Fuel shortage in Switzerland is acute because German coal is no longer available, local anthracite can not meet demands, and peat production in 1944 was 40 per cent less than in the preceding years.

A new American standard for sound level meters, used for measuring the intensities of noise and other sounds in order to evaluate their relative effect on the ear, has been approved by the American Standards association.

WEALTH OF THE WEST

Hydroelectric Power With the world's mightiest power dams creating hydroelectric energy from the inexhaustible flow of mighty rivers, this West is the Power-House of the nation. With its rich, varied natural resources and low-cost plentiful power, economists predict that it will lead the world in diversified manufacturing, particularly in light metals and plastics. During the war, the hydroelectric power of this region has led to the establishment of West Coast aluminum plants with a production double that of the entire nation before Pearl Harbor. In the post-war period, regional planning commissions estimate that this territory can support in luxury three times its present population with all its mills, mines, factories, farms and homes electrically powered, lighted, and heated at the world's lowest rates. Hydroelectric Power is the key to the West's fullest development and prosperity.
