

War Induces Peak Demands For Graduates

Minneapolis (AP)—The girl graduate may have been an employment problem at one time, but for the duration at least that situation is drastically reversed.

This is indicated by the eighth annual survey of employment for women—both men and women—conducted by the North-western Life Insurance Co. in 128 colleges throughout the nation.

The report emphasizes that starting salaries are establishing "new highs."

"Women are being inducted into all the usual women's jobs and also as junior executives, personnel officers, salesmen and sales executives, and into engineering and accounting. The placement of officials unanimously said 'All graduates who want jobs can have them.'"

Shortage in Engineers

In many men's colleges, the senior class is going into uniform immediately. From one-third to two-thirds of the 1943 engineering graduates are being drafted into the fighting forces; the remainder are being snapped up by war industries. The shortage of trained engineers may be even more grave in 1944.

The report also says that war industry offers three to ten war jobs for every engineering graduate available, and is absorbing business administration and other seniors. Civilian industry can draw only from 4-Fs and women who do not enter war work.

There is a noticeably increased interest in Latin-American jobs. Many graduates are interested in long-range possibilities in the jobs they select. A few appear to be developing exaggerated ideas of their salary value.

Study Postwar Problems

The survey also reports that many universities and colleges are working in advance on problems of postwar employment. They are making detailed analyses of the abilities and training of graduates entering the armed services, so they can aid in finding employment for them immediately after the war ends.

As part of the war program, many schools are offering both "quickie" training courses for war tasks, and accelerated long-range academic courses of study.

The war-induced demand for women engineers has caused many engineering and technological schools to admit them for the first time. Other schools long have accepted women in engineering classes.

Pumice Claims Are Nullified

Pumice claims of L. G. and Mary Dawson, of Chemult, in the southern part of the Deschutes national forest have been declared null and void by Fred W. Johnson, commissioner of the general land office, Washington, it has been learned at the local forest office.

The Dawson claims were filed at several places in northern Klamath county, including land near the highway at Chemult, Crescent lake townsite and railroad yards and an area used for summer homes at Odell lake.

The forest service contested the claims, contending that there was no valid discovery of a mineral and that the claims were filed for other purposes than mining.

Hearings Held

Hearings were held before U. S. Commissioner Bert C. Thomas, at Klamath Falls, in August, 1941, and in September, 1942.

You can do more than anyone else to prevent forest fires!

Yes, unfortunately, folks like you—good honest, fighting Americans last year started more forest fires than lightning, saboteurs and incendiaries put together. These are facts. Each careless act was as destructive as if it had been the deliberate job of a saboteur.

Here in the Pacific Northwest we not only have much to lose from forest fires, but we also have a responsibility to all America, to prevent fires from starting in our precious timberlands. We owe it to our country to be even more careful than we have been before.

FOREST FIRES

1. Destroy vital war material (there are 1,200 direct military uses for wood) . . . disrupt war industries . . . transportation and communications.
2. Take valuable manpower from war industries and agriculture for fire fighting.
3. Give aid and comfort to the enemy by creating a smoke screen which hampers our warning services and interceptor command, and make ideal conditions for a sneak attack on the West Coast.

This year we must not let our carelessness be the enemy's secret weapon. Last year the Pacific Northwest had an excellent fire record. The fire protection agencies of Oregon and Washington appreciate the cooperation of the public in preventing fires. But some fires were started which should have been prevented. We can make an even better record in 1943.

Fire in Oregon's forests is a threat to every citizen of Oregon and every soldier on every front. A threat to our country's safety. So let's be on guard this summer against carelessness, incendiarism or sabotage and Keep Oregon Green!
