Welfare Costs To Show Increase

Reinstatement of clothing allowances in September will substantially increase the cost of public welfare in Deschutes county, partly making up recent drastic cuts, Miss Olive Jameson, county welfare administrator, told the commission at its regular monthly meeting last night. Also present at the meeting were W. C. Coyner, chairman; Mrs. B. A. Stover, J. R. Roberts, of Redmond, Judge C. L. Allen, Commissioner E. E. Varco and O. W. Grubb.

Total welfare costs for the county in July were $10,127.48 for 256 cases, compared to $12,031.33 for 261 cases in June, Miss Jameson reported. The break-down of costs last month shows that $2,464.48 was spent for 58 cases of general assistance; $5,918 for 190 cases of old age assistance; $63 for two cases of aid to the blind, and $1,682 for 22 cases of aid to dependent children.

This month the allowance for old age assistance was reduced to $5,761 for 182 cases. The aid to dependent children program was allowed $1651 for 22 cases, and two blind-aid cases were allocated $63.

Strike Holds Up Liner America

New York, Aug. 21 (AP)—Crewmen of the liner America, flagship of the United States Lines, walked off the ship at 2:30 p. m. (EDT) today, one and one-half hours before scheduled sailing time, in a sympathy move supporting longshoremen who had refused to load the vessel.

Approximately 450 of the 637 men in the crew left after the company had sent office workers and officers of other ships to the pier in an effort to sail the vessel. Passengers remained aboard the ship, awaiting developments.

The U. S. Lines had announced earlier that the nation's largest luxury liner would sail at 4 p. m., one day behind schedule because of the "wildcat" longshoremen's strike.

Delicatessen Artist Gay Amid Salami

New York (AP)—Walter Phillips, a sad-eyed waiter in the Fifty-eighth Street Delicatessen, neatly aligned the mustard pot and salt and pepper shakers on the cracked marble-topped table and looked up at the paintings on the wall.

Those paintings were Phillips' first art show and even though the salami and bologna in the delicatessen did not provide as impressive an atmosphere as perhaps would have prevailed in a dealer's gallery, Phillips was proud of the display.

Phillips, a former actor and vaudevillian, looked at the fourteen paintings, brilliant circus clowns and skyline scenes of Manhattan, and said he felt he had achieved his artistic goal.

For two years, he explained, he had painted moody pictures. A year ago he switched to the gay clowns and soon began to feel he had struck the medium best suited for him.

"No, we have no limburger and sandwiches," Phillips said gently to a customer, then returned to his favorite topic. "It came out of nowhere, almost overnight, this urge to paint gaiety...."

"I won the bet, too," Evans said, as he turned and walked into the house.

Meat Supply Cut By Midwest Hear

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 21 (AP)—The nation's store of meat for marketing next winter is being cut every day the drought continues in the midwest, experts in three corn-belt states said today.

Every hot, rainless day is reducing the nation's chances for a good corn crop, they said, and forcing cattle and lamb feeders and hog raisers to trim their programs to fit the expected supply of feed.

In some of the heaviest feeding areas farmers plan to feed only half as many cattle this fall as last year. Many will market fed cattle at lighter weights.

The fall pig crop will be slashed considerably because sows bred for fall farrowing, are going to market now in large numbers, according to secretary-treasurers of production credit associations in Iowa, eastern Nebraska and eastern South Dakota.
