Limit Placed on Top Grade Steaks By Chiefs of OPA

fice of price adminisration acted today to put a larger proportion of available top-grade steaks and roasts in the counter of the corner butcher instead of the hands of butcher instead of the hands of black market operators. The outlook for total civilian meat supplies remained dark, however, with large allocations to be made to the armed services.

The OPA ordered limitations on the amounts of the two top grades
of beef that any in divid u al slaughterer in the country may handle during the next two months.

This, the agency said, will strike at some slaughterers who have limited their kills exclusively to good and choice cattle, drawing supplies from other slaughterers and putting distribution out of balance.

Reason Explained

"Much of this (top-grade) beef has been going consistently into the black market," OPA said. "Some retail slaughterers also have concentrated on the two top grades. All now will be required to kill some of the lower grades and distribute this meat to their and distribute this meat to their

To carry out the action, OPA divided the country into three zones. In zone A, which includes the mountain and west coast states, slaughterers during the next two months will be limited in good and choice beef to 75 percent of their kill; zone B, including the corn belt and northeast. ing the corn belt and northeast-ern states, also has a 75 per cent quota; slaughterers in zone C,

Will Adjust Percentages
OPA said these percentages would be adjusted from time to time to reflect supply changes of various grades of cattle.

"This season of the year is normally the time when the percentage of good and choice cattle available for slaughter is fairly high, because the bulk of the slaughter cattle coming to stockyards are from feed lots," the announcement said.

Lower grades of cattle are not available in the same numbers as at other times of the year, hence the necessity for adjustment, OPA
