

MORE GLASS USED IN MODEL HOMES

Lightness and Brightness Make Place Cheery

Lightness and brightness is emphasized in model apartments and homes shown in modern design. "Double duty" rooms are a feature of many exhibits, combining living and dining rooms, bedroom with study, dressing and wardrobe closets, sun-room nursery, and many similar arrangements that make for more compact homes without sacrifice of comfort or pleasure.

Sliding doors of glass and often entire glass walls give more light to such combinations, while adding decorative interest. The use of wood and plywood paneling in adjoining rooms gives another modern effect, and is designed to blend with the furnishings of both rooms.

More glass is used in modern rooms and homes. Glass brick windows give extra light to apartment dwellers, and especially to bathrooms and kitchens, which are too frequently on the dark side of the home. Color schemes in these well-lighted rooms are soft and more pleasing this season. Such new shades as turquoise, wine red, or pink beige and gray with gold, or warm putty tones, are shown in modern effects. Sleeping nooks glassed off add beauty to some. Curtains of crystal clear materials such as cellophane give other rooms a lighted effect, while adding decorative value.

Wallpaper is used in many of the new homes, in modern designs harmonious with modern furnishings, as well as in authentic patterns, appropriate designs, and wallpaper in closets and cupboards is often in amusing motifs.

New compositions for walls and floors are of special interest, for their modern beauty as well as cleanliness. Walls in composition marble, tile, hipocrene, wood, etc., are planned to give a fresh appearance to rooms over a period of time. Harmonizing with these new wall surfaces, plumbing and lighting fixtures are shown in turquoise, duobonnet, lemon yellow, peach and soft blues or greens. But much white is used in kitchens and bathrooms, with color in curtains and furnishings.

"Utility" rooms adjoining kitchens or porches are a new feature seen in some of the more modern homes.

Oregon Briefs

Portland, Ore., Sept. 21 (UP)—Federal court attaches today announced a panel of 35 jurors has been drawn for the October term of the United States district court, which opens in Medford Oct. 3. Most of the jurors live in southern Oregon.

Eugene, Ore., Sept. 21 (UP)—Completion of three of the seven dams planned as part of the Willamette valley project appears likely in the near future. R. H. Kipp, executive secretary of the project association, said late yesterday. Kipp said actual construction would get underway this spring.

Portland, Ore., Sept. 21 (UP)—Police officers searched today for an unknown man who stole a revolver from the holster of Patrolman Ralph Nichol a few moments after the officer collapsed and died of a heart attack on a downtown street corner.

Marshfield, Ore., Sept. 21 (UP)—Anza Cecil Carter, 43, a former Salem grocer, was killed late yesterday when he fell into the boiling surf near the north Coos Bay jetty. Carter, an employee of a construction company repairing the jetty, was dashed against the rocks.

Salem, Or., Sept. 21 (UP)—Local paper manufacturers today reported a sharp increase in business as an indirect result of the war in Europe. Uncertainty of pulp imports to eastern mills from the Scandinavian countries has resulted in a shift of paper orders to western mills it was said.

One local plant is working on a full six-day basis for the first time in more than a year.

Salem, Or., Sept. 21 (UP)—State department heads were today in receipt of letters from State Budget Director David Eccles asking their aid in trimming $570,000 from state expenditures during the current biennium.

The requested economy would eliminate the accumulated deficit of $500,000 and a prospective deficit of approximately $165,000.

Many state departments are working on budgets already reduced by 1939 legislative action.

Philippines Reduce Debt to United States

Manila (UP)—The Philippines will be entirely debt-free by the time set for independence on July 4, 1946, as provided by the Tydings-McDuffie act, according to a prediction by Assemblyman Jose Romero of oriental negroes.

The prediction appears to be well founded in view of the general soundness of the Philippine financial structure. During the past 10 years there has been a steady decrease in the national indebtedness, which on Dec. 31, 1938, totalled $40,659,925.21. The total decrease from 1929 to 1938 was more than $23,500,000.

The actual indebtedness as of Dec. 31, 1938, was $74,468,500, but on the same date the sinking fund created for the amortization of the debt reached $33,808,574.79, giving the present net figure of $40,659,925.21. The present indebtedness represents a per capita debt of $2,825 on the basis of last year's estimated population of 15,478,777.

Romero explained that with the export taxes to be collected by the Philippines and the sinking fund for the amortization of the national debt, the total debt would be more than fully covered by 1946.

TRAVELS LONG; STORIES SHORT

As instructor in short story writing at the University of California, last year she commuted 28,000 miles, or more than the distance around the world, in conducting weekly classes in various communities beyond the campus.

NEW POWER LINE PUT IN SERVICE

Three Mile Extension to Serve Ranches

A three-mile extension of a power line west from Deschutes to the Bend Dairy plant on the old Bend-Redmond highway north of Bend has been completed and was placed in service today, Pacific Power and Light company officials have announced. The new extension, one of eight completed in the past three years, will not only serve the Bend Dairy plant, one of the largest in Central Oregon, but will provide power and light for six other ranch homes.

Three other extensions are already under way or are to be built immediately. One of these is a 1½-mile extension into the Glen Vista tracts north of Bend, to serve nine customers. Work on this line, an extension from the present Glen Vista line, was started this week.

Lines to be built in the immediate future will include one, westward from Terrebonne, into a thickly settled farming community that holds a number of large dairies. This line, to serve 19 families, will be 4½ miles in length. An extension south from Redmond into an area of new homes adjacent to The Dalles-California highway is also planned. This is to be a short line, W. A. Lackaff, local manager of the power company, has announced.

Under the present program of extension, made possible through the use of a new type of long span construction, the power company has made light and power available for communities in two counties of Central Oregon, Deschutes and Crook. The first extension was into the Grange Hall community, after an application by residents of that community for a federal rural electrification project had been rejected. The Grange Hall extension was 6½ miles in length.

Two extensions were made into the Powell Butte community, from the main line on Crooked river. In the Crook county community, 15½ miles of line was constructed.

In the Bend area, a line was extended southeast to the Bradetich dairy. This was 4½ miles in length and also provides service for a number of rural homes. A short extension was made north from Redmond. North from Bend, there were two extensions, one to the Boyd acreage and one along the new highway. In the Prineville country, there was an extension into a nearby community, to the northwest.

BABY EATS LIGHT BULB
Pasadena, Cal. (UP)—An 11-month-old baby began eating a small electric light globe. The mother slapped the infant on the back until he had coughed fragments of glass. A fluoroscope examination developed that he had swallowed nothing and suffered only a slight cut in the mouth.

Store Observes 23d Anniversary

Latest for Men Shown in Big Display

Autumn days and the approach of winter means more for members of the M. P. Cashman store staff than the displaying of new suits and comfortable clothing—fall is also anniversary time for the big store. This autumn the store is observing its 23d anniversary and more than a score of years of service to the far-reaching Central Oregon country under one roof. As in past years, the store is again observing its birthday anniversary with its annual autumn sale.

This fall's sale is being made possible not only through the cooperation of manufacturers and wholesalers, the management points out, but due to the fact that merchandise was purchased on a low market. World conditions have vastly changed since purchases were made for the Bend store, and in recent weeks telegrams have been pouring in from many points announcing price increases, or contemplated increases.

Taking advantage of the new low prices of the days of world peace, people probably should buy at present, but M. P. Cashman, owner and operator of the store here during its long history, advises against buying things not required. Such "panic" buying might disturb the whole market.

As his anniversary date approaches, Cashman took a hasty inventory of the past year and agreed that business has been very good. This is gratifying not only because the trend indicates satisfaction with goods purchased in the past and service given by the staff, but because it reflects a generally healthy condition in Central Oregon, the store management declared. Patrons of the store have come from far points, as well as from Bend and vicinity, this past year, Cashman reports. Accounts reach out to the Harney ranges, extend to the great cattle ranches of Lake county, cover portions of the John Day rangelands and represent even the historic mining country of Canyon City.

And about clothing to be worn by the well dressed men, rangers, woodsmen, college and high school youths this fall and winter—well, it appears that these men and youths will have a fine choice this season. Manufacturers this past year appear to have taken pride in workmanship and in materials. Nationally advertised lines show smart double-breasted suits, drape models, three button fronts and numerous suits in the conservative models. Also in the suit department of the Cashman store are suits for young men and boys which have an appeal for school use or for dress up occasions.

In the shirt department are found many items of interest, hearing the names of nationally known houses. Designs are most varied—rayon stripings, woven figures, checks, plain or solid colors are all displayed. These shirts are made with fine detail, backs are shirred for comfort, cuffs are barrel shaped, with round, non-fraying corners; sleeves are pleated.

Color is again rampant in ties this fall, and numbers are found that fit into shirt styles and colors. "Ties this fall really step up a man's appearance," a member of the Cashman staff announced as he pointed to the captured colors of the rainbow.

Superb felt hats are to be found in all matching fall colors, and the conservative good looks of these hats give the wearer a dignified, styled right appearance.

Also purchased on favorable market before the news of war spread around the world, an unusually large stock of shoes, all distinguished by fine leather and made by nationally known firms, is being displayed at Cashman's this fall.

Murder Stirs Fears of Coup in Balkans back Germans again and that the suburbs of Prague and Wola had been taken in hand-to-hand fighting with bayonets. Seven Nazi airplanes were reported shot down.

Deny Czech Rumors
Czechoslovakia, according to information published by the British ministry of information, were revolting against Germany and were fighting "courageously" despite hundreds of executions and thousands of arrests. Nazis vigorously denied the British reports.

The massing of Allied troops and artillery, the turning of many French cow pastures into air fields, the sporadic aerial engagements over the Rhineland—Nazis said eight Allied planes were shot down—and the clogged German roads over which Nazi forces were moving westward toward the French border were all indications of the size of the struggle coming on the western front.

British still were concerned about the future attitude of Turkey because of that government's close relations with the Soviets, but all indications in both Ankara and London pointed for the present toward Turkish fulfillment of her obligations to fight with Britain in event of any conflict in the eastern Mediterranean.
