

Chinese Students Would Oust Reds

Chungking, Feb. 21 (AP)—More than 10,000 students and 1,500 professors and teachers from 17 schools struck today in a demand for immediate withdrawal of Russian troops from Manchuria.

Bitterly charging the Russians had violated the Chinese-Soviet friendship treaty, the students hoisted banners saying, "we won't hesitate to fight another war."

This was the first time since the Japanese seizure of Manchuria in 1931 that a patriotic movement had developed among students on such a scale.

Manifesto Issued
The students issued a "manifesto to the world" setting out their opinions on the Manchurian situation.

These stipulated that Russia strictly carry out terms of the treaty; opposition to any new Russian demands beyond the treaty; immediate withdrawal of Russian troops; return of material looted from Manchuria; strict observance of cease-fire terms in Manchuria by the communist party and that the government announce actual conditions in Manchuria.

The students urged that all parties "forget their selfish interests and unite to carry the nation through the new national crisis."
