

Bishop Craighill To Speak in Bend

Bishop Lloyd Craighill of Lynchburg, Va., who was repatriated from occupied China on the first trip of the S. S. Gripsholm, is to be the guest speaker at a mass meeting arranged for Trinity Episcopal parish hall in Bend on Friday evening, at 8 o'clock, Rev. G. R. V. Bolster announced today. Accompanying Bishop Craighill to Bend will be his wife, who was a member of the Presbyterian mission in China. She is also to speak.

All Episcopalians, Presbyterians and others interested are being invited to hear Bishop and Mrs. Craighill. Refreshments will be served by the Episcopal Ladies guild.

Bishop Craighill is to address the Bend high school assembly Friday at 1 p.m.

Classmate Of Marshall
Bishop Craighill is a graduate from Washington Lee university and the Virginia Theological seminary, and also a fellow student of General George C. Marshall at the Virginia Military institute. His eldest brother was a classmate of Bishop William P. Remington of eastern Oregon at the Virginia seminary.

The churchman was sent to China to the Episcopal diocese of Anking in 1916 and consecrated bishop of that missionary district in 1940. In the short period between his consecration and his interment by the Japanese he made an outstanding record, Rev. Bolster points out.

Bishop and Mrs. Craighill are to continue their tour after visiting in Bend, and will speak in California, Arizona and New Mexico.

PERFECT LANDING
Huntington, Ind. (AP)—At least this pilot guessed right! When he was delivering the private plane which Ralph Brown had ordered for his personal use in CAP work, the pilot found he was low on gas and had to land immediately. He landed on an empty plot and walked next door to a farmhouse, only to find that it was the home of Ralph Brown.

Hawaii Statehood May Not Be Far Distant; Solons to Visit

By Charles R. McCabe
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington (AP)—A congressional subcommittee will visit Hawaii soon, marking the first investigation of the islands since pre-Pearl Harbor days, when Hawaiians by plebiscite voted for admission into the union as the 49th state.

The visit, which will be undertaken by a house naval-affairs subcommittee under the chairmanship of Rep. Ed. V. Izac, D., Cal., will officially investigate the critical housing condition brought on by the influx of many thousands of servicemen and war workers into the territory and particularly Honolulu, the capital.

It is probable that the inquiry will bring to the fore the question of Hawaii's future political status. Last visit in 1937.

The last congressional visit to the islands was undertaken in 1937 by a joint committee of the senate and house under the chairmanship of former Senator William D. King, D., Utah. The group of 12 senators and 12 representatives plus the then-delegate from Hawaii, Samuel W. King, was authorized to "conduct a comprehensive investigation" into the question of statehood and other matters relating to the territory's welfare.

After intensive hearings in the islands of Oahu, Hawaii and Molokai and visits by committee members to the other two major islands—

Maul and Kauai—the joint committee recommended in its official report to congress that action on the statehood question be deferred until the Hawaiians had an opportunity to express their sentiments.

In 1940 a plebiscite on statehood was conducted in the territory. Out of a total of 68,552 votes cast, 46,124 voted in favor of statehood and 22,428 against.

War Record Cited
The joint committee in its report stated that "unmistakable evidence that a substantial majority desire statehood should precede favorable action by congress." Many Hawaiians feel that this nearly 70 per cent favorable vote in the plebiscite constitutes "unmistakable evidence" of the wishes of the majority.

Since Pearl Harbor, the question of "status" has been placed behind the job of winning the war. Hawaii's delegate in congress, Joseph R. Farrington, introduced a statehood resolution in the last session but made it clear that he acted mainly to keep the record clear on Hawaii's aspirations.

Advocates of statehood say Hawaii's war record has strengthened her claim to admission into the union. Among other things, they point to the islands' continued high production of war-essential sugar in face of a substantial decrease in plantation manpower and Hawaii's increasingly heavy tax contributions to the federal treasury. Statistics show that Hawaii's tax load for the fiscal year 1942 exceeded that of many of the states.

1944 Platforms in Favor
Hawaii's legislature meets in the early part of this year and it is almost certain that the island lawmakers will reaffirm their often-expressed desire for equal political footing with the other states. Their action will find support in the democratic and republican party platforms adopted in 1944.

The democratic platform favored "enactment of legislation granting the fullest measure of self-government" for the three major territories and "eventual statehood for Alaska and Hawaii."

The republican convention declared that "Hawaii, which shares the nation's obligations equally with the several states, is entitled to the fullest measure of home-rule looking toward statehood..."

Boy Now Believed Victim of Fire

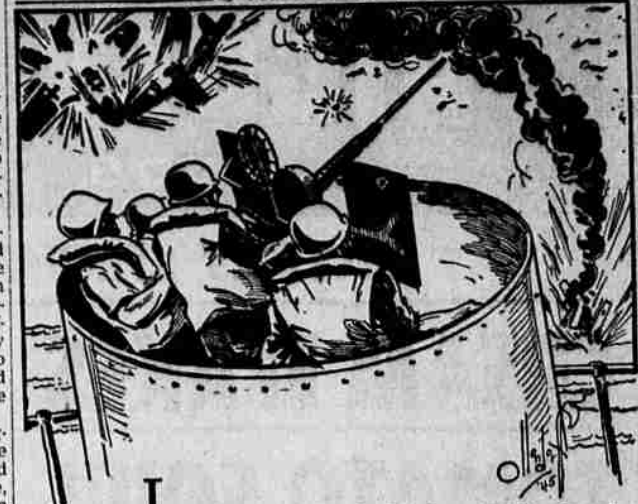

Toledo, Ore., March 8 (AP)—Oregon State police today are continuing an investigation of the disappearance of 15-year-old Lee Roy Bridges who is believed to have perished in flames which destroyed the Bridges' home February 20.

Dr. Joseph Beeman of a Portland state laboratory has reported that remains of human bones have been found in the ashes which accounts for the change in theories of the state police. The officers originally believed the boy had escaped the flames because no evidence of the body was found in the debris at the time of the fire.

The boy's father, Wilkie Bridges, said he had returned home late on the night of February 19 and remaining in his car to smoke, had fallen asleep. He awoke, when an explosion about 6 a.m. spread flames through the house.

The Aztec political unit in Mexico and the Inca in Peru, found by Spanish explorers following Columbus, were composed of city-states somewhat similar to the Old World city-states.

AMERICAN HEROES
