

Stassen Asserts America Should Aid Ailing World

By Harold Anderson
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Minneapolis, Minn., March 8 (UP)—Cmdr. Harold E. Stassen, a delegate to the United Nations conference at San Francisco April 25, declared last night that America should "use its enormous productive capacity, capital and credit to contribute to higher world living standards."

It was one of the seven cardinal points for an enduring peace which Stassen outlined in an address before the Minnesota United Nations committee.

Points Presented
The seven points were:
1. The continuing organization of the United Nations, based on justice and law and insured by force.
2. The delegation of a limited portion of each nation's sovereignty to the United Nations.
3. The linking of America's future with that of the world.
4. Use of America's enormous productive capacity, capital, and credit to contribute to higher world living standards.
5. Insurance of freedom of speech and free channels of information including press, radio and school.
6. The stripping from aggressors of their means to wage war.
7. Freedom of each nation to determine its own political form of government.

Capacity Great
"One of the most striking facts which has been demonstrated in this war is the enormous productive capacity of America," the former Minnesota governor said in his first public address since entering the navy two years ago. "It has been a huge power for destruction and for victory. It can be an equally great power for world construction and progress after the war if we but lift our eyes to its opportunities and responsibilities and take the necessary steps for world stability."

"This," he said, "will require increased investments by American capital in the resources and facilities of other nations and increased trade with lower tariffs throughout the world. . . . We can either fight over shrinking wealth, or work together to participate in an expanding production and the wealth of the future."

Assistance Needed
He pointed out that vast sums of charitable assistance will be needed in the immediate postwar period, but, he added, "this does not mean a Santa Claus role. Most of the peoples of the world do not want charity beyond the war emergency conditions. They want to be self-reliant."

Stassen described the forthcoming San Francisco conference as "a golden opportunity to win a beachhead in the battle for a just and lasting peace."
His address was devoid of partisan appeal and he served notice that while he had consulted with republican leaders, he considered it his duty to "represent (at San Francisco) my country as a whole as I see its best welfare and to be individually responsible for my actions."

Death Toll Gains In Flooded Area

(By United Press)
Rain-swollen tributaries poured into the twisting Ohio river today, threatening to engulf down-river communities and forcing an ever-increasing torrent of refugees to flee their homes.
The swirling, debris-laden waters rose rapidly below Cincinnati and as far west as Cairo, Ill., with the crest expected in southern Indiana and Kentucky during the week-end. A 47-foot level—15 feet above flood stage—already was registered at Louisville.
Further up the river level appeared to have reached its peak. The rain had ceased, and there was no appreciable rise after midnight.
In all, more than 30,000 families were at the mercy of the sullen Ohio river, on its worst rampage in eight years.

Death Toll Mounts
The death toll had climbed to at least nine in six states, and war production was halted in many mines, mills and factories throughout the devastated area.
From the air, the flooded valley presented a grotesque picture of life at a standstill. Entire communities were under water. Hundreds of freight cars stood idle. Cemeteries were watery wastes with a few gravestones sticking up here and there.
All but one railroad had ceased passenger service to Louisville, where merchants moved their stocks upstairs to escape the water spilling into the city's lower business district.

3 TOES CAUGHT NAPPING
St. Nicholas, Mich. (UP)—Old Three Toes, a cattle-rustling bear which had eluded capture for three years, is dead. The 500-pound black bear was discovered by a farm dog, who led his masters to the bear's winter sleeping place. They returned the next day and killed it with shotguns. The bear was 7 feet, 8 inches long.

Cornett Proposes 4 County Districts

Salem, Ore., March 8 (UP)—Sen. Marshall Cornett of Klamath Falls announced he will introduce today legislation to create a new 25th senatorial district for Deschutes, Crook, Jefferson and Lake counties.

The senate yesterday defeated Cornett's bill to create such a new district, making Klamath county a separate district, and eliminating the 19th district in northeastern Oregon to provide the extra member.

His new procedure will include a joint resolution calling for a vote of the people to amend the constitution and create the 31st district, then a companion bill authorizing the new member to come from the four designated counties in event the constitution is amended.

Support Claimed
Cornett claimed wide support for the new district, on grounds his five-county district comprises about one-fourth of Oregon and has more than 75,000 population, which he termed too large to be represented adequately by one senator.

Space on the senate floor would be unchanged, with the new member taking the present desk of the senate president, who now uses the rostrum and his private office. Cornett added that a 31st member would eliminate tie votes, such as the three day deadlock two years ago on the choice of senate president.

Army Casualties Reach 823,632

Washington, March 8 (UP)—U. S. combat casualties announced here today reached 823,632, an increase of 10,600 over a week ago.
The total included 732,922 army casualties through Feb. 28, as announced by Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, and 90,710 navy, marine corps, and coast guard casualties, as announced by the navy.
