Donations Drop; Drive Continues

Quota Received to Date Balance $22,300 $4,928 $17,372

Donations to the American Red Cross Fourth War Fund drive have taken a decided slump, it was reported today at the headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce offices.

Where a total of $4,388 was checked up on the first day of the campaign on Monday, only $540 was received on Tuesday, and indications were that less than this had been taken in Wednesday, it was reported.

Women who staffed the headquarters were outwardly dismayed, and Harold Gentry, head of the Junior chamber of commerce sponsored drive in the city, dolefully commented:

"Certainly our people are not going to throw down our boys who are fighting for them and their liberty! We must not slacken our efforts, but hurry to complete our quota and prove that we on the home front mean to back them up."

Is Not Roll Call Chairman Bruce Gilbert of the county-wide drive, said today that there was an apparent misunderstanding among some business firms regarding the present solicitation. Some believe that this present drive is the annual roll call, which has been suspended for the duration, Gilbert explained. But those who have realized this was not the roll call, have sent in larger contributions, but have failed to canvass their employees. It was the intent, Gilbert said, for the employers to solicit all their workers, and send in their contributions with their own individual donations. He urged that employers who have not collected from their workers, do so at once.

Women who worked at the headquarters are: Monday and Tuesday, Mrs. James Burgess, Mrs. Harold L. Gentry, Mrs. Wilfred Jossy, Mrs. Howard Marriott and Mrs. Lowell Aplin. Wednesday, Mrs. Burgess, Mrs. C. J. Rademacher, Mrs. Jossy, Mrs. Bruno Rath, Mrs. Harvey Field and Mrs. A. L. O. Schueler.

Japanese Warned Grave Days Ahead

Premier Kuniaki Koiso warned the Japanese people Thursday that "events of the immediate future will decide if the nation of Nippon is to survive or be eliminated from this earth."

The premier, in a speech to the sponsors of Japan's new "sure victory" political party, pleaded urgently for the Japanese to "throw away all personal interests and ambitions of all kinds and rise as one to save our very homes, our homeland and the imperial throne from the present crisis."

With U. S. marines only a few hundred yards from completing the conquest of Iwo and Iwo Jima, Koiso contended that the final issues of the war in the Pacific may be decided soon.

Speech Broadcast Koiso's speech was broadcast by Tokyo radio and recorded by United Press, San Francisco. "The enemy is anxious to shorten the war. He may launch without delay, a reckless, direct, and violent attack against the mainland in the near future. The entire nation must be fully prepared for such an eventuality," Koiso said.

He said the one hundred million people of Japan "must renew their determination to crush the enemy and shoulder responsibility for prosecution of the war—"one and all, young and old, man and woman, with all their spiritual and material resources."

"Only by making such an all-out effort and complete sacrifices of all things they possess can the present national crisis be overcome."

Grenade Thrower Bags Nippon Tank

Third Marine Division Command post, Iwo Jima, March 8 (U.S.—via navy radio)—A marine whose reported feat might well be the envy of any major league pitcher, today was credited with single-handedly destroying a Japanese tank with a hand grenade buried directly down the barrel of the tank's gun.

A forward observer reporting to this command post by telephone said excitedly: "One of our men just saw a Jap tank. He threw a grenade which went in the barrel of the tank's gun right through the open breach. It exploded inside, blowing up ammunition and completely destroying the tank."

One of the unidentified marines "strikeout," Maj. Gen. Graves B. Eiskrine, division commander, was cracked: "Get that man's name and loan him to the major leagues—they need him more than we do."

Octopus Juice Aid to Fatigue, Jap Fliers Told

Radio Tokyo offered something new for tired Japanese fliers today—octopus juice. "It has been discovered," said the Domei news agency in a broadcast recorded by FCC monitors, "that octopus extract, taurin, is an exceedingly efficacious remedy for relieving fatigue and as flying men."

Domei recommended boiling the octopus and drawing off the juice. The broadcast failed to include directions for catching the octopus.
