

New Weed Killer To Be Tested By OSC Researchers

The new hormone weed killer, now on the market under a trade name, has shown considerable promise in tests made nationally, but it has not yet been tried by the experiment station here in Oregon, says Virgil H. Freed, research assistant in weed control at Oregon State college. Tests have been arranged, however, so that information regarding this material for control of Canada thistle and morning glory should be available by late June or July, he says.

"Our information at the present time indicates that the material will cost in the neighborhood of $12 a gallon, which will be diluted with 60 gallons of water," Freed said. "At a normal rate of application for a heavy stand of weeds, the cost of material would be in the neighborhood of $50 per acre."

"In view of this cost and the fact that no Oregon results are yet on record, we suggest that anyone wishing to try the material do so on a small scale until more specific recommendations may be made." These costs may be substantially reduced when more material and more knowledge of its use are available, Freed adds.

Good Results Obtained
These hormone-type chemicals have shown surprisingly good results in tests made by the agricultural research administration of the U. S. department of agriculture. They were particularly effective as a selective spray in killing weeds in grass plots, lawns and pastures without damaging the grasses. The effect of the chemical is different from other herbicides. Instead of producing a local burning effect it spreads through the leaves and stems to kill the entire plant, roots and all.

Weed research men point out, however, that in handling such pests as morning glory with chemicals, even complete eradication of the old plants will not end the menace unless care is taken to dispose promptly of the new seedlings that come up in infested places. As many as 75 per cent of the seeds in the soil under old stands remain alive after the original plants have been killed.

Elks of Bend Plan For Annual Party

Bend Lodge No. 1371, B.P.O.E., will hold its annual stag party next Saturday from 2 p. m. to midnight, it was announced today. The party will be featured by boxing, a floor show and ample food, according to the announcement.

Murel Nehl, chairman of the boxing committee, said that a good fight card has been arranged, beginning at 7 o'clock.

William Stollmack, chairman of the entertainment committee, reported that a floor show has been engaged from Portland, and that this feature begins at 9 o'clock. Food will be served from 6 o'clock on, it was announced.

All Elks in good standing, and those whose applications are on file, are invited to attend. The latter, however, must be accompanied by a member.

Carl Hunt Signs For Navy Duties

Madras, March 8 (Special) — Carl E. Hunt, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Hunt, has enlisted for general service in the navy according to word received from the Bend navy recruiting station. Hunt will await completion of "boot" training for his assignment to a special branch of the navy. Hunt is in the 17 year-old group and has been attending Madras union high school where he was an outstanding athlete.

Soldier, Accused of Murder, Dies on Gallows in England

Pentonville Prison, London, March 8 (AP)—Pvt. Karl Gustav Hulten, 23, a Boston, Mass., paratrooper, was hanged today for the $30 murder of a taxicab driver.

He was the first American to die on a British gallows, home office records showed.

The youthful slayer, who gambled the proceeds of the murder on the dog races with his strip-tease partner in crime, showed neither fear nor emotion as he was led to the platform and placed on the trap door that plunged him to eternity.

Only a scant dozen prison officials witnessed the hanging in a small, enclosed courtyard of ancient Pentonville prison. Notice of the execution was posted on the prison gates at 9:09 a. m. as the prison flag dipped to half-staff.

A crowd of 250 men and women milled about the gates despite repeated shooing by police. Mrs. Violet Van Der Elst, crusader against capital punishment, was arrested when she attempted to enter the prison gates in a truck shortly after 9 a. m.

"He came here to be a paratrooper, not to hang," she shouted as police hustled her and the truck driver away through the sympathetic crowd.

Mrs. Elizabeth Jones, the 18-year-old strip-tease dancer who was condemned to death with Hulten for the murder of George Heath, "the man with the cleft chin," was beginning a life sentence at Aylesbury prison. At their joint trial in Old Bailey last January, both Hulten and Mrs. Jones confessed they entered Heath's taxicab with the intent of robbing him. But they differed as to who discharged the gun which killed him.

They said they robbed the body of $30 and gambled away most of it at the dog races.

London newspapers reported they received numerous telephone inquiries as to why the court had relieved only Mrs. Jones when both had been found equally guilty. A group of Scottish girls at a factory even threatened to strike if the death sentence were carried out.

WELDING BOOKS IN COLLEGE

Orono, Me. (AP)—The welding trade has hit college level. The University of Maine library is featuring a collection of books and magazines on latest developments in the welding industry. The collection was a gift of the James F. Lincoln Arc Welding Foundation, of Cleveland.

'LIGHT' SLOW IN COMING

Boston (AP)—James Fitzpatrick, who testified that he had spent half of his 78 years in jail, begged for clemency on the ground that he had "seen the light." Replied the judge: "It took you a long time—the light must have been quite a distance away."

Madras Assured Housing Rights

Madras, March 8 (Special)—Further housing facilities for Madras are assured if the community can show proof they are essential and permanent, according to assurance received today by Kenneth W. Sawyer, president of the Madras Chamber of commerce, from the war production board. Sawyer had made inquiry of the board, and was informed that the priorities might be authorized under certain conditions.

James E. Maxwell, representative of the national housing authority in Portland, wrote Sawyer in part:

"If the developments in Madras are essential and give evidence of permanency, some arrangements can be made with the limitations of the war production board regulations to authorize a limited amount of privately financed construction. If you believe there are individuals who wish to proceed with construction under some essential authorization we should be glad to consider your request."

LEAVE FOR CAMP

There's Greater Family Health Protection when Home "Danger Zones" are CLOROX-CLEAN!

YOUR spotless kitchen and bathroom, your freshly laundered linens may actually be "danger zones." They can look innocently clean, yet in reality harbor germs, a possible menace to your family's health. Ordinary cleansing of such "danger zones" is not enough. Added sanitation is needed. Clorox used in routine cleansing provides added sanitation. Clorox disinfects . . . it deodorizes, bleaches, removes stains, too. And Clorox is extra efficient, because it is ultra-refined, free from caustic, an exclusive patented quality-feature.

"Danger Zones" in the Bathroom! The bathroom, because it is the family's personal clean-up room, is a natural gathering place for dangerous germs. You can't see them but they're often present, even in spic-and-span bathrooms. For added health protection use Clorox regularly in cleansing your bathroom.

"Danger Zones" in the Kitchen! Make sure kitchen sanitation is not slighted, for infection dangers can spread rapidly. High standards of sanitation are easily attained with Clorox. It disinfects, deodorizes, also removes stains from dishcloths, china, glass, tile, enamel, linoleum, wood surfaces; it destroys mold; reduces risk of food spoilage.

Linens Beautifully White, Sanitary! Clorox gently bleaches your white cottons and linens snowy-white (brightens color-fast cottons and linens), removes stains, scorch, mildew . . . makes laundry fresh, sanitary. Clorox also reduces the need for long, vigorous rubbing, thus conserving fabrics. Use Clorox in laundering for a whiter, brighter and more sanitary wash.

WHY TAKE CHANCES! When it's CLOROX-CLEAN... it's Hygienically Clean!

HOME SANITATION GUIDE
