Feline Freak

Because it is tri-colored, this Chicago kitty, "Camouflage" is a rarity in the feline world. While three-colored females are not unusual, a boy kitty with black, white and yellow markings is a scientific rarity, according to Dr. W. A. Young of the Chicago Anti-Cruelty Society, who is attempting to trace cat's ancestry.

Hagg, Girl Friend Not Yet Married

Chicago, March 20 (AP)—Gunder Hagg, the Swedish distance star, left for Cleveland today and Miss Dorothy Nortier left for her Oakland, Calif., home, still engaged but not married. Hagg said he did not know when they would be wed.

Miss Nortier, who became engaged to the slender Swede two years ago when he visited California, said last week that she expected to marry her fiance within a month, probably in Chicago. But at the end of a week's reunion with her boyfriend today, she made no comment.

SARGE HEAP MIA

Fort Wayne, Ind. (AP)—Sgt. Samuel Morris, a full-blooded Indian stationed at Troop Carrier Command Air Base, Baer Field, got married recently to an Indian girl at his ancestral home, so his buddies decided to help him solve the housing shortage. Under the "apartments wanted" columns in the local papers, they inserted the following ad, "Tepee, suitable for two, with hot and cold running water," and had the bill for the ad sent to the sergeant.

Victory Garden Notes

PLANTING POTATOES
Use of only certified seed potatoes is much more important than seed potato treatment in avoiding crop losses and disappointment, County Agent H. G. Smith advises Deschutes county victory gardeners.

In fact, Smith says that home gardeners may well omit potato seed treatment entirely and in any event they are advised not to attempt to use the cumbersome, tedious and poisonous corrosive sublimate treatment that commercial growers use for control of potato scab and rhizoctonia. Certified seed potatoes have been carefully grown from disease-free seed and have been regularly inspected during the growing season to eliminate diseased hills. Such diseases as mosaic and wilt, which reduce yields to practically nothing are carried in the seed potato itself and cannot be detected by looking at the seed, Smith explains. While treatment may aid the appearance of the resulting crop by controlling scab, the treatment will have no effect on the worst disease from a yield standpoint.

Potatoes may be planted in the home garden as soon as the soil warms up and is dry enough to spade six or eight inches deep without puddling.

Gardening specialists recommend that each seed piece have at least one eye, weigh one and a half or two ounces and be as blocky in shape as possible. Cut seed potatoes may be sprinkled with land plaster, though this is not essential. They should not be exposed to direct sunlight for any length of time and the cut seed never treated with corrosive sublimate.

Potatoes in the home garden are usually planted three to five inches deep, though early potatoes may be planted slightly more shallow than late varieties. Victory garden fertilizer may be used effectively at the rate of 1 1/2 to 2 pounds for every 100 square feet, or one ounce of fertilizer two or three inches to either side and about an inch deeper than the seed piece. Gardeners are cautioned, however, not to place the fertilizer under or against the seed piece.
