

4 Major Places In School Setup Are Now Filled

Prineville, May 1 (Special) — With the selection of Edwin H. Fitch for high school principal to succeed Dallas W. Norton, the four major positions in the Prineville school system have been filled, announced LaSelle Coles, chairman of the county unit board.

A short time ago Cecil M. Sly of Weston was named successor to superintendent R. H. McAtee. Lloyd E. Lewis, transferred from the Powell Butte school, replaces David Slaley in the main grade school and R. H. McAtee will be principal of the new grade school in West Prineville. All four of the incumbents resigned this spring.

Member Of Staff
Fitch, a native of Wyoming is at present industrial arts instructor in the Crook county high school, coming here this year from the drafting department of the University of Wyoming. For 2½ years he held the position of draftsman in the quartermaster corps at Fort Warren, Wyoming. Fitch took his B. A. degree at the University of Wyoming and his degree of M. S. in education at U.S.C. He has done further graduate work at U. of C., Berkeley, Santa Barbara State college, and Colorado State Agricultural school. Fitch has done high school coaching and teaching at Gillette, Wyoming, and was for a time superintendent of schools at Baggs, Wyoming. His educational career has been a versatile one having taught in almost all departments except languages.

Meeting Called
A special board meeting was called Friday for a conference with architect C. N. Freeman of Portland on plans and specifications for the new school building. The board approved the name "Ochoco school" for the new building. This name was proposed by a committee composed of Mrs. Guy Powell, representing the Prineville-Crook county chamber of commerce, C. A. Downie of the Lions club, and Paul Breesse from the Junior chamber of commerce. A call for bids on $135,000 of bonds for construction of the first unit of the new building has been issued. Bids will be opened by the board on Saturday, May 5.

Cigarets Now Verboten for Nazis in U. S. POW Camps

By Frederick C. Othman
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, May 1 (UP)—Now we have German prisoners of war anointing themselves with perfumed skin oils and bringing out the glister in their hair with bottled shampoos deluxe. No cracks, customers, please, until you've read on: "Sure they get this stuff," said Brig. Gen. B. M. Bryan, the hard-boiled, bald-as-billiard-ball boss of the 400,000 prisoners now in America. "They get their funny items, too, like ash trays, and cigar and cigaret holders. "We sell the German these things. We're glad to do it. He buys 'em out of his 80 cents a day earnings. The more money he spends (for what the general obviously considers junk), the less he takes back later to Germany and the better we like it."

Gen. Bryan was testifying before the house military affairs committee about our treatment of war prisoners. The members pelted him with questions about Easter ham for Germans and beer and cigarettes; Nazi salutes and celebrations of der Adolf's birthday. "I thought I'd get that ham question," said the general when Rep. Charles R. Clason of Mass., brought it up. "They got one ham. It was one that had been rejected by the army. It was old and it was salty. They were lucky to get it."

The general went on to say that he'd been trying to live up to the Geneva convention about giving prisoners the same treatment that American soldiers get. Here lately, he said, the rules have been toughened. A week or so ago cigarettes and cigars were made verboten for Germans. Gen. Bryan said those pretty cigaret holders wouldn't do 'em much good, unless they were experts at rolling their own. (The army still lets 'em buy tobacco.) It used to be that German prisoners gave the Nazi salute when ever they did any saluting. Rep. Walter G. Andrews of New York said he'd spent three or four aft-

Dr. Paul Needham To Speak in Bend

Dr. Paul Needham, biologist for the state game commission, has accepted an invitation to address the Deschutes County Sportsmen's association at its next regular meeting on May 28. Don Peoples, association secretary reported this morning that less than two hours after a resolution inviting Dr. Needham had been passed by the association last night arrangements had been completed. Dr. Needham, formerly biologist for the California game department, author of scientific books on fish propagation and thoroughly trained in every phase of fish culture, has gained nationwide recognition as an authority on game fish propagation. As head of the biological department of the Oregon state game commission he will have many interesting stories to tell to local sportsmen, club officers say. It is expected that Frank B. Wire, state game commissioner, will also accept an invitation to attend the same meeting and show motion pictures of wild life and fish in Oregon.

Ickes May Take Over Coal Mines

Washington, May 1 (UP)—Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes said after a conference with President Truman today that he was prepared to take over strike-bound Pennsylvania hard coal mines. Ickes conferred with Truman about 25 minutes. He did not say when he expected to take over the mines but indicated he was ready to move instantly. The strike resulted from a failure of anthracite operators and the United Mine workers to agree on a wage-hour contract to replace the one which expired last midnight. Some 72,000 miners adhered to traditional UMW policy of "no contract, no work." Ickes took the hard coal issue to the White House as union spokesmen in New York said UMW President John L. Lewis would not personally attend a meeting here today to which he

$2 BILL COLLECTION STOLEN

Fort Worth, Tex. (UP)—W. O. Compton has decided the old superstition that $2 bills are unlucky is correct. His hobby, until recently, was collecting $2 bills. He had about a hundred of them in a strong box in his restaurant. Burglars who entered through a hole in the roof, cut for a ventilating fan, damaged a new and empty $500 cash register beyond repair—and then took the strong box containing the $2 bills.

Molotov Plans To Leave U. S., Delegates Hear

Urgent Duties in Home Capital May Force Red Chief to Quit Big Parley

San Francisco, May 1 (UP)—Soviet foreign commissar V. M. Molotov is expected to return shortly to Moscow, it was learned today, but the decision was attributed to the imminent end of the European war rather than conference disputes with the American and British.

The exact date of Molotov's departure is expected to be fixed within the next 24 hours.

British foreign secretary Anthony Eden, who is under similar pressure to get back to London, will stay in San Francisco at least two weeks more, it was understood, and probably through the duration of the conference.

Stay Is Brief
It was learned that Molotov indicated when he came to the United States that his stay must necessarily be very brief. Some quarters said he had already stayed here longer than he originally planned.

The impending departure of Molotov cast an air of urgency over conference deliberations. Although delegates have been here a week, the organization of the commissions and committees which will do the actual work is only being accomplished today.

It was regarded as imperative that as much work as possible be accomplished before Molotov leaves since, if past experience is any precedent, Russian decisions will have to be referred back to Moscow on all controversial questions after he goes. This, it was noted, might drag out the conference indefinitely.

Many other European delegates are equally eager to get back to their home countries where problems of rehabilitation and re-organization await their urgent attention.

Amendments Due

It was learned that: 1—The United States will present to the conference 16 amendments to the Dumbarton Oaks plan for world organization. They will be made public as soon as they have been delivered to the other sponsoring governments.

As an answer to reporters that Molotov was packing his bags "in a huff" over the Argentine decision, it was stated authoritatively that at a big four meeting last night in Stettinius' apartment, Molotov showed no indication of
