

WAVES in Action . . . With Real Bullets

OFFICIAL U. S. NAVY PHOTOGRAPH

First members of the WAVES to qualify as instructors on electrically-operated 50-calibre machine guns, Florence Johnston of Albert Lea, Minn., and Rosamund Small of Syracuse, N. Y., Specialists (G), third class, are now communicating their knowledge to male marksmen at the Naval Air Gunners School at Hollywood, Fla. Dressed with belts of ammunition, they walk to the high-speed target range, where they sit behind the gun turrets and wear head-phones to talk with gunners, while observing the splatter of bullets on the target. The WAVES need now thousands of young women, between 20 and 36 and without children under 18, for an interesting variety of jobs. Navy Recruiting Stations and Offices of Naval Officer Procurement have full information.

Highways and Byways in Books
What's New in the County Library

By Eleanor F. Brown
(Deschutes County Librarian)

Thirty five children in the summer reading project on the Oregon Trail theme have already qualified for the annual picnic, by reading ten books. Several children who are leading the race have read over 100 books in the three weeks the project has been under way. Those who have not yet read their ten books and plan on attending the picnic, to be held early in July at Drake park, are reminded that there is only this week and through Friday, June 30, of next week in which to complete the required number. Unusual interest in the project has been evident this summer, and Redmond has also found a high degree of interest in its project of similar type, which features a plane trip.

The library has been the recipient of a number of very fine gift books from army families leaving the community for Fort Lewis. Chief among these contributors were Major and Mrs. Dan Griswold. Other recent gifts received were from Mary and Frances Thompson, "Aunt Kate" Matson, and Leona Carrier.

Miss Edith Brown will conduct a story hour for little children at Tuesday, June 27, from 11 a. m. to 12 noon. After July 1 story hours will be held weekly at both playfields, with Miss Marian Zipse, the new children's librarian, in charge of the other.

No new phonograph records have been added to the library's collection for several months due to difficulty of securing really good recordings, but it is planned to add a dozen or more new albums during July and to discard some of the earliest albums purchased, which now, after two years of circulation, are becoming very much worn.

The recent group of new books added has been characterized by several borrowers as "the best presented at any one time for many months." Outstanding is the number of new novels by well known top flight writers such as Somerset Maugham, Hervey Allen, Vicki Baum, Louis Bromfield, etc.

Take "Razor's Edge," for example. Somerset Maugham has done some remarkably fine books and has also been known to do a few remarkably poor ones. "The Razor's Edge," however, has been hailed by many critics as his best since "Human Bondage." In common with the tendency of many other writers, Mr. Maugham turns to a religious theme, and tells the story of a young American's quest for faith. In Larry Darnell, he has created one of his most radiant and appealing characters. Darnell, impelled by what he has seen of death in the war, renounces his fiancée, Isabel Bradley, and the opportunity for wealth and position, to seek knowledge and faith above and beyond human mortality. His search takes him all over the world and reaches its climax in India, where he attains the experience of the Absolute, which he has been seeking.

On his return to Paris he encounters again his old group of friends and all of them individually experience the impact of the spiritual power which Larry has attained and which gives him an almost miraculous influence over others. As a record of the journey of the human spirit it stands with "Of Human Bondage," as one of the great English novels of our time.

As a sharp contrast, yet excellent in its own way, is "Mom Counted Six," a warily human novel of one girl's family. Vivid, high-spirited, humorous in spots, it has caught perfectly the pain, loyalties, antagonisms, and delight that go to make a family. Gramma and Gramp could remember when the Hollys were somebody. That was years ago. Now the Hollys lived in Gramp's great rambling house that showed undeniable signs of wear and overflowed with children. It was a wonderful life, each day touched off with some new excitement of fascinating discovery. From the chaotic yet rather wonderful impressions of childhood the story moves into the more subtle nuances of adolescence to center eventually on Brooke and her love affair with Kip Toby. It is the sort of book every member of the family can enjoy, no matter what his age, because there is something in it for every member.

Superfort Makers
To Stay on Job

Seattle, June 21 (AP)—Officials of the Aeronautical Mechanics District Lodge No. 751 (AFL), today reported no vacations will be granted workers at the Boeing Aircraft company's No. 2 plant this year because of the need for workers to complete conversion from production of B-17 Flying Fortresses to B-29 Super Fortresses.

A company spokesman, however, said the decision was not yet definite.

Public Warning!

BEWARE OF PIN-WORMS

War-time living conditions may be the cause of spreading Pin-Worm infection. Scientific reports in many communities have shown at least one-third of the war-affected children and grown-ups to be victims of Pin-Worms—often without knowing what was wrong!

Watch out for the warning signs that may mean Pin-Worms in your child or yourself: the tormenting, embarrassing rectal itch, the uneasy stomach, bed-wetting, nervous fidgeting, finicky appetite.

New Discovery Hailed by Doctors

After centuries of distress caused by Pin-Worms, a new and highly effective way to deal with this stubborn pest has recently been discovered. This scientific discovery, hailed by medical authorities, is a remarkable drug (muntian violet). It is the vital element in P.W., the new Pin-Worm treatment developed by the laboratories of Dr. D. Jayne & Son, America's leading specialists in worm medicines. P.W. tablets are small and easy to take, and they act in a special way to destroy the creature. So don't take chances with Pin-Worms. At the first warning sign, ask your druggist for P.W., and follow the directions. P.W. means Pin-Worm relief!

WE'RE FIGHTING
TWO WARS
AT ONCE!

—and it takes twice as much money and effort.

Deschutes County is lagging—it's true that a quota of over a million dollars is a lot of money to raise . . . but boys by the thousands are giving their lives to fight your battle. Already twenty-four have given their all from Deschutes county alone. We've done it before . . . let's do it again . . . and do it in a hurry. Buy your quota TO-MORROW!
