

Western States Governors Meet, Discuss Problems

Reno, Nev., April 20 (AP)—Gov. E. P. Carville opened a three-day conference of western states governors today by pledging 100 per cent support to President Truman.

Carville said he hoped that through the conference the governors could "bring a picture" of western problems before President Truman that he might "appreciate and fully understand our postwar problems and opportunities."

On that score, Gov. John J. Dempsey of New Mexico, declared that absentee ownership of land is strangling western development and should be a prime consideration in postwar planning.

Federally owned western land, purchased for war industries and bombing ranges, should revert to the original owners, Dempsey added.

Carville emphasized that freight rates and other transportation problems should be adjusted fairly to permit full development of natural resources.

Great opportunities for western industries spring from the nature of western economic resources, he said, urging just treatment without special privilege in competition for domestic and world markets.

"Coming from the west of the Mississippi river, it is reasonable to assume that President Truman will have a keen appreciation of our western problems and will view them in the light of the greatest future development and progress," Carville concluded.

Gov. Earl Warren of California spoke to the group on "the nation's stake in western manufacturing from western materials." Gov. Herbert B. Maw of Utah discussed "the western steel industry."

The west coast is "the logical work shop" for processing materials which will come from Pacific lands and Alaska under the impetus of postwar trade expansion, Warren told the conference.

He said the United States can develop "a tremendous two-way trade" with China, India and other lands which will maintain "our vast newly created merchant marine" and air transport.

The western states and Alaska, comprising more than half the area under the government of the United States, are "a new national value awaiting exploitation," he said.

Betty Grable in Blackface!

Recognize the "doll" on bandsman Harry James' knees? It's none other than the "missus"—America's No. 1 pin-up girl, Betty Grable, made up in blackface for role in her newest picture, "The Dolly Sisters." Note the usually gorgeous Grable gams in cotton hose.

William Marsden Reaches Mainland

William Marsden, carpenter's mate 2/c, who recently thrilled a group of friends and relatives with a trans-Pacific telephone call to his wife in Redmond, has reached the states and is being sent directly to a naval hospital in the vicinity of San Francisco, according to word received today by his sister, Mrs. Ken. C. Gulick.

Mrs. Marsden and daughter, Marjorie, upon receiving a telegram yesterday from Marsden, left immediately for San Francisco.

News that Marsden was being sent to a hospital was the first intimation that he might have been wounded or was ill, according to Mrs. Gulick. Marsden spent one night with another sister in Oakland, Calif., upon arriving in this country, Mrs. Gulick stated.

N. L. R. B. Hearing Is Held in Bend

A hearing to determine whether an election will be granted to employees of The Shevlin-Hixon Company for the purpose of designating a bargaining agency, was conducted here today at the courthouse by John E. Hedvick of the national labor relations board, from Seattle. Hedvick was slated to hear witnesses and decide whether the election should be granted. The hearing was urged by the American Federation of Labor, which represented that many of the mill workers would prefer the A. F. of L. to the C. I. O. which now is the bargaining agent.

Initiation Plans Made by Veterans

Plans for a record-breaking initiation of candidates, set for May 19, were completed last night at a meeting of the Percy A. Stevens Post, No. 4, of the American Legion, in the veterans' room at the courthouse. Because of the expected large class of prospective members, the Legion made arrangements to hold the initiation in the grange hall at Carroll Acres.

Besides planning for the initiation, the Legionnaires also decided to reorganize a softball league, the manager of which is to be selected later. A large number of veterans of both world wars attended last night's gathering.
