GERMAN PRESS FLAYS CZECHS

Chorus of Denunciation Heard in Berlin

Nazi Control of Policy of Newspapers Apparent in Outburst

By Edward W. Beattie (United Press Staff Correspondent) Berlin, May 21 (UP)—Newspapers joined today in a chorus of angry denunciation of conditions in Czechoslovakia and, in effect, demanded that the Czechoslovak government take immediate action to end alleged "aggression" against the German minority.

Newspaper policy is controlled by government agencies under the totalitarian principle and, to make the campaign the more impressive, such newspapers as the Voelkischer Beobachter, official organ of the Nazi party, and the Essen national Zeitung, personal organ of Field Marshal Herman Goering, economic dictator, joined in it.

The articles were interpreted in political quarters as indicating that certain quarters in Germany wanted to give the Czechoslovak government to understand that Germany may lose patience if alleged "incidents" continue.

As regards reports of German troop movements on the Czechoslovak frontier, it was said in well informed circles that Sir Neville Henderson, British ambassador, asked Under Secretary Baron Ernst von Weizsaecker at the foreign office yesterday regarding them.

Weizsaecker was said to have replied that the troop movements were merely the transfer of troops from winter to summer quarters.

Henderson also discussed the general Czechoslovak situation and the Spanish civil war, it was understood. The keynote of the newspaper editorials was that the situation in Czechoslovakia was intolerable not only for the "Sudeten" German minority but for the German nation.

Banner lines in the papers, over editorials discussing election campaign clashes, were "intolerable provocation"; "Czech gendarmerie attacks with fire arms and bare sword"; "Czech soldiers attack peaceful Germans"; "Germans defenseless against Czech provocation."

"The Prague government is exclusively responsible for the aggravation of the situation in the Sudeten German region," said the Voelkischer Beobachter, the Nazi party organ. "In face of the methods applied by the Czechoslovak government it is emphatically pointed out on the German side that the situation in Czechoslovakia was intolerable not only for the Sudeten German minority but the entire German nation considers the developments of the last few days as intolerable and regards continuation of this terrorism as an attack upon the rights and life of the Sudeten Germans," said the Essen National Zeitung.

"Germany, together with a large section of world public opinion, asks the question where these developments in the Czechoslovak state are to lead if the Prague government fails to put an end immediately to the systematic and dangerous campaign against the Sudeten Germans."

This was regarded as the most important and significant of all the articles. But other comment was vigorous. The Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung recalled the speech which Adolf Hitler made February 20 regarding the country's solidarity with Germans beyond the frontiers and added: "If the Czech state really is a unit it must be in position to prevent excesses, inasmuch as the Sudeten Germans always merely defend themselves. The aggressive behavior of the Czechs whether in official position or otherwise."

It was noted that the publication Diplomatic-Political correspondence, whose sources of inspiration are regarded as in the foreign office, took occasion to criticize France, Czechoslovakia's close military ally.

It said that in view of discrepancies between government statements and the tone of the newspapers which support the government it was no wonder that "several countries" found it rather difficult to attain useful confidential cooperation with France.

The feeling was growing that the time was near for a settlement of the Czechoslovak minority problem, partly due to belief in some foreign diplomatic quarters that the newspaper campaign might be one to prepare public opinion.

First Young Swans Appear on River Here

Hatched in the tules just below the Tumalo avenue footbridge, six cygnets, first to appear on the mirror pond this season, were taken on their first cruise early this morning by the mother swan and attracted considerable attention along the river edge.

First to report the young swans to The Bulletin, very early this morning, was F. L. Davis. Busy reporters, still compiling election returns, took time out to make notes about the first cruise of the fluffy cygnets.

Later in the morning, Davis' count of the tiny birds was confirmed by Clyde M. McKay, who reported that the mother swan visited his front yard, at the river edge, to display her brood and accept offerings of food.

However, McKay reports, the cygnets are not the only new attraction on the mirror pond. Young ducks are also appearing. Several broods have been noted in the past few days and this morning's bright sun brought them from under cover.

Several other swans are nesting on the river here and it is expected that in the next few days several dozen cygnets will be on parade.

Beats Engine to Fire Fire Chief Tom Carlson turned in a fire alarm today, beat his department to the blaze and took initial action. The fire was at 16 Kansas—next door to the home of the fire chief. However, the chief's effort to play a hero was somewhat handicapped. His neck was in a cast, result of an accident suffered earlier in the week when his car was involved in an accident while he was answering an alarm from the mill.

Today's blaze was the result of some grease that had spilled over a stove in the Edward Berg home, at 16 Kansas. Some smoke damage, estimated.
