

Lease of Airport Details Studied

The Rim Rock Riders today held an option from the city to buy four lots on which the cavalry barns now stand, as a result of action taken last night at the regular meeting of the city commission. The option is for the purchase of the property after the war is ended.

The riding group also sought to purchase a fifth lot on which the clubrooms stand, but the commission observed a request of Brig. Gen. Ralph P. Cowgill of the Oregon State guard, that the city do not involve that lot in any transaction until the Bend unit of the guard has no further use for it.

The riding group was given assurance that it could buy this lot after the state relinquishes its claim on it.

To Improve Building

The Rim Rock Riders plan to improve the buildings and make permanent headquarters there, according to Glenn Gregg, president. Besides Gregg, H. C. Kerron and N. R. Gilbert appeared before the commission in behalf of the riding organization.

The commission heard further discussion on a proposal that the city lease the municipal airport to A. J. Tilse for a period until after the war is over. Details of a lease were to be worked out by Tilse and City Manager C. G. Reiter, with the understanding that the commission would act upon it in a special meeting.

Ollie Bowman and Walt Howard, members of a special airport committee for the city, appeared to support Tilse's request for the lease. Gerald McCann, city commissioner on leave while he serves in the navy, also attended the meeting and urged that the city officials take steps to further develop the airport.

All Heads Retained

Reiter reviewed the commission's annual organization meeting held Tuesday, and explained that after A. T. Niebergall had been

Accused Slayer Heads for East

St. Helens, Ore., Jan. 4 (AP)—Benjamin Franklin Male, 73, bid his friends and neighbors on nearby Sauvie's island goodbye today and prepared to leave for Fairmount, W. Va., to stand trial for slaying a school teacher 39 years ago.

Male, whose desire to live the rest of his life in his beloved West Virginia hills prompted him to confess the slaying, will make the long journey alone.

Sheriff M. R. Calhoun to whom Male made his confession, left the aged farmer on his honor to report at Fairmount Jan. 9 for his arraignment on the murder charge.

Male told Calhoun that in 1905 he struck and killed Walter O. Smith with a grubbing hoe after the latter attacked him in the school yard when he protested a whipping Smith had given his son.

Indictment Lost

The original indictment for the slaying had been lost but a grand jury returned a new one and Male was ordered to return to stand trial. Male requested that his extradition be postponed until after the New Year so he could spend the holidays with his family and see a grandson who was returning home on furlough.

Marion county prosecutor Harrison Conaway last night ordered Sheriff Calhoun to put Male on the train and reservations were made for him to leave tomorrow.

Under West Virginia law, Male will face death by hanging or life imprisonment if convicted. If acquitted, he said he planned to take his family to the West Virginia hills where he wants to spend the remainder of his life.

Overdue Sailor Gets Free Trip

The next time this sailor wants information regarding a ride back to his ship from which he is overdue, he won't go to state police headquarters in Bend for it!

John Bower Vanderhuik, 17, seaman 2/c, vowed this today when he was enroute to Portland in the custody of Ed Fitzgerald, specialist recruiter 1/c, with a charge of being a straggler from the U. S. navy facing him.

Late last night Vanderhuik walked into the state police headquarters where Earl Huff was on duty. He asked how he could obtain a ride to San Francisco where he was supposed to join his ship.

Becoming suspicious, Officer Huff questioned the youth and found that he had no leave papers and was supposed to be in San Francisco last Tuesday. He arrested him, and today released him to Chief Paul H. Connett, in charge of the Bend recruiting station for the navy.

The Japanese claim to be producing lubrication oil for airplanes from coconuts is probably untrue, as oil from coconuts and aviation lubricants from petroleum, the only satisfactory known source, seem to be completely unrelated.

Turkeys in Linn Yield Big Wealth

Albany, Ore., Jan. 4 (AP)—Turkey sales in the Albany area netted growers over $2,500,000 during 1944, with production amounting to 6,654,000 pounds a growers' report said today.

Three local turkey processing plants handled 414,630 birds during the year to establish a new all-time high. The turkeys filled 222 railroad cars.
