Junior Red Cross Production Gets O.K. From San Francisco

Efforts of the Deschutes county chapter of the American Junior Red Cross to supply European children in war-devastated areas with amusement items and comfort articles brought a note of appreciation from Charlotte M. Linfoot, assistant director of the junior organization at the San Francisco office.

The shipments, containing 814 items fashioned by youngsters throughout Deschutes county, arrived in excellent condition, Miss Linfoot's communication revealed, and were marked by the Red Cross inspector as "very good." The toys, bound stories, joke books and crossword puzzles will be forwarded with the next shipment to Europe, she wrote, and emphasizing the need for such items stated in conclusion: "We have already heard from one of our Red Cross workers how much these toys mean to the boys and girls of Europe, and we wish you would express to the Junior Red Cross members of Deschutes county chapter our sincere thanks for the very nice work done on these articles."

Lapboards in Demand
Continuing the work, members of the Junior Red Cross in the Bend high school manual training classes recently completed 24 plywood lapboards and 24 writing boards, reports to Mrs. Richard Brandis, Junior Red Cross chairman, indicated. These articles are earmarked for use in station and general hospitals both abroad and in the continental United States, she said.

Additional plans for summer activities have not been completed, Mrs. Brandis asserted, although it is assumed that a great percentage of Red Cross work will be carried on through summer camp and youth resort channels.
