Advertisement for Superin. Features an image of the product box and the text: 'New Analgesic Tablet now released to public (Pain Relief). Thousands find it gives quicker, safe relief from headache—from pains of sinus, neuritis, neuralgia and arthritis. FOR MANY YEARS aspirin has been accepted by both the medical profession and the public as a safe, sure way to relieve pain. But many people who had complete confidence in aspirin did not find it gave as quick relief from blinding, maddening pain as they hoped for. Hence, in desperation they sometimes turned to other remedies less well proved. To meet this situation a group of medical research men set out to see what could be done to speed up the analgesic or "pain-killing" action of aspirin—to make it bring their patients quicker relief, without heart or stomach upset. Out of these researches came a really new kind of analgesic tablet, a combination of aspirin and calcium glutamate. In this new tablet, aspirin does its old, safe job of relieving pain. But through its combination with calcium glutamate, extensive tests by physicians showed it gave most people both quicker relief and greater relief from pain. After this extensive testing and use by members of the medical profession as a prescription remedy, this new analgesic tablet has now been released for non-prescription sale by every druggist. It is called Superin (from super-aspirin). You can get its blessed, quick relief from pain by asking your druggist for a bottle today—30 tablets for 39c. Ask for Superin—Super-in.
