

Dumbarton Oaks Circular Ready

A concise explanation of the Dumbarton Oaks plan which will be discussed at the coming San Francisco conference is contained in O. S. C. extension circular 457, "United Nations Proposals for World Security," now available at the Deschutes county extension office.

The circular explains in understandable language the major points that will be considered by the United Nations, according to County Agent Howard C. Smith. It is intended to stimulate study of the plan and to encourage formulation of public opinion about the proposals. It reviews the major points for and against the plan.

Written by Dr. U. G. Dubach, head of the political science department at Oregon State college, the leaflet has been issued by the extension service as a contribution to better understanding on the part of rural people of the plans under consideration for world peace.

Objectives Discussed

"While the main objective of this proposed world organization is to outlaw war, inevitably there will be many other results, economic and social," the circular introduction points out. "These include effects on national employment, markets for farm production, and world trade. This is probably the greatest question ever brought before the American people for decision. Because of the social and economic implications, farm and rural people should have thorough understanding of the issues involved."

The circular will be distributed to leaders of farm and rural groups in Deschutes county with a suggestion that it provide some of the subject matter for a discussion of this important question, County Agent Smith says. At the same time, copies are available free of charge to anyone who wants one.

Arnold Evans, who has been digging a well in his yard by hand, has struck solid rock sixty feet down. Although several times he has struck water, it was not of sufficient quantity to furnish water for the family. Andy Suhre, who drilled a well at his gravel pit last year, went through 60 feet of solid rock, but the ledge was only nine feet from the surface. Evans believes this is the ledge he has struck.

Fred Shepard accompanied George Billingsley of Cloverdale to Portland Monday morning where the two men who are representing The Central Oregon Farm Supply were to meet with State Grange Co-op officials.

Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Anderson moved Sunday from the Livesey ranch in Plainview, which they have been operating, to the J. Ferril ranch, rented by S. L. Hall. Anderson plans to work for Hall.

Roy Kirby of Redmond was a dinner guest a week ago Monday at the S. L. Hall home.

Waves Entertain Overseas Veterans

Walla Walla, Wash., April 18 (AP)—It isn't every wounded army overseas veteran who gets entertained by Waves in a naval hospital while enroute between army hospitals.

But that was the experience of 14 soldiers aboard an army transport plane from San Francisco to Walla Walla. The plane developed engine trouble and came down at the Klamath naval air station at Klamath Falls.

While a substitute plane was arriving, the soldiers were made at home in the naval dispensary and Waves arranged a social hour.

Four Oregonians shared the unexpected interlude—Sgt. Elmer W. Lager of Astoria, 1st Lt. Fred H. Gisse of Salem, Pfc. Clarence Shepard of Prineville and Sgt. C. B. Rose of Tillamook.

Three promising insecticides, developed to replace or supplement the supply of rotenone and pyrethrum, are DDT, ground Mexican sabadilla seed with lime as an activator, and an abstract from Rynania, a South American shrub.

Nips Start Production of New Suicide Plane; Ships Attacked

(Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced last Friday that the Japanese were using suicide pilots in an attempt to sink American warships. The following dispatch from an American air base town in China tells for the first time the scale of the Japanese suicide attacks and the enemy's plan for the future of this weapon.)

By Albert Ravenholt
(United Press War Correspondent)

Kunming, China, April 18 (UP)—Reliable sources said today that the Japanese have begun large-scale production of a new type suicide plane which may prove more damaging in some respects than Germany's vaunted V-bombs.

The planes will replace the more expensive regular combat planes which Japanese suicide pilots have been loading with explosives and crashing into American warships.

The new planes, now under construction in Manchuria, carry a long ton of explosives—2,240 pounds—built into their nose like a torpedo warhead.

The pilot sits in the center of the plane, which is a pusher type with propeller in the rear. It was designed to have a cruising speed of 400 miles an hour and a diving speed of 600 miles an hour.

taking a special submarine course at New London Conn., writes his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Grubb, that he will complete the course in another four weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Davis have named their son, Darrell Lewis.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Trueax who have been visiting in Bend the past week from their home at Weiser, Idaho, where Treaux is a bus driver, attended the dance at Tumalo Saturday evening. They are returning to their home this week.

Nell Davis returned home April 10 for an indefinite stay as he was placed on inactive duty, subject to 24-hour call, at San Diego where he was sworn into the naval air corps combat division earlier this month.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Young and Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Hall of Plainview grange, attended the dance at Tumalo Saturday evening.

The planes explode when either the nose or a wing touches a solid object.

The suicide pilots normally are Japanese, though a few Chinese puppets also are being trained. They are given six months' training and a final three-month leave before taking off on their final mission.

The pilots are locked into the cockpit from the outside before the takeoff and carry no parachute. The wheels automatically drop away after the plane leaves the ground.

Unable either to bale out or land the plane without exploding it, the pilot is doomed even before he dives on his assigned objective.

After the takeoff, reliable sources said, a suicide pilot circles the field three times while the entire personnel of the base stands at attention and salutes.

The pilots usually are sent against battleships and aircraft carriers.

Though the suicide fliers normally are volunteers, the high command of the Japanese air force is said to have earmarked certain pilots as a reserve to be locked in the torpedo planes in the event of a shortage.

"Astoria is fortunate to have PP&L electric service here"

says Randall Reed, Astoria Business Man

"It's a good thing for Astoria (or any other city, for that matter) to be served by a company like Pacific Power & Light—a company with resources and organization to meet not only the day-to-day requirements of a growing community, but one that can meet every emergency as well.

"Like hundreds of Astorians, I can remember the disastrous fire of 1922. That happened on December 8th. PP&L was right on the job, and the very next day, before the ashes had cooled, electric service had been restored over temporary facilities.

"I well remember when PP&L was organized—in 1910. Right away, electric service was improved here and rates lowered. Since then we've had many more rate reductions.

"Yes, we're mighty fortunate to be served by such an enterprising business organization—one that pays its own way, stays on the job, and meets every regular need and every emergency too."

Randall Reed is the son of Captain Granville Reed, early-day river pilot, who came to Astoria in 1862. His maternal grandparents came to Oregon across the plains—to Salem, and a few years later moved to Astoria.

The house in which Mr. Reed was born is still standing on the corner of Third and Bond Streets. He has memories of many unique experiences in the old Astoria, when much of the city was built on stilts over the water, and the boys fished through cracks in the Main Street sidewalks.

Often he rode with his father on Columbia River steamboats, and still remembers the thrill of seeing the steamer "Hassalo" shoot the rapids at Cascade Locks in 1888. He also rode on the first railroad train to travel between Astoria and Portland, an excursion trip in 1897 of the Astoria and Columbia River Railroad—winning the trip by selling souvenir badges to excursionists.

Mr. Reed went to work in 1899 in the Peterson & Brown Shoe Store. After the Astoria fire, he and Albert Grimberg started the present Reed & Grimberg Shoe Store in a tiny building on Exchange Street. Later they established their modern store at its present location on Commercial Street.
