THE MORALS OF ONE VOTE

President Roosevelt is to be congratulated on his decision to have the United States enter the proposed world assembly with one vote and not to ask the three votes which had been agreed on at the Crimean conference. The announcement, made through Secretary of State Stettinius, will, we are sure, meet with general approval. It is not unlikely, we think, that it was made because of the general disapproval which greeted the disclosure that America's representative at Yalta had insisted on three votes for his country, but this does not alter the fact that the new declaration of policy is a wise one. True, the British commonwealth of nations has put in for three votes, from which it can be argued and has been argued that Great Britain will have triple voting strength. This does not mean, however, that the three votes will be Great Britain's. To a less extent this may also be said in regard to the three votes tentatively allocated to the soviet republics. But for the United States, three would be solely in recognition of this nation's size and strength. All other member nations are to receive one each.

Now, as the president has sensed and announced, this country is ready to take its place in the assembly with a rating equal to and no greater than these others. The world could ask no better evidence that the United States will not attempt to use its strength to dominate the world. If any move on our part may be counted on to replace suspicion with confidence, this renunciation of extra voting power is it.

There will be some criticism, perhaps, of this renuncia-tion. There will be some who will maintain that the United States should relinquish nothing, that it should, on the con-trary, seek immediate control of the world situation. With these thoughts we cannot agree. No one nation can be su-preme. In Germany we have an example of a nation which tried to be. In the assembly the votes of those who believe in us will weigh far more heavily than our own. There will be more cause to believe in us now.

After all the success of the assembly of nations plan, if it is to succeed, will be based on mutual confidence. The issues before it will be moral issues. Their settlement must have its foundation on international morality. The structure of peace and world justice which we hope to build will slide swiftly and destructively from a foundation of mere power.

This is the sort of foundation the United States is now telling the world, that it does not want

On Saturday a small girl, walking through Drake park, was knocked down and badly bruised by a cyclist. We may take it for granted that the boy on the wheel did not intend to run into the child, but it may also be stated that the park walks and paths are intended for pedestrians. Cycling should be confined to streets. Otherwise there may be more accidents, which could easily be more serious. which could easily be more serious.

Report of the finding of Germany's hidden treasure hoard is apparently well authenticated. In case the reader is inclined to be skeptical, however, it may be pointed out that the loot was taken in a salt mine and that he may season to taste.

Hq., 41st Division, the Philippines, April 9 — General Douglas MacArthur has singularly saluted "Oregon's Own" famed 41st Infantry division for its sterling performances to date in the Philippines. It was as it the quiet air had stir-red faintly. The constant presence of danger sharpens one's senses. I was certain that someone had been in the room.

I stood for a moment in the doorway and looked around. Evdoorway and looked around. Everything was just as I had left it. The mystery novel was still on the table by my bed. Yet it seemed that the book had been moved a little so that I got a clearer view of the design on the jacket: the shadowed outline of a hanging corpse.
