Homemakers Of Deschutes Open Meeting

Members of extension units all over the county today met at Pine Forest grange hall for their annual Homemakers program, the only scheduled event during the year when women of the county meet together to discuss their mutual homemakers' problems and achievements.

The hall had been hung with spring blossoms and other seasonal decorations for the affair, with the theme carried out on the serving table. Exhibits were displayed this morning preceding a potluck luncheon, and an extensive program was planned for the afternoon hours with Maj. William H. Andrew, Camp Abbot chaplain, and Miss Lucy Lane, Oregon State college clothing specialist, the featured speakers.

Members of the county extension committee, headed by Miss Elizabeth Boeckl, home demonstration agent, were in charge of arrangements for the county-wide meet.

Big Bomb Load Hits Wake Isle

Pearl Harbor, April 21 (AP)—American Liberator bombers hit tiny Wake island for the fourth time this month Wednesday evening, dropping 30 tons of bombs on the beleaguered Japanese base which has been virtually isolated by the swift American drive across the Central Pacific. Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

Many American birds migrated to Mexico during the ice age and so survived.

Many Children Attend Clinic

"Highly satisfactory" was the opinion voiced by Dr. Elmer Carlson of Portland, at the crippled children's clinic held yesterday in the public health department offices in which Dr. Carlson was the examining physician. Forty-five children with crippled conditions, including 14 new cases, were examined and advised by Dr. Carlson, who stated that the large number of patients at the clinic indicated a high rate of interest in the crippled children's program by local physicians, through whom appointments to the conference were made.

Including in the number receiving service were nine children from Crook county, two from Klamath and one from Wasco.

Assisting Dr. Carlson, who is a member of the national academy of orthopedic surgeons, were Miss Margaret Simpson, consultant orthopedic nurse with the crippled children's division of the University of Oregon medical school, and Miss Esther Gillette, physiotherapist with the division who instructed in postural exercises and other physiotherapeutic measures.

Advise Given

At least four of the patients were advised to undergo plastic surgery, for which arrangements will be made, and at least two children were recommended for admittance to the Shrine hospital in Portland. It was disclosed.

The clinic is sponsored locally by the Deschutes county welfare commission and the public health department. A part of the children's bureau program of the U. S. department of labor, crippled children's clinics in Oregon are conducted by the university medical school.

Time Extension Given District

Allowance of an additional two years to do reclamation work on lands under the Central Oregon Irrigation district, has been granted by State Engineer Charles E. Stricklin. It became known here today. The extension runs to January 1, 1946, it was stated.

Because of the fact that several previous extensions have been granted, it was held likely that no further time would be allowed, and ranchers were urged to expedite their improvements and the beneficial use of the CIO water, as the law requires.
