

Tax Sales Bring Break to Market

By Elmer C. Walzer
(United Press Financial Editor)

New York, Dec. 27 (AP)—Long-postponed tax selling broke out on the stock market today when Washington reports gave a clue to a bleak future for tax reductions.

Prices broke 1 to more than 3 points when selling was at its height at mid-session and for a time the tickers were unable to keep pace with the market.

Traders who had anticipated doing their selling to establish profits for the income tax account next year to profit by a reduced tax dumped part of their holdings on a market unwilling to absorb stock except at reduced prices.

However, the recession finally attracted new buyers and prices came back substantially from the lows in many instances.
