Committee on Bible Teaching Plans Survey for Next Week

The committee on Bible instruction in the public schools of Bend, is to conduct a survey in the grade schools from the second through the sixth grades on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, it was announced today.

The committee has prepared a letter to the parents and attached to that letter is a form for their reply. "It is hoped by this survey that at least 75 per cent of the children in these grades will secure permission from their parents to receive Bible instruction on released time during the school year of 1945-46," the committee said. The announcement of the survey states:

"This Bible instruction is being sponsored by several of the Protestant churches in a united effort. It is similar in plan to that which has been carried on for 18 years in Eugene and for shorter periods of time in other cities of Oregon. The financial cost of the Bible instruction is to be borne by the churches on a per capita basis. The classes are to be conducted in public school rooms on released time, giving each pupil one hour of Bible instruction each week, classes being conducted in the third to the seventh grades. "The committee is anxious that the parents give immediate attention to this request for information, so that the survey figures may be available the last of the week for a meeting of the representatives of the various churches. Eighty per cent of the pupils were thus reached in an enrollment canvass in other cities of Oregon. The purpose of the survey is to enable the faculty administrators to plan the class schedules for next year.

"The Bible instruction will be on a non-demonstrational basis, and will cover the life of the Lord Jesus and studies of other Bible characters, dealing with the geography and history of the Holy Land.

"Persons desiring additional information may secure it through their pastors or one of the officers of the committee, which consists of L. Rees Brooks, chairman; Mrs. Paul Smith, secretary, and Superintendent of Schools Howtime, giving each pupil one hour of Bible instruction each week, classes being conducted in the third to the seventh grades.
