

A SONG TO REMEMBER

by Willard Wiener

XXVIII
THE UNREAL WORLD

The piano arrived! Frederic's heaven was complete. He improvised, he played, he composed. Waltzes, preludes, nocturnes, came from his pen, one after another, in tumbling profusion. "Ah," he would say, "wait until they hear this one!" Then he would begin to talk with enthusiasm of his forthcoming concert. He would forget himself and remind George that he had hoped he had forgotten of his purpose in coming to France.

"Will you still harp on it?" He was apologetic. "George, I'm sorry."

She was not convinced. "Frederic, I try so hard to make you see the pattern of your life—then you talk to me of concerts—"

"Yes, George, I will forget them."

"All that I've been building up," she said, "falls down."

"—And you have to pick me up again?" he said meekly.

"I'm serious, Frederic; and I want you to be serious."

"—I sit at your feet, Madame."

"Then, Monsieur, you will not talk of concerts. There will be no concerts. Do we understand that?"

admonition from Monsieur Pleyel—and play one or more of the Chopin compositions.

He was at the piano now, in a despondent mood, and the piece he was playing—a Chopin nocturne—did nothing to lift his despondency.

"Bravo!" cried Henri Dupont as Jozef Elsner finished the nocturne.

Monsieur Pleyel said: "That's what I call saleable—as well as beautiful."

Jozef Elsner peered over his spectacles.

"What do you say, Jozef?"

"—Humph."

"Elsner, where's your ear?" He picked up a sheet of Chopin scores. "Magnificent! Every one! A waltz—Mazurka—Nocturne—another nocturne—Waltz Brillante—"

He deposited them on the piano. "Go through them, Elsner! Go through them—"

"Is this all he sent? He sent nothing else?"

Monsieur Pleyel looked at Henri Dupont and Henri Dupont looked at Monsieur Pleyel.

"—I was thinking, Louis, of a particular work. Oh, this music is all right. No! More than that. It is charming. Frederic knows what he is doing. Don't misunderstand me, Louis. But this other piece that I am always looking for—it is a bigger work—a very important piece—the polonaise."

Monsieur Pleyel wet his lips. Henri Dupont rubbed his nose.

"I don't know about the Polonaise," Monsieur Pleyel said. "It may be in the next bundle. Who knows? I'll look forward to it. But these are in hand! Elsner, these will sell!"

Jozef Elsner said: "I have no doubt."

"Go through them. Convince yourself—"

Jozef Elsner shook his head. He got up from the piano. "Louis, you are arranging for Frederic's concerts?"

"Concerts! And what concerts! Let him write works like these and there won't be concert halls big enough!"

"You think he won't return, Louis?"

Louis Pleyel blustered and Henri Dupont's mouth fell open. Louis Pleyel said: "I think no such thing, Elsner, why do you accuse me?"

Jozef Elsner twisted his head. "He wrote you he wasn't returning, Eh? He told you that, didn't he, Louis?"

Jozef Elsner reached for his hat. "—He did tell you?"

"Jozef, didn't he tell you?"

"—Yes, of course. That's how I know. He tells me everything. There's nothing he doesn't tell me. I am his teacher. Why wouldn't he tell me?"

Jozef Elsner twisted his head again. "And now, Louis—I can tell you something. He will return. Yes, I don't think. I know. You will see, Louis; you will see."

He clamped his hat on his head. "Good day, Messieurs; good day."

When there was no news from Frederic, Jozef Elsner made news out of his own head. It was important that he do it. He must never fall to post his accustomed letter to Papa and Mamma Chopin.

"—The music he sends back will make him quite famous. There is no doubt about that. His concerts, too, will be very successful. For these reasons, my dear friends, I have urged him to stay in Majorca as long as possible—"

$17,300,000 Base In North Useless

Headquarters, Alaskan Department, March 8 (AP)—Military authorities today lifted the blanket of secrecy which for more than two years has prevented mention in the press of a giant $17,300,000 (M) "white elephant" shipping base at Excursion Inlet, 65 miles southwest of Juneau.

The base, which was never used and now has been abandoned, was constructed by order of Lt. Gen. John DeWitt, dated July 31, 1942. It was to serve as a trans-shipment point for Aleutian war supplies to be brought by barge from Seattle and reloaded into vessels shuttling between Excursion Inlet and the Aleutians.

DeWitt then was head of the Western defense command and in command of land and air operations against the Japs on Kiska and Attu.

The installation, which compared economically with the Canal project, was constructed on a cost plus fixed fee basis by the Guy F. Atkinson company of San Francisco. It was completed in 14 months but by the time it was ready for use on Aug. 25, 1943, the last Jap invaders in the Aleutians had been killed or had fled back to their homeland.

Army transportation officers said the base was justified because of the critical shortage of ships available in the Pacific. The operation of tow barges between Seattle and Excursion Inlet would have released a number of ships for the northern shuttle.

Norma Blackstone returned to school Monday following two weeks at home with the mumps.

Jackie and Jimmy, small sons of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson are home from school with the whooping cough.

Jean and Dorothy Ann Hanneman and Leora Andrews went to Portland by bus Friday and returned Monday for a visit with their sisters, Vivian Hanneman and Edna Marie Andrews, who are attending a business college there.

North Tumalo Red Cross unit met with Mrs. Del Davis Thursday, March 1. The next meeting, March 15, will be at the home of Mrs. George F. Thompson. Any one interested in serving for the Red Cross is invited to attend the meeting. A potluck luncheon will be held at noon.

Forgotten Favorites

These days, when meals aren't everything they used to be, a little ingenuity in the kitchen goes a long way. For new variety in meals... we suggest these old-time favorites. You know, sometimes there's nothing as new as an old forgotten recipe.

HOMEMADE NOODLES
1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour 1/2 tsp. salt
1 egg 1 egg
1 tsp. baking powder 2 tsp. water

Sift flour, measure; sift again with baking powder and salt. Beat egg slightly in bowl. Alternately add flour mixture and water, working in all flour. Place on lightly floured board and knead one minute. Roll dough paper-thin, roll up as for jelly-roll; cut in 1/4-inch widths. Unroll and shake out, separating well. Drop into rapidly boiling liquid; cook uncovered 20 minutes until tender; keep liquid at a rolling boil during entire cooking period. Serves 6. Note: The noodle roll may be wrapped and stored uncooked in refrigerator.

Note: To carry out a St. Patrick's Day color scheme, 1 cup finely cut parsley may be added to flour.

BREAD PUDDING
3 cups milk 1/4 tsp. nutmeg
3 cups soft bread crumbs 1/2 tsp. grated lemon rind
3 eggs 1/4 tsp. lemon extract
3/4 cup sugar

Pour milk over bread in large bowl and let stand about 20 minutes, or until bread is well soaked. Add egg yolks, 1/2 cup of the sugar, nutmeg, and lemon rind. Beat with rotary beater until thoroughly combined. Pour into well greased 1 1/2 quart baking dish or individual custard cups. Bake in pan of hot water in slow oven (325° F.) 1 hour and 20 minutes if in baking dish, or if in individual custard cups, bake one hour, or until almost firm to the touch. Remove from oven and the pan of hot water. Top with meringue made by beating egg whites until just stiff; add remaining 1/4 cup sugar, gradually, beating well after each addition; continue beating until mixture holds peak; add flavoring. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 15 minutes, or until meringue is brown. Chill. Serve with spoonfuls of jam or jelly. Serves 6.
