Youth Club Notes

Bare Facts from the Bears' Den

Monday was decided on as the permanent night to hold student council meetings. The council will meet at 7:30 and on the first Monday of every month. The adult advisors will also attend. Advisors are Vern Larson, R. E. Jewell, Phil F. Brogan, K. C. Gulick and Mrs. P. N. Armstrong. To make it more convenient for these meetings the club will be open to members on Thursday evenings instead of Monday.

The student council, with Miss Jacobson, part time director, is discussing various plans to help the community. They have also ordered more chairs and will soon have plans in progress for cleaning and papering a store room. Plans were discussed to place a loud speaker on the phonograph to distribute the music more evenly around the room. It was also suggested to invite different members to the council meetings in order that more members may be informed. Mass meetings for all members will be held on the first Thursday of every month at which different issues may be voted on and suggestions discussed.

There is a possibility of lowering dues which will be dependent on complete cooperation of every member in paying them at the scheduled time, good attendance every day, and willing men to help with all the work of the club when asked. Royal De Loney is the January champion in ping pong with Al Miles runner-up. Anyone feeling lucky may challenge Royal and if they beat him they will have the title of champion. The February tournament is now under way with the following members participating: Jim Lambers, Dick Maudlin, Harold Smith, Phil Gillis, John Davis, Bud Filey, Barbara Terlaner, Royal De Long, Phil Brogan, Bob Conklin, Bill Lane, Babe Maudlin, Ruth Devereaux, Joan Busha, Don Bushnell and Al Miles.

The members of the club would like to express their thanks to all the senior hostesses for the fine job they are doing and also the Freshman Sub Deb club for cleaning and scrubbing last Thursday.

Manner in Which Polio Funds Are Distributed Here Is Told

The manner in which funds are collected and dispersed in Deschutes county in the battle against poliomyelitis is indicated in a financial report made public today by the county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. The report was signed by Mrs. J. F. Arnold, chairman, and Helen M. Cole, treasurer. Before any funds are allocated to a patient, the sufferer's case is thoroughly studied by a local committee composed of physicians and business persons, Mrs. Arnold explained. Relief is issued, she said, only upon the recommendation of the committee. Half of the funds raised in the county are given to the national organization, it was reported, the balance being retained here for local use.

Highways and Byways in Books

By Eleanor F. Brown (Deschutes County Librarian) A variety of subjects from French opera arias to "Captain Kidd's Cats" is included in the selection of eight new record albums added to the Deschutes county library's music collection this week. Five of the new albums are for adults, and three are predominantly of interest to children.

One of the loveliest of the group recordings is the Gladys Swarthout rendition of French opera arias from "Romeo and Juliette," "Faust," and "Mignon." She is accompanied by the Victor Symphony orchestra. The well-known "Rhapsody in Blue," by George Gershwin, played by Andre Kostelanetz and his orchestra and featuring Alec Templeton, is another of the new group, sure to be popular with Gershwin enthusiasts.

A real musical masterpiece—quiet, reflective, and pastoral for the most part, with occasional bursts of melodic power—is the composition "In Nature's Realm," by Dvorak, played by the Chicago Symphony orchestra, with Frederick Stock conducting. It is the musical expression of the emotions awakened in Dr. Antonin Dvorak by certain aspects of the three great creative forces of the Universe—Nature, Life, and Love.

Another famous composition, but this time purely American, is the Ferde Grofe "Grand Canyon Suite," which the library has not owned until now. It is performed by Andre Kostelanetz and his orchestra and represents perhaps the highest point which any composer has achieved thus far in the symphonic jazz idiom.

One of those in-between albums, likely to be enjoyed equally by young and old is a narrative condensed version of Robert Louis Stevenson's "Treasure Island," with the principal narrator Basil Rathbone. He has a supporting cast and a chorus conducted by Richard Davis. Affording more than half an hour of continuous entertainment and excellently presented with appropriate sound effects, this album is one we recommend heartily for the whole family's enjoyment.

For the small children two novelty albums are included. One—An Arabian Hall story, is entitled "Captain Kidd's Cats," or "Tales of the Sea," and relates the rollicking, roistering adventures of three cats who sailed the seven seas with the famous pirate. Fictional in content, to say the least, it has some good voices and a series of entertaining stories. The Columbia Children's music-story group has a number of these albums, of which the library expects to acquire more from time to time. Strictly story with sound effects—that is, with the music decidedly subordinated to the plot, is "Herman, the Littlest Locomotive," a Vernon Crane story album. This and "Captain Kidd's Cats" are both on standard ten-inch records and contain four and two records respectively.

An exhibit of children's books, new in this last few weeks, will be held the first week in March, according to Miss Marian Zipse, children's librarian. Some of the outstanding books will be listed and described in the next "Highways and Byways" approximately two weeks from today.

Story hours are being held each Saturday from 11 a. m. to 12 noon, and parents are urged to send their children from 4 to 10 years of age. Monthly radio story hours are also conducted for children over KEND at 8 p. m. on Monday evenings. The next date is Monday, Feb. 15.

Prineville Faces School Changes

Prineville, Feb. 14 (Special)—The Prineville and Crook county school systems seem to be due for several changes in the administrative personnel, it was learned here this week.

R. H. McAtee, who is just finishing eight years of service as county unit superintendent has tendered his resignation to the school board to take effect as soon as his successor can be found. McAtee has been in school work 42 years in practically all school positions from rural to his present position, most of his work having been in Washington.

His last position before coming here was a double one, superintendent and high school principal in the Hermiston schools. He makes no statement about the future except that he is going to take a needed rest and will go fishing as soon as possible. Mr. McAtee has done a good job in Crook county and will leave the work well organized for his successor, school officials say.

Two Others Resign Principal Dallas W. Norton of the high school and David Staley principal of the grade school also have resigned. Norton came here two years ago from the Pendleton schools. He has done an outstanding piece of work with the school board. Staley is finishing four years in the grade school, the last two as principal. Both Norton and Staley have masters degrees from the University of Oregon.

The school board is confronted with a building expansion to meet the ever growing and much overcrowded system. The present plans are to construct a new 12 room grade school building in west Prineville. Contractors are to be on hand this week to submit plans.

CITY CHARGE FACED Accused of creating a disturbance at 524 Harriman street shortly after midnight, Loretta Folsom, who refused to state her age and gave her occupation as a barmaid, today was held in the county jail on a drunk charge. She was arrested by police who jailed her in lieu of a $25 bond.
