AFL Convention

J. T. Labor; education, May Darling; ways and means, C. W. Cray; officers' reports, Henry Newcomb; rules of order, Don Ryan; grievances, Frank Easterdahl, and audit, W. C. Oxford.

Reading of resolutions was scheduled for this afternoon and tomorrow. The proposed state sales tax will be discussed tomorrow morning together with other matters of legislative policy, according to S. Eugene Allen, chairman of the committee on law and legislation. He predicted almost unanimous opposition to the tax. Allen, who is the son of County judge and Mrs. C. L. Allen, is editor of the Oregon Labor Press.

Delegates Welcomed
Clarence Briggs, business agent of the Central Oregon lumber and sawmill workers, opened the convention and welcomed the delegates to Bend. The invocation was pronounced by Rev. K. A. Tobias and Mayor G. W. McCann made a welcoming address. Police chief K. C. Gulick and Jack Halbrook, president of the Bend chamber of commerce, likewise welcomed the delegates to this area. County judge Allen gave a welcome on behalf of Deschutes county.

Veto Requested
By unanimous vote the convention of the Oregon State Federation of Labor asked President Truman to veto the Taft-Hartley bill. Text of the federation's communication to the president follows: "Oregon State Federation of Labor, assembled in annual convention at Bend, Oregon, earnestly requests that you veto the Taft-Hartley bill. Oregon Labor and Oregon employers have demonstrated by years of practice that the way to industrial peace is through voluntary bargaining by management and labor, and not through coercive legislation. The Oregon way will prove effective if applied on a national scale. Your veto of this measure will be vindicated by coming events."

Weston Speaker
Ed Weston, president of the Washington State Federation of Labor, was guest speaker at the Oregon federation convention this morning. He outlined the legislative progress that the AFL unions have made in the state of Washington and urged strict adherence to a non-partisan political policy. He questioned the wisdom and effectiveness of making political endorsements but urged labor unionists to "defeat their enemies."

Weston recommended that AFL labor movements in the eleven western states join forces in the establishment of a Washington, D. C. office to protect and promote the interests of labor unions as well as the communities in the west.

Robert E. Isham Heart Victim

Robert E. Isham, 46, a resident of Bend for over 15 years, died yesterday in Portland, where he had lived since 1945. He suffered a sudden heart attack, according to information received by local relatives. Crematory services were being arranged, and a memorial service will be held later at the local Pentecostal church.

Mr. Isham and his wife, the former Jean Lakin, of Bend, moved to Portland several years ago, shortly after their marriage. He was operating a boat building business there. He came to Bend in about 1927, and was employed by Brooks-Scanlon, Inc., as a worker in the box factory.

He leaves two daughters and a son, Mrs. Walter Marken, Mrs. Charles Sullivan and Robert E. Isham, Jr., all of Bend. They were planning to leave today for Portland, to attend the services.

Other survivors include his mother, Mrs. Elna Isham, of Portland; two sisters, Mrs. Vernon Taylor, of Seattle, and Louise Stewart, of San Diego, and a brother, Charles, of Vancouver.

Recent Visitor To Oregon Dead

Anel Kitterman, 72, brother of Mrs. Ola Denton Clover and John H. Kitterman, both of Bend, died Sunday at 8 p. m. at his home in Ottumwa, Iowa. He had been learned here. He had come to Bend May 2, for his third visit in three years with his brother and sister, and shortly afterward suffered a paralytic stroke. Relatives from Iowa joined him here and accompanied him to his home two weeks later. He leaves two sons, Robert and Maurice, both of Ottumwa.

Mr. Kitterman was born in the Iowa town where he spent most of his life. He operated a farm, before retiring several years ago. He was a member of the Masonic lodge. Funeral arrangements were pending.
