sheehan and Suhr battling for the second sack.

The Seal pitching staff promises to be better than last year. The club has a gang of hard hitters. Everything combines to make the team a serious contender "if" the infield can be properly handled.

And that still is to be determined.
