Military Training Bill Delay Sought

Washington, Jan. 31 (AP)—Twelve of the nation's leading university presidents asked President Roosevelt today to delay action on compulsory postwar military training until the end of the war so the people could reach "a wise decision . . . after a cool and deliberate debate."

The adoption of peacetime conscription would be a revolutionary change in fundamental American policy, they said, "and to effect such a change under stress of war is unwise."

Letter Written In a letter to Roosevelt, urging him to delay his message on peacetime conscription at least until Germany's defeat, the educators said supporters of such legislation showed their distrust of the people in arguing that the program would fail to go through unless congress acted under stress of war.

It is to imply that the people cannot arrive at a wise decision on a great issue through the democratic processes," their letter said. The nation's experience with prohibition, they said, indicated "the unwisdom of attempting to determine long-run revolutionary policies in war time."

Signed by Presidents The letter was signed by Presidents James B. Conant of Harvard, Oliver C. Carmichael of Vanderbilt, Edmund E. Day of Princeton, Rufus C. Harris of Tulane, Robert M. Hutchins of Chicago, Frederick A. Mittlebush of Missouri, Dean W. Mallot of Kansas, Robert G. Sproul of California, Donald B. Tressider of Stanford, Herman B. Wells of Indiana, and Henry M. Wriston of Brown university.

The university heads asserted that the people are fighting in hopes of securing an enduring peace, and that adoption of permanent conscription now would be interpreted "as meaning that we must continue to live for an indefinite period in an armed camp."

Persons driving to ski areas with an extra seat or two in their cars have been asked to notify Mrs. Coyner. Her telephone is 649.

Revised Bulletin Ready On Breeding of Turkeys A revised edition of a former bulletin entitled "Management of Turkey Breeding Stock," by Noel L. Bennion, extension poultryman, has just been issued by the O.S.C. Extension service as bulletin No. 644. The new bulletin is somewhat larger than the old, contains more illustrations, and has some new data and reports on newer methods.

Oregon turkey growers normally keep from 300,000 to 325,000 turkey breeders, which produce more than six million poults. Only about one-third of these poults are brooded on Oregon farms, while two-thirds are exported as poults or hatching eggs to various parts of the United States, says Bennion.

Oregon-bred poults and hatching eggs are in widespread demand because this is a leading state in the development and production of the broad-breasted bronze type turkeys, Bennion adds. Some producers now are trapping, pedigree hatching, using family performance records in their program of turkey flock improvement.

Gleemen of Bend Well Received

The Bend Gleemen traveled through a snowstorm last night to present a concert in the auditorium of the Powell Butte grade school. The well received program was the same as that presented in Bend on Tuesday night and in Redmond on Thursday. Lloyd Lewis, principal of the Powell Butte school, presented the group of 15 singers.

Ticket sales in the Powell Butte section were in charge of Lewis, Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. Otto Pauls and Mrs. Letha Morris.

A delegation of Bend music lovers was present.

Groups to Hear U. S. Historian

Dr. Eden Quainton, chairman of the northwest commission to study the organization of the peace, will speak at a meeting at the First Presbyterian church at 8 p. m. Saturday. Dr. Quainton will speak at 12:30 p. m. Saturday before the American Association of University Women at the Pine Tavern. The public is invited to both speeches.

His appearance at the First Presbyterian church is sponsored by the Young Married Peoples group and will be open to the public. There he will discuss the Dumbarton Oaks peace proposals — the same topic scheduled for his luncheon appearance, and will conduct an open forum.

Dr. Quainton has been professor of modern European history at the University of Washington since 1924.

Deschutes Bill Goes in Hopper

Salem, Ore., Jan. 31 (AP)—The house today received a bill which would prohibit the pollution of water in the Deschutes river.

The bill, introduced by the committee on irrigation and drainage, was a companion bill to two which would require a $1000 bond for irrigation district officers, instead of a $5000 bond, and increase per day and mileage payments to such officers.

Also under the bills, irrigation districts would be permitted to pay membership to state and national reclamation associations.

Burglars Enter Bend Elks Club

Breaking into the rear door of the Elks building, burglars early today made off with a case of beer, according to officers. The burglary was discovered by Jess Heller, street department employe, as he made his way through the alley between Oregon and Minnesota avenues shortly after 4 a. m.

Charles D. Brown, 134 Irving avenue, and Paul Sevy, 1654 West Second street, members of the Elks lodge, were called to the scene, and told officers that a case of beer had been stolen. State Officer Frank Chapman and Bend Policeman Lyn Bartholomew sought fingerprints on the door, and reported they had found tell-tale footprints in the snow.

Dressing Room To Close Friday

Many women who made surgical dressings for the Red Cross left their smocks in the county commission room in the Deschutes county courthouse when the surgical dressing section closed down early this month, Mrs. A. E. Stevens, production chairman, said today. As the commission wishes to use the quarters formerly occupied by the surgical dressing sections, it is necessary that the smocks be removed at once, she added.

"Smocks must be taken from the courthouse by Friday," Mrs. Stevens stated, "or they will be otherwise disposed of."

Overseas Fighter Visits in Shevlin

Shevlin, Jan. 31 (Special)—Veteran of five major battles during 28 months overseas, Pvt. Frank W. Petersen, son of Mrs. Myrtle Petersen of Shevlin, is here on a 30-day furlough and recuperating from wounds received in the European war theater. Wearer of the Silver star, the Purple heart and campaign ribbons denoting his participation in the five major battles, Pvt. Petersen is scheduled to return to the Barnes General hospital in Vancouver, after visiting here with his brothers and sister, Mrs. Grass.

Pvt. Petersen's overseas experience also had the nature of a family reunion, for while in Sicily he received a surprise visit from his brother, Pfc. Chester Petersen; and in England he met his youngest brother, Sgt. Harold O. Petersen.

With General Patton The veteran overseas fighter was a member of Gen. Patton's forces on their march through North Africa and Sicily. After the Mediterranean campaigns, Pvt. Petersen was sent to England, then into France with Gen. Bradley's Second army, and was with his buddies through France, Belgium, Holland and into Germany as far as Aachen where he received two wounds while battling in the front lines.

Before enlisting, Pvt. Petersen was an employe of The Shevlin-Hixon Company in its camp, and he said he planned to return to the "old job" after the war.

Mrs. N. O. Lindh Dies at Age of 82

Mrs. N. G. Lindh, 82, Bend resident for 11 years, died after a year's illness on Saturday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Fred Iverson, in Grand Forks, N. D., it was learned today.

Mrs. Lindh was born near Oslo, Norway, on August 17, 1862. She came to the United States in 1884 and married Nils G. Lindh in Jamestown, N. D., on Dec. 5, 1888. In 1936 Mr. and Mrs. Lindh celebrated their golden wedding at the First Lutheran church in Bend.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindh lived in North Dakota until 1929, when they came to Bend and purchased a residence at 1215 Union street where they lived until leaving this community for Grand Forks in early March, 1941.

Mrs. Lindh is survived by her husband, Nils G. Lindh of Grand Forks; her daughter, Mrs. Iverson, five sons and nine grandchildren.

Her sons are Arthur Lindh, Grants Pass; Carl J. Lindh, Bend; Gustave Lindh, Klamath Falls; Frank Lindh, Hammond, Ind., and Walter Lindh of Portland.

Harold Carlson Killed in Action

Pfc. Harold R. (Bud) Carlson, 19, was killed in infantry action in Belgium on Dec. 26, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar A. Carlson, 1813 E. W. Front avenue, Portland, have been notified.

Pfc. Carlson attended Kenwood school and entered Bend high school as a freshman in September, 1940. He transferred to a Vancouver, Wash., high school in early 1941. He entered the army last January and went overseas in October.

He is survived by his parents, who lived at 1202 Ogden avenue, Bend, before leaving for Vancouver; three sisters and two brothers. He also leaves four uncles and a brother-in-law who are all in the service.

Memorial services for Pfc. Carlson were held this afternoon in Vancouver.

The boy's father was an employe of The Brooks-Scanlon Lumber Company Inc.

Work or Fight Bill Simplified

Washington, Jan. 31 (AP)—The house today cleared the way to passage of the May compulsory war work bill by voting down the controversial amendments that might have killed it.

Shortly after rejecting an anti-closed shop amendment by a vote of 178 to 142, the house voted 148 to 113 against a proposal by Rep. Charles R. Clason, R. Mass., to insert a fair employment practices provision in the measure.

The votes followed a plea by Speaker Sam Rayburn, who personally took command of the administration fight for the bill, for its approval without changes. He warned that adoption of any controversial amendments would defeat the measure which he said was "vitally necessary to the war effort."

Glassow Named Pine Director

A. J. Glassow, general manager of the Brooks-Scanlon Lumber Company Inc., was elected a director of the Western Pine association when members of district No. 4, comprising northeastern Oregon, met yesterday at the Pilot Butte inn. August J. Stange, president of the Mt. Emily Lumber company of La Grande, was also named a director.

Approximately 40 members of the association from Baker, La Grande, Warm Springs, Bend, Prineville and Redmond attended the meeting, when members for different committees were nominated.

The gathering was informed that the annual meeting of the members of the Western Pine association, scheduled to be held in Portland Feb. 7 and 8, had been cancelled and that a directors' meeting would be held in Bend instead. Glassow, as a new director, planned to attend this session.
