Bend Soldier Has Part in War Against Germans in Po Valley

With the Fifth Army, Italy, March 15—Pvt. Douglas D. Dodge, ammunition handler whose wife, Alice, lives at 361 East Greenwood, Bend, Oregon, is a member of the 631st field artillery battalion now pumping 95 pound howitzer shells into German positions in Italy's Po valley.

On its 440th day in combat, the 631st had fired 132,000 shells at the enemy, or more than 600 tons of metal. The battalion has fought through the Sicilian campaign, been under counterbattery fire coming from three sides and bombing from above at Cassino, fired 3000 rounds in the first day of the Fifth army's spring offensive from the Garigliano river, seized two German depots in one day near Rome, smashed a troop concentration forming for counterattack and hammered holes in the Gustav, Hitler and Gothic lines.

Operating close to its targets, the battalion once sustained casualties simultaneously in all three of its firing batteries. Its big ammunition dump was fired by enemy action recently, but the artillerymen smothered the blaze quickly, saving most of their shells.

The 631st, currently attached to II corps, landed at Casablanca, French Morocco, in February, 1943, as the 2nd battalion of the 77th field artillery regiment.

The battalion went ashore in Sicily July 14, 1943 and began its combat career by engaging small arms positions only a few hundred yards away. The outfit advanced from Palermo to Messina as the campaign moved to its speedy conclusion.

Reorganized in the Cassino area as the 631st field artillery battalion, the outfit entered the Italian campaign by blasting Germans off of Mt. Camino, Mt. Trocchio and Mt. Porchia. From Trocchio, the 631st shelled the hills around Cassino for two months, sustaining fire from the front and both flanks and attacks by Messerschmidts and Focke-Wulfs.

The 631st has had its wire communication lines severed by enemy fire as often as five times in a day and has on occasion utilized its cooks and clerks to bring up ammunition.

Lieutenant Colonel Gerald Chapman, of Andalusia, Alabama, is commanding the battalion in the absence of Lieutenant Colonel Clifton F. von Kann, of Waytona Beach, Florida, temporarily assigned in the United States.

WANTS BRASS RAIL BACK
Sacramento (AP)—Polishing the brass rail with the sole of your foot would be an exclusively male prerogative under terms of a bill now pending before the state legislature. The measure would prohibit women and minors from being served at bars, allowing them to be served only at tables "not less than four feet from the bar."

Stars of Seattle To Battle Eagles

Seattle, March 15 (AP)—With a 2-1 series lead under their belts, the Seattle Stars will battle an invading Portland Eagle six tonight in the fourth game of the current Pacific coast northern division hockey league playoffs.

The Eagles, eager to win the right to meet the league-leading Seattle Ironmen, enter the critical match as the favored team although behind in the series score. The playoffs roll on in Portland tomorrow, and a sixth game will be played here Sunday if necessary.

2 Brothers Meet By Chance in Italy

Madras, March 15 (Special)—Mrs. Thornton Paxton has received a letter from her husband in which he repeated that he had a big surprise one day at "chow" time when his brother, Kreamer, walked in on him. They had two days together "somewhere" in Italy. Kreamer is a member of the coast guard and Thornton is in the infantry. The latter was wounded some time ago and also sent his wife his purple heart award as well as the piece of shrapnel which hit him.

WIFE KEPT MARCHING
Lawrence, Mass. (AP)—Emile Caron sued for divorce, explaining that his wife walked out on him while he was marching in an American Legion parade in 1932, and hasn't returned since then.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatism, pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.
