Youth Club Notes

By Ruth Ann Terlisner
Is spring beginning to give you that feeling of having a good time? If so, be sure and come to the big spring dance this Saturday. Nan Preede, chairman, announced that decorations will be in tune with spring with flowers and vines. Maureen Lyons announced the program as follows: Cynthia Shevlin and Carol Jean Hook will sing, Bertha Thompson will give a reading, and Helen Hudson will play the piano.

Attention all youth club members! During intermission Saturday night, there will be the most important mass meeting of the year. It is the responsibility of every member to attend. This is our chance to prove we really want a club, so let's be there. One of the main subjects of discussion will be the adoption of the constitution. We must have a constitution if we're going to have a club, therefore, there's only one alternative, and that is to come and vote. Remember, Saturday night during intermission!

It's time to pay dues again, so be sure and get in touch with Shirley Blakely about yours. Let's see if we can get them all paid up this week.

The W's are asked to clean the club Saturday morning as decorations will be put up for the dance in the afternoon.

Last summer scrapbooks were given to two girls to keep up for the youth club. All information to their whereabouts has been lost. It would be very much appreciated if these girls would get in touch with one of the present council members.

Schnur Family All in Service

Word has been received by Mrs. Anna Schnur, 1036 East Fourth street, of the entrance of her granddaughter into the Cadet Nurse corps. This places in uniform every member of one of the Schnur families.

Formerly of Bend, Mrs. Schnur's son, Capt. James F. Schnur, of the regular army, is now serving in the west Pacific with a signal corps battalion.

Capt. Schnur was a resident of Bend for five years, following his discharge from the army in 1920, after serving more than four years in the Philippines. He returned to the service in 1927 and has been a member of the U. S. army since that time, serving on both the east and west coasts, in Panama, and at Honolulu.

Mrs. Schnur, wife of Capt. Schnur, is the former Doris Miller of Bend. She is chairman of the home service department of the Red Cross chapter in Colton, Calif., in which capacity she has served for the past two years.

James F. Jr., S. 1/c, son of Capt. and Mrs. Schnur, is now stationed in San Pedro, Calif., at the United States coast guard repair base. He was recently transferred from the ship on which he served for 19 months, seeing action first at Empress Augusta bay. The young seaman wears three ribbons and two stars.

Miss Anna Schnur, the granddaughter and namesake of Mrs. Anna Schnur, is the daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Schnur. Miss Schnur was graduated from the Colton union high school in June 1943, at which time she was awarded a life membership in the California Scholarship federation, and received a four-year scholarship to the University of Redlands, Redlands, Calif. Attending this university for three semesters, Miss Schnur then transferred to the University of California at Berkeley, where she completed her pre-nursing training in February of this year, receiving her degree of associate of arts and letters. She is a member of Alpha Delta Tau. Miss Schnur is taking her cadet training at the California hospital in San Francisco, after which time she will receive her degree of bachelor of science from the University of California, and will enter the United States army nurse corps.

Relatives of Capt. Schnur's family living in Bend are his mother, Mrs. Anna Schnur, and two sisters, Mrs. Robert K. Innes and Mrs. Joseph G. Mack.

Boys From Foxholes Visiting Senate Find Six Solons Present

By Frederick C. Othman (United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, April 11 (AP)—Stay on the job, senators, or we taxpayers might dock you whenever you sneak out. You hear that? We might cut your pay.

I wouldn't be writing this, except for the fact that a number of lawmakers walked out when Sen. Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin joined Sen. Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky in denouncing them for playing hooky.

It was a pretty spring day. I will say that, too nice for listening to speeches. Barkley made a speech, anyhow, in which he said his friends on both sides of the aisle were guilty of chronic absenteeism. The chamber was peppered with empty seats; a few more seats emptied before Barkley finished. The boys then began debating the lend-lease bill.

LaFollette took a look around the room later, saw more red leather than senatorial faces, and demanded time to make a speech. Several senators sneaked out without discovering that he intended to talk about them.

"We must remember that this is the show room of the U. S. senate," he cried. "The other day I saw 25 or 30 army privates in uniform, with service bars on their chests, in the gallery. There were six senators present by actual count. I couldn't help but wonder what impression these young men from the foxholes got of the U. S. senate."

LaFollette recommended three things:

1. Docking of senators' salaries whenever they are absent without permission.

2. Forcing them to get permission when they leave.

3. An end to the practice of counting them present when they're off some place else, maybe getting a pedicure.

"Not that I think it is necessary for them to act as though they were in the fifth grade at school and had to get permission to get out of the door," LaFollette added.

Several more senators walked out without holding up their hands. Sen. Wallace H. White, Jr., of Maine said he agreed it was high time that the senate do something to restore the public's respect for senators.

"And I remember once when I was serving in the house," Barkley interrupted. "We were having a great deal of trouble getting a quorum and we adopted a rule to deduct the pay of the absent ones."

"You should have seen the trains on the way back to Washington! They were crowded with congressmen."

LaFollette thanked the gentleman from Kentucky for his observation and continued: "Take this morning when this session opened. There were 32 members in the chamber when it was announced that 39 were here. I think that if we got the senators into the chamber at the opening of the session they might
