

Roosevelt's Dog Gets Preference Over Service Men

Antioch, Cal., Jan. 18 (AP)—T/Sgt. Dave Aks today confirmed an Antioch, Cal., sailor's story that Col. Elliott Roosevelt's dog was given preference over them and another service man, as yet unidentified, on an army cargo plane.

Aks, an overseas veteran, arrived at his Riverside, Calif., home last night to visit his ailing wife after considerable delay caused by army officers ordering the three service men off the plane at Memphis, Tenn., to make room for high priority cargo.

The sergeant's story was the same in detail as that of seaman L. C. Leon Leroy who first revealed the incident when he arrived at Antioch to visit his ailing widowed mother. Leroy and his mother sought seclusion today to avoid the sudden publicity caused by the story.

The dog, sent by Roosevelt to his wife, was in a Hollywood kennel.

Leroy revealed that his emergency leave had been extended five days to Jan. 27, making up all but 48 hours of the time lost when he was ordered off the plane at Memphis, Tenn.

Mother Grieves

His mother, grieving over the recent death of her husband, Al Leroy, well known police chief, didn't like the publicity brought by the incident. "We've found ourselves on too many news-casts," she said. They turned the family radio off "till it's all over."

Leroy said that he, along with Sgt. Aks, and an unidentified seabee were ordered in Memphis to surrender three seats in the California-bound plane. They said the crate housing the bull mastiff sent by Col. Roosevelt, second son of the president, to his wife, movie actress Faye Emerson, occupied another three seats but was stamped with a top "A" priority.

Aks said there were 22 aboard the plane when it left New York, "and when we got to Dayton, O., (Patterson field) a dog was put on as cargo." Aks said he and the other two servicemen had been traveling on "C" priorities.

Regulations Defined

Army air transport regulations define an "A" priority as one covering cargo "required by an emergency so acute that precedence should be given over all other traffic..." The same regulations interpret a "C" rating as "... vital to the war effort but not of an extremely urgent nature."

Mrs. Roosevelt said in an interview at Albuquerque where she was located aboard a train en route to Washington for the Saturday inauguration of her father-in-law that she received the dog from her husband in England and expressed surprise at Leroy's story.

"I assure you my dog travels as freight and awaits his turn," she said.

She said the 130-pound dog, "Blaze," was delivered to her Hollywood home by "an army major in a truck" and came as a surprise to her. She understood, she said, that another dog had been sent from England by air to Washington.

Story Confirmed

In Washington, a war department spokesman confirmed that on Jan. 9, in Memphis, three servicemen had been bumped off an army cargo plane to make room for 300 pounds of additional cargo. The dog remained aboard, he said, but he declined to comment on whether the animal was consigned to Col. and Mrs. Roosevelt.

The spokesman pointed out that the three hitch-hiking servicemen were riding on the plane because the army wanted to do them "a favor." At Memphis, he said, 300 pounds had to be removed from the plane to make room for high priority cargo. The dog and his crate didn't weigh that much, he said, so the three men were set down.

Sorority Plans New Blood Trip

With the announcement today by the Beta Sigma Phi sorority that its second trip to the Portland blood bank would be made on Friday, Feb. 9, it was also reported that 22 persons have already signed up to donate blood for the use of wounded fighters. A special bus, financed by the sorority, will leave in the evening, and reservations will be made for the group in Portland, it was said. The party will visit the blood donor center on Saturday.

The sorority is using funds raised last summer for the purchase of books for the USO servicemen's club to provide transportation for the local donors. The sorority girls, in a letter received by Miss Evelyn Zumwalt, was praised for their action in a letter from Mrs. Ray Matson, director of the blood donor center. It read in part:

"I have thought of your group ever since you were in and hoped everything went along smoothly for you all. I want to thank everyone for making such a long trip to donate for the services. My only regret is that the boys overseas cannot know what some of the people here are doing for them."

The sorority also was in receipt of a letter and check for $10.00 from the Bend Study Club, signed by Genevieve W. Horstkotte, secretary.

After two years of unsuccessful land campaigns to capture Jap-held Akyab, biggest port on Burma's west coast, the British, with the largest combined operations force ever launched against the Asiatic continent, took the town without a shot being fired. The Japs had scammed. Possession of this island-port gives Allies a harbor capable of accommodating 8000-ton ships and air bases whose easy-bombing are includes the great Jap strongholds of Mandalay and Rangoon, and the only escape routes out of the latter port. Operations from Akyab will complement southward drives of British, Chinese and U. S. forces toward Mandalay and Lashio.

retary. The letter explained that the club was making the contribution "to the blood donor cause because we think it is a very worthy one."

Other prospective donors wishing to make the Feb. 9 trip were asked to telephone Mrs. Wayne Faddis at 520. Those who have already signed up are:

Mrs. Frank Brittain, Mrs. Jeff Smith, Mrs. Cecil Cox, Mrs. Kenneth Cox, Mrs. Joe Stenkamp, Shirley Pratt, Mary Finley, Kay Dover, Mrs. Robert Hewes, Mrs. Fred Shepherd, Mrs. Mina Will, Mrs. N. Elliott, Leola Olson, Mrs. Lee Hollenbeck, Bonnie Ballard, Jean Watson, Canola May, Fern Grindle, Grace Diek and Etta Glazier.

Eagles' Auxiliary Special Program

Four new members were initiated into the Eagles auxiliary last Thursday night. They were Mrs. Ben Isaak, Mrs. James Kennedy, Mrs. Paul Linse and Mrs. Erwin E. Wienecke.

Following the initiation the 40 members present were entertained with a hill-billy program, staged by Mrs. Fred Holleback. Refreshments were served later by a committee headed by Mrs. Ray Anderson.

Registration of adults who wish to enroll in commercial subjects will be held at 4 p. m. tomorrow in room 300 of the high school. Registrations will be followed by a discussion of the type of work desired by adults and the type of work to be given. A. W. Nelson, local coordinator for trades and industrial training, said today.

The classes will be held from 4 to 6 p. m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, Nelson added. It is hoped to start the series next Monday at 4 p. m. in the high school. Instructors will be Bend high school teachers of commercial subjects.

Island Veteran Is Bend Visitor

A veteran of 19 months service in the south Pacific, including the Bougainville fighting, Staff Sgt. Arthur L. Slate, graduate from Bend high school with the class of 1941, is spending his furlough in Bend with his father, A. H. Slate, and other relatives. Sgt. Slate is a nephew of Joe Slate, Bend.

The young marine, member of an air force ground crew, wears a combat ribbon bearing two stars, and is also wearer of a unit citation ribbon. Sgt. Slate arrived here last night.

The Pacific veteran recalls seeing at least three Bend service men overseas. Ernie Zelick and Warren Sholes, both in the marines, were visited on distant Midway, and in an island port Art ran across Alfred Curtis of the U. S. navy. It was in July, 1943, that the sergeant saw Zelick and Sholes. Curtis was seen this past October.

Like other visitors from the Pacific theater of war, Sgt. Slate has little to say—he would rather talk about high school days and that Lava Bear basketball team of which he was a member, back some four years ago.

He decided to retire after the wreck and returned to a New Hampshire farm to live. But fate still pursued him and he slipped on a log while crossing a stream some years later and was drowned.
