Air Base Paper 'Mom' at Center

Reamond, Feb. b—A glowing tribute to Mrs. Jesse Tetherow, director of the Redmond Service Men's center, is contained in the last issue of "Pabloid," publica-tion for filers and civilian employes at Portland army air base and the Redmond field. Referring to her as "Mom", the story de-scribes how Mrs. Tetherow keeps the center comfortable and home-the center comfortable and home-like.

Some of the adoration shown by the Redmond field filers is, re-ficeted in the following excepts from the "Pabloid" story:

"Perhaps it isn't the looks so much as the lovely gray hair and the smile which says "This is your home. Now make it so'; and 'A few hands of bridge and cribbage with Mom (she excels in both) is more to be enjoyed than attend-ing the show with the prettiest girl in town."
