

CLEVELAND IN LEAGUE LEAD

Red Sox Downed Twice By St. Louis

Indians Whip Washington By Score of 12-1 With Feller Pitching

New York, June 21 (AP)—The new formula to get to first place in the major leagues is start rebellions, revolutions, and mutiny in the ranks.

That's the formula the Cleveland Indians and Brooklyn Dodgers used to get there. It's been only eight days since Cleveland's "12 cry babies" appealed to Owner Alva Bradley to fire Oscar Vitt as manager. Bradley refused. Since then the Indians have won 7 out of 8, and moved into the American league lead.

Back on top in the National league, the Dodgers brought along with them a one-man revolt by Luke Hamlin. Since Hamlin tossed a home run ball to Enos Slaughter, which enabled the Cardinals to tie the Dodgers and then go on to win Tuesday's game the Dodger pitcher has been in the doghouse.

Dodger officials refuse to confirm or deny that Hamlin has been suspended but he hasn't been in a Brooklyn uniform since.

A double blow delivered to the Red Sox by the ramraging Browns enabled Cleveland to hop from third to first place yesterday. Bob Feller pitched a masterful game as the Tribe beat Washington, 12-1.

The Browns slugged the Red Sox twice, 2-1 and 11-4, to run their winning streak to six straight, including four in a row over Joe Cronin's club.

The Athletics snapped the Tigers' 6-game winning streak with a 6-4 victory. Chubby Dean, with a bit of relief, was the winner.

Losing to the White Sox, 1-0, for the second straight way, the Yanks ran their losing streak to five straight and dropped back to an even .500 per cent.

The Dodgers regained the National league lead without turning a hand when the Phillies scored a 4-3 victory over the Reds in 12 innings.

The Giants moved up within one game of the top when they spotted the Cubs three runs and beat them, 6-3.

Drafting of Nation's Youth Proposed by Roosevelt

For the first time in the United States' peace-time history, the president has suggested that congress consider compulsory universal government service for American youth. The idea, said the president, does not necessarily mean training for combat duty. It means more specifically training in the following categories: Combat service; duties in uniform behind fighting lines; non-uniform technical training for work in industrial units; conservation training to preserve the nation's natural resources. Above composite shows the four branches of compulsory training which the president predicts for the United States.

200 Trapshooters at Annual Oregon Meet

Salem, Ore., June 21 (AP)—Perfect weather prevailed as more than 200 trapshooters from Oregon, Washington, California and Montana began firing today in the 10th annual Oregon state meet here.

Yesterday's formal practice saw D. S. Fish of Portland shatter 49 birds in the 23-yard, 50 targets event to take first place. W. D. Carter, Salem, E. J. Morrison of Mondia, Mont., and Charles Martin of Klamath Falls shot a three-way tie for second with 46 targets each.

In the 16-yard, 100 targets trial, R. W. Nason of Portland blasted 38 to take top honors and J. Crone of Turlock, Calif., and Ted Renfrew of Astoria, Mont., tied for second with 37 hits each.

SCALES INSTALLED

Prineville, June 21 (Special)—A crew of Oregon Trunk railway workmen have nearly completed the installation of the big railway scales in the switching yards of the Prineville railway. These scales, designed to weigh freight cars loaded with freight should be completed by next week, state workmen. The scales are being installed jointly by the Oregon Trunk and Union Pacific railways.

In class B shooting of the same group, A. R. Perrett, Portland, blasted 97 birds for top honors. George Jantzer of Trail, M. Hull of North Bend and M. B. Stiemler of Portland ended in a three-way deadlock for second honors with 96 clays each.

Class C competition was won by Charles Feller of Aurora with 94 hits and Coquille's Mrs. Clara Ray blasted 54 to finish high in the class D event.

MORE ABOUT Hitler May

against Germany may be kept within bounds. Germany certainly is uneasy regarding the trend of public opinion in the United States, and it would show psychological realism for Hitler to postpone the immolation of France on this account alone. Too, the Japanese are uneasy concerning the future of French Indo-China. As long as the war goes on, the Japanese are in a better position to check German seizure of this territory than they would be if the Germans concluded the war with complete victory of themselves.

Although the Germans talk of forcing unconditional surrender on the British Empire, it is far more reasonable to believe they expect an eventual compromise peace with the British. But if France were torn asunder now, the Germans might well conclude that Great Britain would fight more bitterly and the war might be prolonged to the point of exhaustion for the Germans with no hope of compromise. Also, the Germans understand very well that whatever peace terms might be indicted on France now can have only temporary validity. Their permanence will depend on the outcome of the struggle against Britain.

If that struggle were to result in the necessity for a compromise ending the war, the British would insist on France being a party to the peace negotiations. Any previous peace conditions might have to be discarded, requiring open retraction by Germany and so indicating, in this respect, a German defeat.

If wisdom prevails in the Hitler camp, therefore, it would seem advantageous for Germany to refrain from an immediate impetuous grab of France's possessions, though perhaps militarily occupying some of them. The French army, made impotent by unconditional surrender, would then have to sit back, unarmed, watching the fate of France being decided by the conflict between Germany and the British Empire, though perhaps with the French navy and some of the French air force participating.
