

Market Develops Steadier Tone

By Elmer C. Walzer
(United Press Financial Editor)

New York, Feb. 23 (UP)—The stock market developed a steadier tone in the late trading today after the leading groups had registered declines ranging to more than a point.

Volume dwindling in the early recession and this indication that traders were in no hurry to unload, plus favorable dividend and corporation report items, aided the recovery from the lows.

General Electric turned active and moved up to a new high for the year when the directors moved the annual dividend payment to 1.60 a share from 1.40 a share paid since 1940. Metal shares continued to attract attention. And good buying came into many special issues.

Norfolk & Western lost nearly 3 points, a factor that pulled the railroad average down despite gains in many of the leading issues. Chrysler at its low of 101 1/4, ex-dividend, was off 2 1/2 points. Utilities lost slightly on average. Oils held better than other groups and several made new highs on gains ranging to 2 points in Superior Oil of California.

QUICK ON THE TRIGGER
Marion, Ind. (UP)—The drastic bacon shortage recently even bothered nurses, as was indicated when the technician was taking down the usual case history of Mrs. Leighton Leapey. After Mrs. Leapey answered all the questions, such as age, birthplace, parents' names, etc., she was asked "Husband's occupation." The patient answered "grocer," and the nurse immediately asked, "Has he got any bacon?"

Largely because of fuel shortages several European countries are developing their natural gas deposits; these include Germany, Austria, Hungary and Italy, and to a lesser extent, France, the low countries and Switzerland.

Certain quantities of war-essential nitro-cellulose were obtained by Germany from a neutral country that was importing huge quantities of a manuring preparation containing this material from the allies.

Soviet Officer Calls Berlin, Talks to Mayor's Secretary

Moscow, Feb. 23 (UP)—The government newspaper Izvestia swears it actually happened—a German-speaking Russian officer talked with the secretary of the mayor of Berlin by telephone.

The Russian end of the conversation took place in the telephone exchange of a town captured intact by the red army. The Soviets had entered the town before dawn and when the people awakened they were bewildered by the sight of Russian troops.

Walking into the telephone exchange, Russian officers found efficient girl telephone operators still at work, unaware the Soviets were in town. One of the officers, a Major Sergeev, spoke excellent German. He ordered one of the girls to place a call to the mayor of Berlin.

"Berlin speaking," said the operator at the other end of the line. "What number do you want?"

"Connect me with the mayor." "Just a second."

"Hello, this is the mayor's secretary, Zalzbach speaking."

"Herr Burgomeister, please," the Russian officer said. "Herr Burgomeister is absent," the secretary replied. "What can I do for you?"

"Okay, I'll speak to you," said Sergeev. "How are things?"

"Who's speaking?"

"The mayor of town 'N'."

"Well, things are so so. I think they are quite near. How are things in 'N'?"

"Fine. The Soviets captured the town an hour ago."

"That's a stupid joke. I am going to complain to the burgomeister."

"You complain to Hitler."

"Who is speaking?"

"A Soviet officer. See you soon. We will continue the conversation in person. See you soon, Herr Zalzbach."
