BRANDIS THRIFT-WISE DRUG War Cost Data Go Into Trillion Washington, May 31 (AP)—Direct war costs of all countries so far in this conflict exceed a trillion dollars. That is $1,000,000,000—a thousand billions, a million millions. Money spent on this war since Germany began arming in 1934 would, if divided up, give more than $500 to every man, woman and child in the world. Researchers of the American university here came up with these estimates today after months of study. In the goat family, a good doe produces in a single lactation period milk weighing ten times her own average weight.
