By Elmer C. Walzer
(United Press Financial Editor)

OLC Committee Starts Hearings

By Eric W. Allen, Jr.
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Salem, Ore., Feb. 9 (UP)—The Oregon joint legislative committee, appointed to investigate the 1943 purchase of two Kentucky distilleries by the Oregon and Washington liquor control commissions for nearly $7,500,000, today considered evidence presented at its first meeting.

Ray Conway, secretary and administrator of the Oregon commission, told the committee, headed by Sen. Paul Patterson, that the commission had felt that the law under which it operated made it mandatory for it to obtain the liquor demanded by the public.

The idea of the purchase was first originated late in September of 1943, Conway said. He reported that liquor stocks were at an all-time low in June of that year, when only 12,000 cases of whiskey were on hand, and the monthly rate of consumption ran around 50,000 cases.

Reasons Given Why the Deal had been Made

He gave three chief reasons why the deal had been made:

1. Partly to satisfy the larger and increasing demand for domestic whiskeys which were getting scarcer after the federal government had ordered manufacturing stopped.
2. For financial profit.
3. To lessen growing black market operations.

The purchase had the approval of the attorney general of Oregon and Washington, the Oregon board of control and the office of price administration.

More Donations Given Polio Fund

Battling the dread infantile paralysis is an expensive business, Mrs. J. F. Arnold, chairman of the Deschutes county fund drive for the Foundation for Infantile Paralysis announced today. Mrs. Arnold revealed the cost of combating the disease in this county as the campaign to raise funds here swung into its third week.

Since the drive began, Mrs. Arnold revealed, $1,145.45 has been expended on four cases in this community. Two of the cases are critical, Mrs. Arnold said.

1,000 Welders Out on Strike

Seattle, Feb. 9 (UP)—Nearly 1,000 welders struck at two Seattle shipyards today after six of their number were fired for failing to keep in good standing with the American Federation of Labor welders' union.

Henry A. Doty, national president of the United Brotherhood of Welders, Cutters and Helpers (Independent), said only 20 welders were left at the Todd-Pacific shipyard, and none were on the job at the Todd Dry Dock company.

Two Men Fined On Liquor Count

Sinatra Certain He Is in Army

New York, Feb. 9 (UP)—Frank Sinatra told friends today that "I think I'm in" the armed forces.

The crooner was dismissed from Station Hospital, Governor's Island, last night, after an 11-hour physical examination, ordered by his draft board. Army doctors did not announce their findings.

The doctors will report to Sinatra's draft board in Jersey City, which will notify the Voice at his suite in the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, where he is said to be "a bundle of nerves."

The physical examination included a complete head X-ray. The 118-pound crooner had been classified 4-F earlier because of a punctured ear drum.

His appearance at the Newark, N. J., armory for the examination brought out scores of bobby-sox girls, who mobbed him.

His wife, Nancy, and his two children, were in Hollywood.

600,000 Nippon Troops Isolated

Washington, Feb. 9 (UP)—Reliable sources estimated today that more than 600,000 Japanese troops—a good-sized force in anybody's army—have been cut off from direct contact with their homeland by the American island-hopping drive toward Tokyo.

Some enemy groups are completely isolated; others are still being supplied by submarine or surface craft; that manage to sneak through the ever-tightening American blockade. None, however, will be available for defense of the Japanese homeland when eventually it is invaded.
