

LADY LUCK FAILS DETERMINED PRO

Fires 1,817 Shots But Can't Sink One

Beverly Shores Country Club, Michigan City, Ind., June 21 (AP)—A slender young professional, shot with weariness and painful blisters, pounded his 1,817th golf ball at a flickering candle light marking the tenth hole early today and decided that luck, not science, breeds a hole-in-one.

After 16 hours of driving, on a $25 bet with duffer Bill Zoltz, who scored an ace on the same 136-yard hole a week ago, professional Harry Gonder, 25, finally was forced to quit.

He had hit the pin dozens of times, once as late as his 1,758th shot, but at 2 a. m. (CST) he admitted his blistered left hand was too painful to continue.

"Let the 100 shooters have their holes-in-one," he grinned. "It's just luck after all. I thought I could do anything a duffer like Bill Zoltz could do. Now I'll have to pay him $25."

According to the only available figures, results of the annual New York World Telegram hole-in-one tournament, he had only one chance in 5,913 to win.

Once, late yesterday, he had it. The ball dropped quickly into the cup, but with such force it popped out again and spun 4 inches away.

"You don't do it right, Harry," Zoltz said. "You've got to take a spoon—my lucky spoon if you want it—even if it is only 136 yards. Then just make a quick backswing like this, with your arms straight up in the air." Voltz swung in a crazy arc that looked more like a lazy uncle beating a rug under protest than a golf swing.

Gonder, who consistently shoots the course in par 72, finally admitted that luck might be the way and toward sundown mechanically began to play the law of averages.

By midnight he was hitting without thinking at the rate of slightly less than 3 shots a minute. During the 16 hours he wore out two "welcome home" doormats he used for feet, both hands of his trainer and rubber, Boots Whitener, and the five caddies who stuck with him chasing six pairs of practice balls.

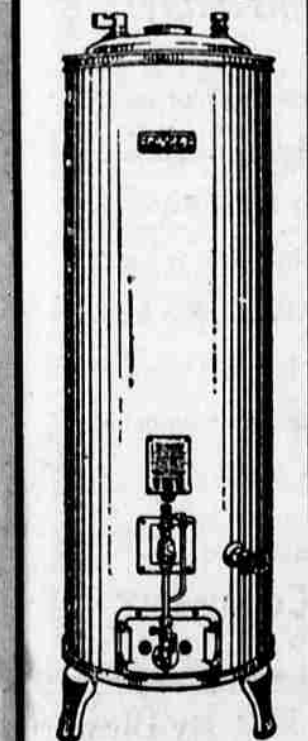

Atherton Report Is Studied by Delegates

Timberline Lodge, Ore., June 21 (AP)—Faculty delegates to the annual spring meeting of the Pacific Coast conference remained in their rooms today, studying the voluminous Edward N. Atherton report on athletic subsidization.

Prof. C. V. Ruzek, conference president, told the United Press meetings would resume at 2 p. m., today, and that discussion of the report would be the first order of business.

The delegates cleared away most of their routine business yesterday in a day-long session. The opening date for fall football practice at all member schools was set Sept. 7, and it

G-MEN TAKE PART IN OLSON SEARCH

May Be Kidnaped Long Sought on Coast

Hayward, Wis., June 21 (AP)—Sheriff George Sechuetter announced today that the federal bureau of investigation would enter the search for Ray Olson, 36, fugitive killer of two deputies, to investigate the possibility he might be the long sought kidnap-slayer of Charles Mattson, 10, Tacoma, Wash.

Sechuetter said he had asked for assistance from the FBI office at Milwaukee and had been advised that at least one G-man would come here. He emphasized that the possibility Olson might be the Mattson kidnap-slayer was "purely speculative."

"Olson closely resembled descriptions of the kidnaper," he said, "but there is nothing definite to connect him with the case, as I informed the federal agents in asking them to come here. However, we are not overlooking that angle. We want him for two killings here and that is enough for now."

He said that as far as he knew no G-men had arrived yet in the Chippewa lake region southeast of Hayward where 300 deputies and volunteers were conducting a "dead or alive" search for Olson in a maze of dense thickets, timber and swampland.

G-men at Minneapolis and Milwaukee declined to discuss the matter.

His wife, Dolores, 20, held in jail here, told Sechuetter that she and her husband were on the Pacific coast three years ago. They returned to Wisconsin nearly two years ago, she said, and then he left her for a year. The Mattson boy was abducted from his home Dec. 27, 1936. His nude body was found 50 miles from Tacoma Jan. 11, 1937 after the kidnaper had spurned several efforts of the boy's father to pay a ransom demanded for $28,000.

Sechuetter said the possibility that Olson might also have been connected with the kidnap-slaying of Charles R. Ross, wealthy Chicagoan, also was being considered. Ross' body was found last year in a makeshift grave near Spooner, southeast of Hayward.

Olson, an expert marksman and woodsman, has eluded possemen for four days. Last night he slipped through their fingers for the fourth time.

New York, June 21 (AP)—Ed Barrow, president of the New York Yankees, announced today that Lou Gehrig, Yankee first baseman, is suffering from chronic poliomyelitis—a type of infantile paralysis—and that his baseball career has ended, at least temporarily.

Barrow and Manager Joe McCarthy of the Yankees made the announcement after a diagnosis of Gehrig at the Mayo clinic. Barrow said the first baseman would be kept with the team on his regular salary for the remainder of the current season but would be unconditionally released after his contract expires in October.

Shamrocks Win First Game of New Schedule

The Bend Shamrocks made an impressive start in Central Oregon baseball league second half play by defeating a reorganized Shevlin team 6 to 0 Sunday. The hard played game was scoreless for eight innings, as each team struggled to push across a tally. Twice during the game Shevlin attempted to score a runner from third, but heads up baseball on the part of the Shamrocks ruined the attempts.

It was in the eighth inning that the Shamrocks hit their stride. Four hits, one error and two men hit by pitched balls enabled the Bend team to score six runs—only runs made during the entire game. Stars of the game were Barnecht, Shamrock pitcher, and Snyder, newly acquired Shevlin moundsman. Barnecht did not issue a free pass on balls and struck out 10 men. Only twice was he in trouble, and that was when men reached third with only one batter out. Despite the fact that the game was played on a dark afternoon, it was fast.
