

Veterans' Council Studies New Bills

Discussion of pending veteran legislation highlighted last night's session of the Deschutes county Veterans council which met at 8 p.m. in the chamber of commerce office with Commander D. Ray Miller in charge.

The building committee presented progress reports regarding a veteran memorial building which is seen as a definite possibility in the future.

Because a suitable arena is not now available in Bend, plans for sponsoring boxing bouts were temporarily pigeonholed.

County Service Officer Louis Hephrey reported that in the month of February 108 veteran cases passed through his hands. Of that number, 83 were world war II veterans, 21 were world war I veterans and four fought in the Spanish-American war. Their problems ran the gamut of the G. I. bill of rights, it was indicated, dealing with everything from government loans to funeral benefits.

Funeral Set for Mrs. H. A. Hart

The funeral for Mrs. Harriett Ann Hart, 76, who died here yesterday morning, will be held at the Niswonger and Winslow funeral chapel at 2 p.m. Friday, it was announced today. Rev. W. I. Palmer will have charge of the services, and burial will follow in Greenwood cemetery.

Mrs. Hart, who resided at 36 Cascade place, was a native of Terre Haute, Ind., and came to Bend 12 years ago. She came here from Harper, Ore., and with her husband, George H. Hart, celebrated her 60th wedding anniversary last Nov. 17.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Hart leaves six daughters, four sons, one brother, a half sister, 22 grandchildren and 25 great grandchildren.

The daughters are Mrs. Frank Schuler, Mrs. Dick Harris and Mrs. Otto Lipps, Bend, and Mrs. Clarence Miller, Fruitland, Ida., and Mrs. Fred Link of Springdale, Wash. The sons are Edward, Ontario, Ore., Ivan S., Napa, Ida., George W., Westfall, Ore., and Walter of Drusey, Ore. The brother is Grant Wolliver.

PROWLER REPORTED
Bend police shortly before midnight last night were called to the home of Mrs. J. M. Kulstad on Route 2, after she had reported that a strange man had knocked on the door of her residence and demanded entrance and a place to sleep. When she refused, Mrs. Kulstad said that the prowler disappeared in the darkness toward the barn. Officers, however, were unable to locate him.

Bus Hits Home; Sixteen Injured

Portland, Ore., March 7 (UP) — A bus laden with 40 passengers crashed into a residence on North Interstate avenue here late last night when it ran wild because the brakes failed to hold. Sixteen persons were injured.

And, adding larceny to injury, watches and billfolds of the passengers were stolen after the valuables had been strewn from the pockets of the passengers by the impact of the collision.

The bus, coming into Portland from Vancouver, was operated by Paul G. Maranville, 22, who told police that the brakes failed to respond when he applied them going downhill at Greeley avenue.

The big bus shot across an intersection at Greeley, barely missed a steel pole and plunged into the home of James H. Hanson.

The front wheels of the bus were sheered off and the front of the house was battered in. Sixteen persons were given hospital treatment.

USES Arranges New Services

Arrangements have been completed to furnish once a week itinerant service to residents, business firms and veterans in Redmond, it was announced today by J. C. Branaman, manager of the Bend Local Office of the United States Employment service.

For the present an employment service representative will be on hand in the council chamber of the Redmond city hall every Friday morning from 9 to 12. First call is scheduled for Friday, March 16. Itinerant service will also be established at Madras within the next few weeks.

Bill Restricts Stock Grazing

Running of livestock at large on several additional townships in the Deschutes county livestock district near Tumalo, without the property owners' consent, is forbidden in a measure passed by the state senate today at Salem, according to a report received here. The bill, SB 297, was introduced by Rep. William Niskanen and Sen. Marshall Cornett. The added townships are located at the south end of district 3, near Tumalo.

"I've seen the population tripled in Yakima Valley"
says Erling Helliesen, Manager, Helliesen Lumber Company, Yakima

"When I came to Yakima in 1911, the year after PP&L was organized, there were only 42,000 people in the entire county. Now there are 125,000. That's real progress! And this part of the country is bound to keep growing.

"In the past 34 years there have been thousands of acres of land put under irrigation in this valley; orchards and farms have blossomed out of the sagebrush; one new industry after another has come in here and added to the stability of our community.

"Always a step ahead of this progress, I've seen PP&L develop its system to keep us all supplied with electricity for every need, at lower and lower rates. The very first year I was here, they cut the price about 25 per cent from what it was when the company started business in 1910. Now it's only about one-fourth of what it was 35 years ago.

"An outfit that has helped us come such a long way in such a short time is one that's worth tying to!"

Erling Helliesen, native of Norway, came to Yakima in 1911 and joined his brother, H. M. Helliesen, in the lumber business. In those days, a lumber dealer had to be a combination of architect, planner and furnisher of building supplies. All materials were hauled by team, and a farmer from the Naches or Cowlitz area—15 or 20 miles away—would spend two days getting a load of lumber out to his place. Through the years this firm has supplied lumber and materials for general building in Yakima, Selah, Cowlitz, Naches, Tieton and rural areas throughout the upper valley to house the expanding population.

With his nephew, Harold, son of the founder, Mr. Helliesen continues to operate the lumber company. Their outlook for peacetime is to assist in the planning and building of homes, business and farm buildings to meet the requirements of the modern electrical age. His own home is all-electric, with range, water heater, refrigerator, and a number of small time-saving electrical appliances.
